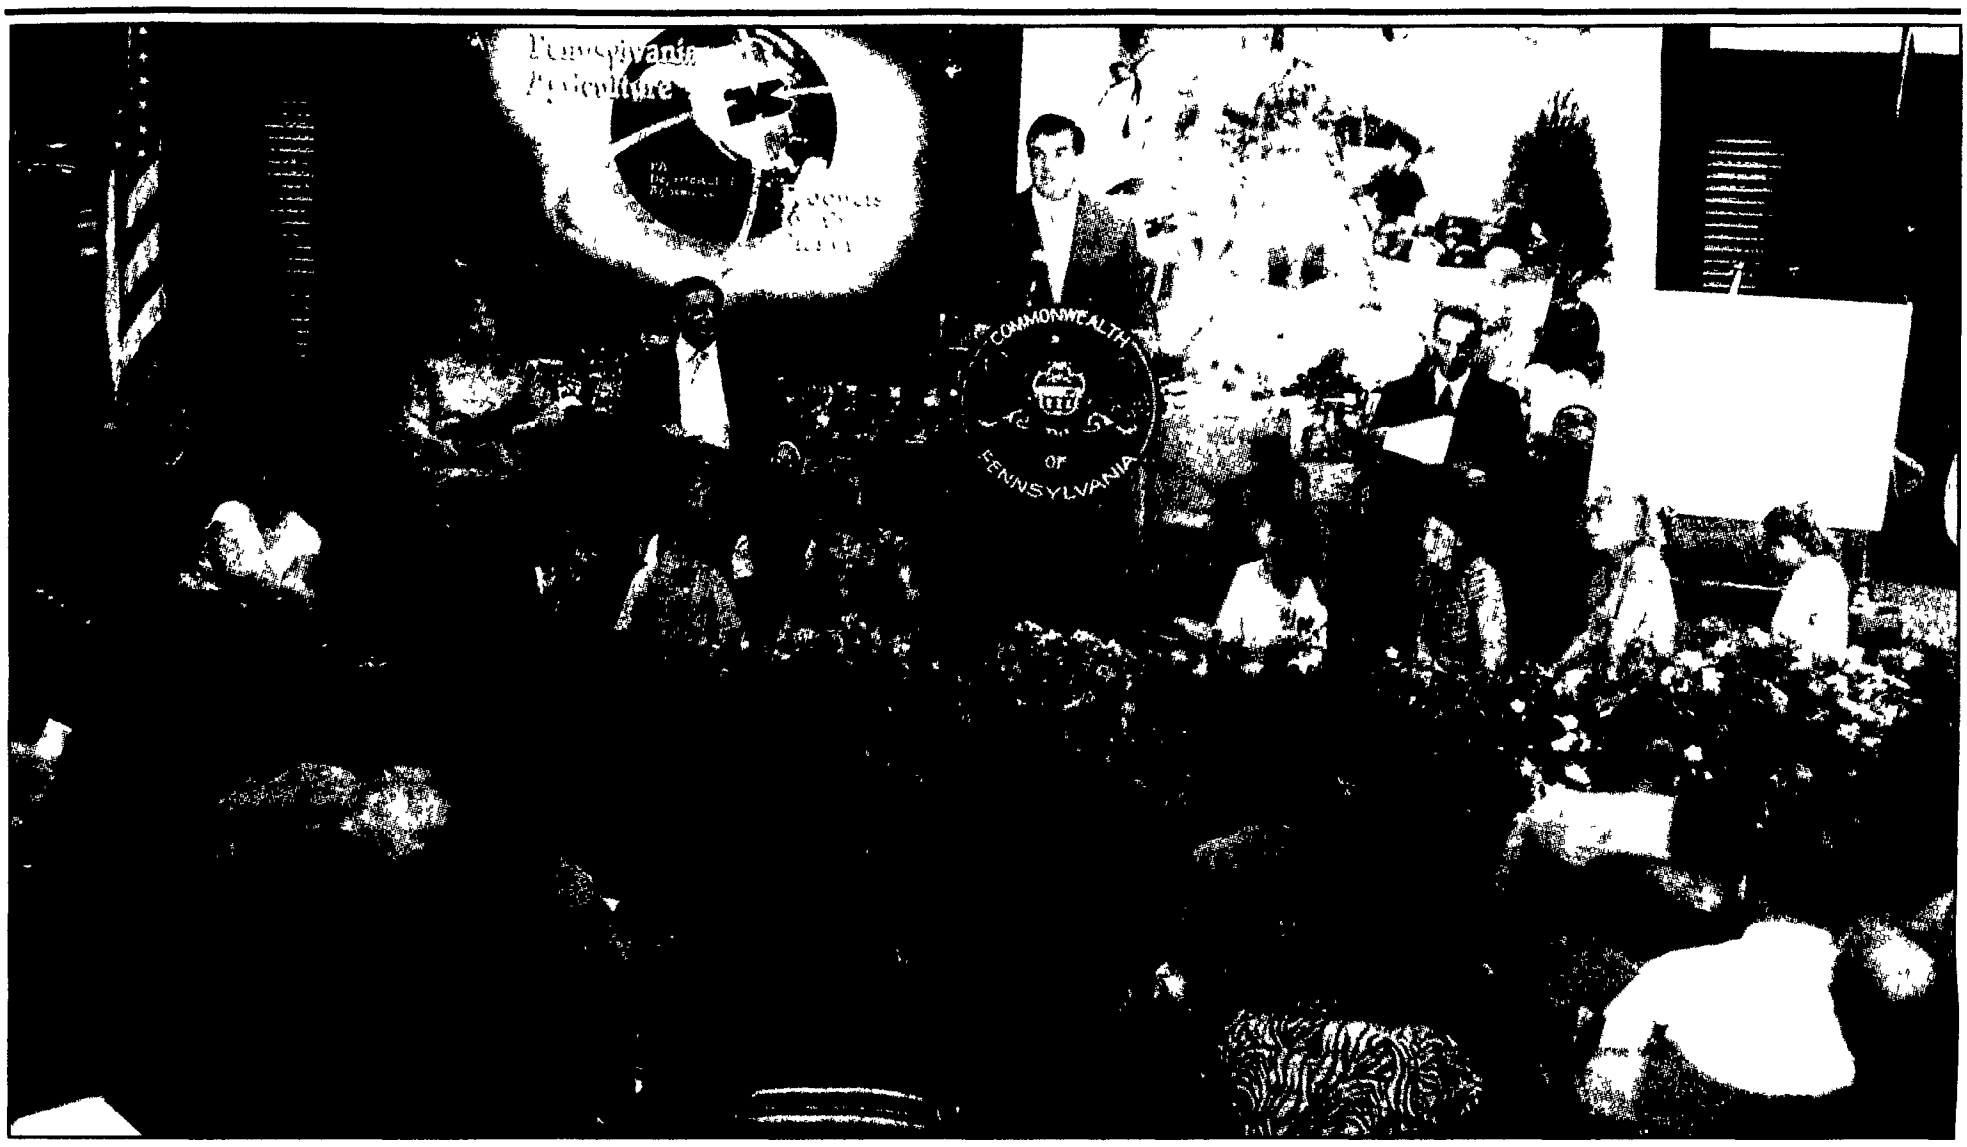
Vol. 45 No. 41 | Six Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 12, 2000 | $32.00 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy



Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Ridge announces the largest-ever state capital investement in agriculture to a cheering crowd in the small arena of the Farm Show Complex Wednesday morning. The total of $90 million for three major projects -- the Farm Show Complex, Penn's Vet School, and PDA's Livestock Center -- will be taken from the Pennsylvania general fund. Therefore, no bonds will need to be floated and taxpayers will save $50 million in interest. With the governor on stage are from left, Judith Rodin, president, University of Pennsylvania; Stephen Reed, Harrisburg mayor; and Samuel Hayes Jr., Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture. Photo by Everett Newswanger, editor.

Gov. Ridge Commits $90 Million Capital Investment From General Fund To Farm Show, Evaluation Center, And Veternarian Facilities

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - In a carnival-like atmosphere with standing ovations and cheers of agreement, 600 VIP farmers, educators, legislators, and agribusiness representatives jam-packed the small arena in the Farm Show Complex Wednesday morning to hear Pennsylvania's Gov. Tom Ridge announce a $90 million capital investment in agriculture. This largest-ever state investment will go to three projects-a new exposition center and major renovations to the state farm show complex, a new teaching and research center at the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine in Philadelphia, and a new livestock evaluation center on Penn State's agronomy farm in Centre County.

"We want to change how the world views Pennsylvania agriculture," Gov. Ridge said. "We are a leader among states and competitors among nations. Everyone needs to eat and we are proud of our agriculture industry.

"Today we send a powerful message to our 60,000 farm families across Pennsylvania: we appreciate what you do and we are committed to investing in your future. From milk and mushrooms to sweet corn and snap beans, Pennsylvania's agriculture industry makes 'products for the planet'. But if we are to continue to be a world leader in agriculture, then we must be prepared to invest in the infrastructure that will allow our farm families to compete in the new economy of the 21st Century," Ridge said. "We want to go beyond endurance in the ag industry and go on to prosperity."

Penn State Ag Progress 2000

The annual Penn State Ag Progress Days run next week, Aug. 15 to Aug. 17, at Rockspring near State College. We have an exhibit field layout, a list of commercial exhibitors, the program schedule and many articles that feature the new events of interest. In fact we have included two special sections in this issue dedicated to Penn State and their research activities. In the photo from last year, the hay making equipment is featured to the crowd with the main "tent city" in the background. Photo by Everett Newswanger, editor

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers closed .50-1.00 lower. Receipts were light this week as farmers were reluctant to market their cattle following last week's sharply lower prices. Despite the smaller offerings, prices continued to fall with very light demand from the area Kosher packers (who usually drive the market). The biggest mystery in the week's trade was the unusually large number of light cattle that were sold. A good portion of the supply weighed under 1200 lbs, which is hard to under-

Report Supplied By USDA

Oklahoma National Stockyards Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers steady to 1.00 higher. Demand good for feeders and an improvement over last week. A bright spot hit late last week with 2 days of positiv trading on the futures board. With December live cattle at 70.60 feeder cattle are now back to a more workable breakeven. Boxed beef prices also turned around to the plus side with better movement. Steer and heifer calves steady to 2.00 lower in a light test. Demand moderate for calves as we are now truly in the dog days of summer after 5 days of 100 degree temps. Quality plain to average with several thin Brahman cattle in supply. Feeders in thin to medium flesh, few fleshy. Weigh-ups average to full.

Slaugther cows and bulls 1.00 lower. Packer demand moderate. Total of 270 cows and bulls sold with 53 percent going to packers.

Receipts this 8435; last week 7940; last year 7811.

Supply consisted of 71% yearlings over 600 lbs; 26% calves under 600 lbs; 3% cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 29% of feeder & calf supply.

Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

GRAIN MARKETS

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Aug. 9, 2000
Report Supplied By USDA

Light overnight export demand offered some strength to wheat bids.

However, most grain and soybean bids finished lower for the day due to good crop condition, scattered rainfall across the central Midwest, and a record corn crop expected. Wheat steady to 2 cents lower except Kansas City 6 cents higher. Corn steady to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 2 cents lower. Soybeans 1 to 4 cents lower.

Some weakness in soybean bids stemmed from reports of scattered showers in Cinese bean production areas and a cooler weather forecast for next week.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

FULL STURGEON MOON, AUGUST 15.

CAT NIGHTS BEGIN

According to Mark Twain, "Ignorant people think it's the noise which fighting cats make that is so aggravating, but it ain't so, it's the sickening grammar they use " August, the traditional time when those alley cats on the fence get yowly, marks the commencement of Cat Nights, on the 17th Like the sultry, hot, and humid Dog Days (beginning July 3 and lasting 40 days), Cat Nights also mark a period of hot weather, although drier. One Irish legend has it that witches could turn themselves into cats eight times and still regain their identities The ninth time, around August 17, they couldn't change back, hence the noise Abraham Lincoln noted, however, "No matter how much cats fight, there always seem to be plenty of kittens "

Dogs have owners, cats have staff.

TIP OF THE WEEK

COLD CUCUMBER SOUP

3 cups plain yogurt
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 hard-cooked egg, minced
1 cucumber, peeled, seeded, and minced
1/4 cup minced scallions
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
1 tablespoon fresh parsley
1 teaspoon fresh dill

Beat yogurt and cream together, then add other ingredients and blend in a food processor or blender until creamy Chill overnight or up to 24 hours Beat again just before serving, and garnish with additional fresh chopped parsley or dill

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

On St. Mary's Day (Aug. 15), sunshine brings much and good wine.

August ripens, September gathers in.

If there is thunder in the evening, there will be much rain and showery weather.

As August, so the next February.

OPINION

Ag Progress Progresses

The one thing you can be sure of — very sure of — is Ag Progress Days at Penn State's Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring will feature breakthroughs in science and technology related to agriculture.

The yearly event happens next week (see many related articles in this issue) and again the educational value of the featured research projects will be almost unlimited. It does not matter if your interest is weeds, eggshells, combines, or anything else around the farm. You will find an interesting tie presented by some of the world's best professors and researchers at Penn State.

This showcase of agriculture, especially the way Penn State relates to and supports agriculture, should be on all farmer's "to-attend" list. To see the big equipment working in the fields is fun. But to take the time to visit the educational displays is . . . well, educational.

Therefore, if you want to have fun, if you want to be educated, or if you want both, make this trip to Centre County Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, Aug. 15, 16, or 17.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Estimate Corn Yields

A good estimate of corn grain yields may be made once pollination has been completed, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

To make this estimate, first determine the number of feet of row in 1/1,000th of an acre by dividing 43.56 by the row width in feet. For 30-inch rows, the distance would be 17-feet five-inches (43.56/2.5). For 32-inch rows, the distance is 16-feet four-inches and for 36-inch rows the distance is 14-feet and six-inches.

Once you have measured the required distance, count the number of harvestable ears in that distance. Next, harvest every fifth ear. Using the ears that you have harvest, count and average the number of rows of kernels and the average number of kernels per row.

When counting the number of kernels, do not count the smaller kernels on the tip or butt of the ear. Yield in bushels per acre may now be calculated by multiplying the number of ears you counted in 1/1,000th of an acre times the average number of rows of kernels on the ears checked, times the average number of kernels per row. Then divide this number by nine. This will be a close approximation of the number of bushels of corn per acre you may expect to harvest.

To Estimate Soybean Yields

Soybean growers may make a rough estimate of soybean yields once pods have set, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

To determine the yield in bushels per acre of soybeans, it is necessary to estimate the number of pods per foot of row.

Do this by counting the number of pods in several three-foot sections in the field. From this information, calculate the average number of pods per foot of row.

Once this is done, divide your row spacing by 7.5. By dividing the average number of pods per foot of row by the number you obtained by dividing your row spacing by 7.5, you will have an estimate of the yield in bushels per acre.

For example, if you have an average of 197 pods per foot of row and the rows are 30-inches apart, the calculation is 30-inches divided by 7.5 equals four. Then you divide 197 by four to give you a projected yield of 49.25 bushels per acre.

To Wash Hands

Hand washing is a basic task we learned when we were very young. It is considered the single most important means of preventing the spread of bacteria, reported Nancy Wiker, Lancaster County extension family living agent.

Unfortunately, hand washing appears to be well on its way to becoming a lost art in this country. This is a concern to public health officials, since poor hand washing is believed to be a contributing factor to the 76 million cases of foodborne illnesses and the resulting 5,000 deaths that occur each year.

It seems that we know we should be washing our hands, but we are not actually doing it. In studies done across the country, it was found that less than 66 percent of all adults actually washed their hands after using the restroom.

Proper hand washing technique includes the following steps:

1. Use warm water.
2. Moisten hands, then apply soap.
3. Rub hands together for 20 seconds, both sides.
4. Use a nailbrush if necessary.
5. Rinse thoroughly.
6. Dry on a paper towel.

Set a good example for your children. Wash your hands before and after handling food, before meals, and after using the restroom.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "To know how to suggest is the great art of teaching."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES

Background Scripture:
Colossians 2:6-19.
Devotional Reading:
Romans 8:31-39.

For 40 odd years many Christians believed that the greatest threat to the Christian faith was "godless communism." If only we could defeat and discredit communism, we thought, the Christian faith would be triumphant.

Well, communism has pretty much been defeated and discredited, but the Christian faith does not appear to be marching on to victory.

Religious spokespeople have had to admit that the 100 years just over were not, as was expected, "The Christian Century." Commentators on the world scene note that Islam is the fastest growing religion in the world.

The Christian Church is dwindling and disappearing in former strongholds: England, Germany, Scandinavia, Spain, France, and even Italy, where Roman Catholicism has been a bulwark for almost 2,000 years.

I have believed for some time that the greatest threat to Christianity is, and has always been, not the "-isms" on the outside, but those within. And not so much from those that are easily identifiable — such as liberalism, conservatism, denominationalism, ecumenism, parochialism, you name it — but from those that bear no name and are not obvious to most of us.

These are the beliefs and practices that, instead of openly challenging the gospel of Jesus Christ, subvert it by becoming substitutes for it. We are not on guard against these dangers because we see and understand them as part of the gospel — which they are not.

Only Shadows

What are these hidden and insidious threats? Paul warned the Colossians, "I say this that no one may delude you with beguiling speech . . . See to it that no one makes a prey of you by philosophy and empty deceit, according to human tradition, according to the elemental spirits of the universe . . . Therefore let no one pass judgment on you in questions of food and drink or with regard to a festival or a new moon or a Sabbath" (2:4,8,16). These things, says Paul, "are only a shadow of what is to come; but the substance belongs to Jesus Christ" (2:17).

Paul is speaking here about the tail wagging the dog, the trees obscuring the forest, and the trivial pursuits of religion taking the place of essential Christian discipleship. We do not see these threats as hostile to our faith because we have accepted them as part of it. I can't name them all, but some have long been apparent to me. There is the materialism of Christian life that drives out the spirit and the consumerism that set the values of our society. There are political and economic ideologies that take the place of the gospel. There are standards of conduct that have been around so long that we hardly realize they are not part of the gospel. These substitutes clothed in Christian garb can really be unrecognized antichrists.

One example: I believe that the capitalist system and free enterprise (not necessarily the same things) are the best economic philosophies we have yet put into practice. But they are not part of the gospel of Jesus Christ. They are not Christian unless we make them Christian, infusing them with Christian values and undergirding them with Christlike love.

Without Christ, capitalism can be and at times has been just as oppressive as communism and fascism. Worst of all, we can make the mistake of letting them become a substitute for Christian discipleship, when we equate the so-called "law of the marketplace" with the Ten Commandments and Christ's commandments to "love one another as I have loved you."

Beware of beguiling and insidious substitutes!

WANTED

Vendors of high quality produce, meats, poultry and baked goods...

Join the excitement in Wilmington, Del., at the Riverfront, a thriving destination located just 50 miles from Lancaster. Our scenic Riverwalk connects restaurants, shops, an arts center, baseball stadium and more. The latest addition is our new Riverfront Market, a public market scheduled to open in Fall 2000. This venture promises to be one of the most popular attractions on the Riverfront!

For information about vendor opportunities, please contact Market Manager Nancy Chirdon at (302) 373-0425.

DFA. Good neighbors in dairy country.

You'll see and hear a lot about DFA ... in the newspaper, on grocery store shelves, from members, from your neighbors, even other cooperatives. You'll see the results a producer-owned, producer-run partnership can bring — new products, new marketing opportunities and local services that are right for you. You'll hear what DFA membership can mean — better representation, local involvement and the support to be all you can be. Invest in a partnership that pays ... talk to your local DFA representative today.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

By Ken Bailey
Penn State University
August 4, 2000

Barrels Skid Below Support

- Barrels fall to $1.03/lb
- Blocks fall to $1.11/lb
- Butter holds steady
- USDA announces July class prices

Weak demand for process cheese continued this week resulting in a free fall in barrel prices. Barrels at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange fell from $1.0750 per pound on Monday, July 31 to $1.03 by Thursday, August 3.

Barrel prices then rallied to $1.06 the next day. USDA reported that the cash barrel price of $1.03 was the lowest closing price since August 1978. These barrel prices are below the barrel cheese support price of $1 07 per pound

Block cheese prices followed barrel prices lower at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, falling from $1.15 per pound on Monday to $1.11 by Thursday, then

ADSA And ASAS Meeting

BALTIMORE, Md. — The 2000 American Dairy Science Association (ADSA)/American Society of Animal Science (ASAS) Joint Meeting, in conjunction with the European Association of Animal Production (EAAP), celebrated progress in animal agriculture research. The ADSA/ASAS meeting was held at the Baltimore Convention Center July 24-28.

Three one-day workshops addressed Agricultural Biotechnology in the World Marketplace, the Basics of Flavor Department in Cheese, and Livestock Transport: Industry Issues and Research Challenges. These timely workshops provided registrants with in-depth information on a range of cutting-edge issues.

"More than 3,000 participants, including 350 international participants from 30 countries, attended. We were also pleased to welcome 75 commercial companies and organizations to the convention hall's exhibition floor," said program chair, David Beede, Michigan State University.

Ag Progress Days To Open Aug. 15

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Visitors can compete in a "largest weed" contest, learn from police officers about farm road safety, watch antique farm equipment demonstrations, or see some cutting-edge inventions and innovations from Penn State researchers at Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

The event highlights Penn State's role in creating breakthroughs in science and technology. Sponsored by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, Ag Progress Days is conducted at the university's Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, near State College.

Visitors seeking a challenge can wander down to the Crops and Soils Tent. Instead of pulling pesky weeds, gardeners and farmers can bring in two of their largest weeds and try to win the "Largest Weed in Pennsylvania" contest. Visitors can enter two weeds that have been grown in Pennsylvania. All entries must be cut off at ground level. There are two categories: broadleaf and grass. Prizes are awarded daily. Nearby is the expanded "A-Maze-N Corn," a corn maze where brave visitors can spend a few minutes or several hours testing their sense of direction.

The college's exhibit, "Inventions and Innovations," focuses on several inventions from Penn State researchers that created usable products for Pennsylvania businesses, as well as examples of how College of Agricultural Sciences researchers adapted and improved existing technologies.

"Most people believe the hardest work is thinking up an invention," said George Hamilton, senior lecturer in agronomy and inventor of the turfgrass product PennMulch. "This exhibit will show how Penn Staters work through a long process to bring new technology to the market."

The College Exhibits Building will feature a display on Hamilton's PennMulch, a self-contained mulching product for use on lawns and gardens. PennMulch, also sold under the trade name Emerge, created a new product category for lawn and garden retailers.

Another turfgrass-related innovation centers on creating grass athletic field turf surfaces literally overnight. Working with DuPont Inc. and Hummer Athletic Fields, Andrew McNitt, assistant professor of turfgrass science, helped research and test Grass Tiles, a stadium turf system that lays squares of grass over asphalt surfaces to form a full-size athletic field. Visitors can see the machines used to lay the grass squares, as well as testing equipment used to simulate football games and other types of wear.

Visitors can see high technology in an eggshell at a display featuring a Penn State invention that perfected the process of separating eggshells from the thin protein membrane within the shell.

By separating these materials, an egg-processing company can recover salable calcium from the eggshells and collagen from the shell membrane. Joseph MacNeil, professor emeritus of food science, will demonstrate the original prototype he used to create a technology now used by Cutler Eggs, a Philadelphia egg-processing company.

Other displays will focus on a computer model called CIM-PSU, which uses economic information to predict the effects of bringing new businesses into a community or to determine how the closing of a major business will affect the economic health of a town.

Farmers and suburban commuters will get a chance to see how to operate farm equipment safely on public roads. Officers from the Northern York County Regional Police Department will deliver a seminar on safe farm vehicle operation methods. The seminar is at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the College Building Theatre and at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Thursday in the adjacent College Building Tent.

Safety-minded visitors also can drop by the College Building Tent to see youth compete in the Farm Safety and Health Quiz Bowl on Wednesday. 4-H competitions start at 9 a.m. and FFA teams compete at 1 p.m.

Ag Progress Days

tractors, agricultural work was accomplished using strong backs — human and animal. At the Pasto Agricultural Museum, visitors can examine items ranging from vintage milk bottles to a historical display of lighting technology. A variety of animal-powered farm equipment will be displayed outside the building and an antique mule-driven hay press will be demonstrated — using a live mule — every day.

Ever hear a Beetle talk? At the ImAGination Station, visitors can see and talk to the Bugmobile, a vintage Volkswagen Beetle painted to resemble a ladybug. Children and adults can learn about integrated pest management from the Bugmobile and discover other insect-related information at the same time. Visitors also can pose for a "Picture Yourself in 4-H" exhibit and take home a souvenir to remember Ag Progress Days.

Storyteller Jan Kinney will perform at noon Tuesday, Aug. 15 and Thursday, Aug. 17 in the Family Building. Storyteller Ermyn King will perform at noon Wednesday, Aug. 16 in the Family Building. The Family Room offers demonstrations on household financial management, as well as displays on cooking, health and nutrition.

Professional growers and farmers seeking a profitable crop alternative can visit the cut-flower demonstration plot, where horticulture experts will give advice on more than 150 flower varieties. Lawn and garden experts also will be on hand to answer gardening questions at the Landscape, Lawn and Garden Tent adjacent to the cut-flower plots throughout the event.

Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals sponsors the Farm Animal Learning Center exhibit, which appeals to both children and their parents. Young calves, lambs, pigs and other livestock will be on display, as well as retired racing greyhounds and miniature horses. Penn State agriculture students will answer questions.

Shaver's Creek Environmental Center will show wildlife such as owls, hawks, turtles, and snakes at its nearby tent. In addition, the Junior Livestock Tent will feature youngsters competing in the Lamb Skillathon and live lamb show. Be sure to check out the ventilated animal greenhouse, where visitors can see how to improve animal health, productivity and comfort.

Other family-oriented activities include horse events, such as a horseshoeing demonstration, educational displays, and food booths offering culinary treats ranging from breaded mushrooms to University Creamery ice cream.

Informational tours on woodlot management, nutrient management, and streambank conservation can be found at the Natural Resources Conservation Partnership area at West 11th Street.

Buses will depart from the tent each day to take visitors on various tours demonstrating conservation techniques. A special tour outlining how to use warm-season grasses in a pasture management system will leave the tent at 2 p.m. The tour features beef cattle utilizing pasture on the USDA research farm.

Bus tours leaving from the corn crib throughout each day will illuminate Penn State's research on potatoes, integrated crop management, fruit and vegetable production, and many other programs.

There will be free CATA bus service all three days of the exhibition. The shuttle departs from College and Allen Streets (near the Corner Room restaurant) in downtown State College on the half-hour from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m., Aug. 15-17. On Aug. 16, when Ag Progress Days remains open until 8 p.m., there will be additional hourly departures from 4:30 p.m.-6:30 p.m.

Departure times for the return trip are hourly from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Aug. 15-17, with hourly shuttles from 5 p.m.-7 p.m. Aug. 16. Shuttle riders will be dropped off at Schlow Library in downtown State College.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

Hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday, 9 a.m.-8 p.m. Wednesday, and 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 10 to Aug. 17 or visit the Ag Progress Days site on the World Wide Web at http://apd.cas.psu.edu.

National Block And Bridle Outstanding Seniors Honored

BALTIMORE, Md. — Three students were recently recognized as finalists for the 2000 Outstanding Senior Undergraduate Award given by the National Block and Bridle Club. They were recognized at a ceremony during the American Society of Animal Science (ASAS)/American Dairy Science Association (ASAS) Joint Meeting in Baltimore. Sarah Jefferson, a graduate of the University of Florida, and Amanda Ellen Ramer, a graduate of Western Kentucky University, and Jameson Paul Walker, a graduate of The Pennsylvania State University were finalists for the award.

Walker, of Guys Mills, Pennsylvania, was raised on his family's dairy and crop farm, where he developed an interest in agriculture. He was very active in the 4-H beef cattle project and built a successful beef show cattle business. While at The Pennsylvania State University, Walker was very active in numerous activities of the Block and Bridle Club and other organizations.

He graduated with a degree in dairy and animal science (business option) in May. He has accepted a district manager position with Purina Mills, Inc. and will be working in feed sales and nutrition in Western Pennsylvania, New York, and Eastern Ohio.

Winners Chosen At Maryland Brown Swiss Show

Cynthia L. Warner

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Brown Swiss Field Day was recently held at the Frederick Fairgrounds, Frederick Maryland. Exhibitors from Maryland and Virginia brought 80 high quality Brown Swiss for the one-day highly-regarded event. Dan Carroll, Oldwick, New Jersey judged the event.

This well-attended show by exhibitors, as well as spectators is always a highlight for the Brown Swiss breed here in the Mid-Atlantic area.

In the winners circle, exhibiting the senior and grand champion cow of the open and junior show was Justin Culler, Frederick, Md., with a senior 3-year-old, "Winter Springs Peppermint." "This tall, well-uddered young cow displayed the dairyness elegance, and strong topline that judge Carroll was looking for in his champion."

"This is a cow that really takes your eye, you really like the way she moves on good feet and legs, and has a lovely bloom of udder today," commented Carroll.

This is the first time that Justin Culler has shown a state grand champion, and he also merited the Maryland and overall best bred and owned animal with this daughter of Tuolomme Patrick.

The reserve grand champion honors went to Dylan Fry, Chestertown, Md. with his big and correct senior two-year-old, "Fair Hill Jetway Pez."

She also displayed the lovely udder and dairyness the judge was looking for — two exceptional young cows with a bright future in the show ring.

Judge Carroll also named an honorable mention of the open and junior show which went to Allen Smith, Woodsboro, Md. with his junior three-year-old, "Lake Lane Aimees Jolly," an impressive young cow. All three young men are junior members of the Maryland Junior Brown Swiss Association.

The reserve junior champion of the open show was "Round Hill Starbuck Dandy," a big and correct, well-balanced September calf exhibited by Bill and Cindy Warner, Frederick, Md.

Also highlighting the junior show was the fitting and showing contest. Winning the junior division was Jarrett Remsberg of Middletown, Md. Tyler Nowell, Thurmont, Md. was the intermediate winner, and Justin Culler, Frederick, Md. captured the senior division, and was also named the sweepstakes winner.

Catherine Perdue, White Hall, Md. was crowned the new 2000-2001 Maryland Swiss Miss, and Mary Archer of Pylesville, Md. was crowned the Maryland Swiss Princess.

The grand champion bull, "Old Mill Chime Proof," by Allen and Tammy Bassler. The reserve champion bull was "El-Lil Tank," exhibited by Andrea Hood.

The Maulfair family made valuable contributions to the Ayrshire division of the fair's colored breed show. Below, Pattie Hushon's "Forest Park Patricia" took grand champion female in the open division.

FUTURES MARKETS

increasing to $1.1750 The improvement in cheese prices by Friday should provide confidence that the market went too far, and corrected itself with higher prices by weeks end.

USDA reports that milk production is declining rapidly in the Southwest and Southeast due to hot and humid conditions. Supplemental supplies of fluid milk are already moving into the Southeast In addition, milk production levels are being reduced in the Southwest due to extremely high temperatures.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange Class III futures settlement prices as of August 4 indicate the market is expecting farm prices to improve. They are August: $10.30; September: $10.60; October $11.10, November: $11.08; and December: $11.05. The market expectation for higher prices in September and October ($12.47 per cwt) has been eroded due to higher cow numbers and falling grain prices.

USDA announced class prices under the federal order system for July 2000 They are Class II: $12 58 per cwt. down $0.50 from June, Class III $10.66 per cwt, up $1 20 from June, and Class IV $11 87 per cwt, down $0 51. The product price averages used in computing these prices are butter $1.1547 per pound, nonfat dry milk $1 0102 per pound, cheese $1 2189 per pound, and dry whey $0.1909 per pound

Collegiate Livestock Leaders Institute Held

BALTIMORE, Md. — The first Collegiate Livestock Leaders Institute was held July 24-28 at the Baltimore Convention Center in conjunction with the American Society of Animal Science (ASAS) and the American Dairy Science Association (ADSA) 2000 Joint Meeting. The ASAS, the National Block and Bridle Club, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, and the home institutions of the 10 animal agriculture undergraduate students who have been selected to attend the Institute are sponsoring the institute.

The week long institute focused on providing an integrated overview of science applications in the beef industry. The objective of the program is to develop future livestock industry leaders by exposure to and interaction with leaders in national commodity and scientific organizations.

The 2000 class includes the following undergraduate livestock leaders.

Kevin Harvatine, of Thompson, Pennsylvania, is a senior in animal science at Pennsylvania State University. He is active Block and Bridle Club, Meats Judging Team, Dairy Science Club, Ag Advocate, Beef Quiz Bowl Team, and Alpha Zeta.

Brad Ramsey, of Fort Valley, Virginia, is a senior majoring in animal and poultry sciences at Virginia Polytech Institute. He is active in Block and Bridle Club, Dairy Club, and the Dairy Judging Team. He is also a member of Mason-Dixon Red Angus Association and the National Junior Red Angus Association.

Students attended many of the 2000 ASAS/ADSA meeting sessions, including the Industry/Tech Forum sessions. Sessions exclusively designed for the Collegiate Livestock Leadership Institute focuses on the role of the beef industry in the 21st century. Topics and speakers included the role of pharmaceutical companies, Dr. Ken Odde, Pfizer Animal Health; application of technology, Dr. Roger Wyse, Burrill Group; utilization of biotechnology, Dr. Steve Kappes, USDA-ARS, Beltsville, Md.; and beef safety, Dr. Rod Bowling, Future Beef Corporation.

Students also attended sessions which covered integration and structural changes, Dr. Glen Dolezal, Excel Corporation; adoption of electronic technology and information management, Dr. Jim Gibb, eMerge Technologies; science on the ranch, Lee Leachman, Leachman Cattle Co.; and bioethics in the industry, Dr. Temple Grandin and Dr. Bernie Rollin, Colorado State University.

Gov. Ridge Commits $90 Million Capital Investment From General Fund To Farm Show, Evaluation Center, And Veternarian Facilities

The Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex will receive $66.2 million of the total to give the nearly 70-year-old facility a "facelift" of the existing historic buildings. In addition, a new 250,000 square-foot Exposition Center will be built and will include a trade show exhibit hall, meeting rooms and conference support facilities. A covered bridge will interconnect with the existing Large Area. A new parking garage also will be built with interconnections linking it to the new Expo Center and existing complex. Dreams of a hotel on site are also in the works.

The new facilities will be built above the flood plain and the renovations will address existing flooding issues. A new heating and air conditioning system for the entire complex will be installed. Design of the new Expo Center will begin later this year, with construction to commence by summer of 2001. The new Center should be completed by December of 2002-in time for the 2003 Farm Show.

"It doesn't get any better for Agriculture than this," said Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show director.

In his now famous evangelistic and thumbs up style, Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture, Samuel Hayes Jr., introduced Gov. Ridge and at one point amid vigorous, and loud clapping and cheering, shouted into the speakers, "Let's hear it for the 'Gov'." He credited Ridge and the legislators with producing the best budget for agriculture in history.

"We have never had a better ag budget than we do now," Hayes said. "We also want to thank our legislators for this tremendous support of agriculture in our state. This is for the consumer as well as the farmer. We want to be good stewards of the capital we are using. That's why we want to keep the Farm Show Complex in the city of Harrisburg and the Capitol Region.

"This also sends a clear message to farmers that we recognize their accomplishments. There is no job as demanding as work on the family farm. We are leading the nation in farmland preservation. And here we are turning some of your tax dollars back into your profession, back into your 'love'. We are evolving as the state-of-the-art Commonwealth."

Penn's veterinary school will receive $18 million of the total to build a new, first rate teaching and research building. For more than 100 years, Penn's veterinary graduates have contributed immensely to Pennsylvania's agriculture industry and their role has become even more vital to farmers in today's competitive environment. The new building will provide modern teaching and learning spaces, and replace the antiquated facilities currently in use. The school's interdisciplinary research programs will be greatly enhanced by the three laboratory floors.

Judith Rodin, president of the University of Pennsylvania said Gov. Ridge is a staunch supporter of Pennsylvania agriculture.

"Gov. Ridge recognizes the important role Penn's School of Veterinary Medicine and its graduates play in maintaining the health, welfare and success of the Commonwealth's livestock, poultry, and equine industries," she said. "We are profoundly grateful to the Governor for his support for the new teaching and research building and for so decisively advancing the School's historic mission."

Among the areas of investigation in the new building will be infectious disease, a major reemerging threat to animal and human health; animal transgenesis and germ cell research, an exciting biomedical research area that promises healthier and more productive food animals; comparative medical genetics; and comparative oncology.

Penn's vet school contributes greatly to agriculture through its many services to farmers and owners of horses and companion animals. The School's two hospitals have the largest caseload of any veterinary university teaching hospital in the nation and they play an important role in maintaining the health and productivity of the State's livestock and equine industry.

The $5.6 million committed the Livestock Evaluation Center, will allow the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) to build a new state-of-the-art facility near the Ag Progress Days site in Centre County. The new Center will replace an old, outdated facility that now sits near Beaver Stadium on Penn State's main campus. Construction of the new Center should be complete by spring 2002.

PDA directs the Livestock Evaluation Center through its Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services. The Center is a testing station that conducts controlled and uniform feeding and management tests on either individual studs or sire groups within the three major species of meat animals so that genetic differences can be measured and evaluated. The Center is a unique facility that makes a contribution in solving problems facing the livestock industry. Experimental feedlots for cattle, swine and sheep are essential components for the comprehensive research program.

The purpose of the Evaluation Center is to investigate major genetic, biological, physical, and managerial influences on production efficiency and product quality in all segments of the production cycle for beef cattle, sheep, and swine. It is critically important to provide a uniform or standard protocol to test the animals for economically important traits that can be used to enhance the commercial livestock industry of Pennsylvania.

"Pennsylvania is positioned in the center of a major transportation and market network that provides meat products to the majority of the Northeast," Hayes said. "The Livestock Evaluation Center is a valuable tool to help producers keep the Pennsylvania meat packers supplied with quality products for consumers."

Gov. Ridge noted that in planning for this announcement, the Adminstration set aside money in the state's general fund specifically for these projects to avoid the need to float bonds. This good management decision will save taxpayers $50 million in interest.

The hard work and dedication of Pennsylvania's farm families continues to keep agriculture the number one industry of Pennsylvania. With $4.1 billion in cash receipts, Keystone farmers and agribusinesses are the leading agricultural producers in the northeastern United States and some of the most productive in the country.

Agriculture employs more than 800,000 people and contributes more than 44 billion each year to the state's economy this includes support services such as food processing, marketing, transportation, as well as manufacturing all the products and equipment used on the farm.

After the formal program, a reception was held in the exhibit hall, and Gov. Ridge visited the Dauphin County 4-H Fair that was in progress in the building.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No.2y — 2.16 bu., 3.87 cwt.
Wheat, No.2 — 1.98 bu., 3.31 cwt.
Barley, No.3 — 1.37 bu., 2.92 cwt.
Oats, No.2 — 1.32 bu., 4.13 cwt.

Troy Fair Honors Youth Dairy Champions

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford County) — Christine Eick's Jersey, Windy Acres Alf Kimber, was the judges' choice at the Troy Fair youth dairy show.

The junior 3-year-old rose above the other breeds to be named the year 2000 supreme champion.

Judged by David Castrogiovanni, Montrose, and Roland Ripley, Cortland, N.Y., the show boasted more than 200 youth entries with representation from eight breeds of dairy cattle.

Following Eick's supreme champion was Meghan Tavares' Galaxy Raven, a 4-year-old Jersey which was named the reserve grand champion. The junior champion Jersey was Heather Yurkanin's fall yearling, Elm Brook MBSB Odessa.

In the Holstein show, Jeremy Alderfer's senior 2-year-old was named the grand champion. She was followed by Craig Sheeley's 5-year-old, Braund Valley Peanut. The junior champion in the Holstein ring was Jamie Crawford's Ho-Crawf Counselor Leona. Taking reserve junior champion Holstein honors was Braund Valley Shark Eliza, owned by Bradley Watkins.

steer classes. Angus producer Greg Krueger judged the event.

"We didn't have excessive numbers today but we did have good quality," Krueger said of the heifer classes.

"We also had an excellent set of steers. The quality was good in all classes," said Krueger.

He also mentioned out that the fair's shows provided an opportunity for participants to learn responsibility and good sportsmanship. Pointing out the younger participants in the ring, Krueger mentioned that they were the "bright young future" of the cattle industry.

The classy black and white outfits worn by all of the exhibitors set the tone in the dairy show.

"There was lots of depth of quality in all classes," said Holstein judge Terry Rawn. "In this case (Lebanon's Fair) 8 to 10 to a dozen were really good, particularly in the milking classes. I don't think there was a cow that anyone would be ashamed of. They had good udders and the capacity to give lots of milk."

According to Rawn not only the animals but also the participants were outstanding. "The exhibitors were very courteous, polite and showed good sportsmanship. They obviously had gotten a lot of training," said Rawn. A regional sales manager for Alta Genetics, Rawn, who lives in West Virginia, has judged cattle since college.

Miller, Neiman Share Reading Sheep Champion Spotlight Honors

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — An ewe that exhibited a "lot of maternal instincts," according to the judge, stood out in competition at the youth sheep breeds show Monday afternoon at the Reading Fair.

Amanda Miller, 15, daughter of Ron and Joan Miller, Bernville, exhibited a Southdown yearling ewe to grand champion.

The champion was selected by Marlyn Stroh, fair judge and shepherd of Erdenheim Farm, Lafayette Hill.

Jill Neiman exhibited the grand champion ram, an Oxford spring ram named "Draco" at the fair.

Amanda, in the ninth grade at Tulpehocken High School and member of the Berks County 4-H Sheep and Lamb Club, has exhibited at a variety of fairs this year, including shows in Philadelphia, Kempton, Schnecksville, and Kimberton.

Amanda, Reading Fair grand champion showman and fitter, also plans to exhibit at Kutztown, Allentown, Denver, and Oley fairs, in addition to Keystone International Livestock Expo and Farm Show.

Amanda also plans to show in Pike County, Pennsylvania and Duchess County, New York.

Champion ram exhibitor Jill Neiman, 16, is the daughter of Leon and Linda Neiman, Fleetwood. The Oley Valley High School 11th grader and Berks County sheep and wool queen names all her lambs for the constellations of stars in the sky.

Jill also exhibited the grand champion market lamb, an Oxford wether named "Castor." The 118-pound lamb is homebred.

Jill's father, Leon, fed the lamb while Jill attended Pennsylvania Governor's School in the summer.

Jill attributes the heavyweight champion lamb to "excellent genetics," she noted, and being on the pasture with the bigger ewes that "chase him around."

Jill said she has shown at Kempton and plans to show at Kutztown, Allentown, Oley, Farm Show, and county roundup.

Reserve champion market lamb was shown by Clay Brubaker, 9, son of Ken and Ginger Brubaker, Womelsdorf.

Clay, in the fourth grade at Conrad Weiser West, named the lamb "Steel" because of its black color (a Hampshire/Suffolk crossbred spring lamb, noted Clay).

According to Ken, the 94-pound reserve heavyweight champion lamb, from Clay's grandparents Clyde and Dorothy Brubaker, provided Clay, also market pair champion, with a first champion at the year his very first year of showing.

New fairgrounds near Leesport marked the site of the renewed Reading Fair, which used to be conducted at the Kutztown Fairgrounds because work at the new Leesport location wasn't complete.

In the breeds, Cheviot ram champion went to Cathy Levan and ewe to Amber Shollenberger. Corriedale champion ewe went to Emily Hannon.

Dorset champion ewe went to Ryan Lynch. Oxford champion ewe and ram were awarded to Jill Neiman.

Shropshire champion ewe and ram were presented to Amanda Miller, who also won champion Southdown ram and ewe.

Suffolk champion ewe went to Carrie Hartman. Romney champion ram and ewe were awarded to Mark Brennen.

In the show, there were 39 breed sheep and 29 market lambs with 21 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

Amanda Miller, right, won champion ewe and Jill Neiman won grand champion market lamb at the new Reading Fair.

TROY (Bradford Co.) — "You can be proud of the quality of animals you're bringing out to the show, not just the champions, but all of them," said judge Roland Ripley, Cortland, N.Y. as he selected Pack-Herd Encore Bell Toll grand champion of the 2000 Troy Fair Holstein Show.

Bell Toll, a 4-year-old owned by David Packard, was also named the supreme champion of the Troy Fair open dairy show on Saturday, July 29, rising over the champions from the open colored breed show earlier in the week.

Named the reserve champion of the show was Braund Valley Wiggle 100, a senior 3-year-old owned by Braund Valley Farms.

David Packard was also the owner of the junior and reserve junior champions of the day. Junior yearling Pack-Herd Stormy Bellflower was selected junior champion. Pack-Herd Encore Batonia, a fall yearling, was named reserve junior champion.

More than 150 Holsteins were shown, making the competition for the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners a close race. When all the points were totaled, Snowcrest Farms was named premier breeder of the show. Ben and Dean Jackson took premier exhibitor honors.

David Packard showed the supreme champion at the 2000 Troy Fair. Here his champion is flanked by Alternate Dairy Princess Corissa Coolbaugh and Dairy Princess Samantha Barrett.

Alexa Stoner Joins ADA/DC

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Alexa A. Stoner has joined the American Dairy Association-/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic as industry relations specialist and will work out of the organization's Carlisle office.

In her new position, Stoner will coordinate public relations and communications programs that help increase producer understanding of the dairy checkoff program and consumer awareness of the dairy industry. She will oversee trade show activities and industry events and will develop newsletters, news releases and other communication materials.

A 1991 graduate of the Pennsylvania State University, Stoner majored in dairy and animal science and animal production management. She previously worked for the Pennsylvania Beef Council and the American Veal Association where she was director of Veal Programs and coordinator of the Veal Quality Assurance Program, respectively.

"I am very excited to work for dairy producers and their industry to help increase milk consumption," Stoner said. "Since my husband and his family are dairy producers, I have a vested interest in creating promotion programs that build both milk and dairy product demand. I look forward to making a valuable contribution to ADA/DC Middle Atlantic."

Stoner and her husband, Tim, reside on their family dairy farm in Mercersburg, Franklin County. They milk 575 Holstein cows and farm 1,600 acres.

Volunteers, Donations Turn Reading Fairground From Dream To Reality

At a cost of more than $3 million, the new Reading Fairground — which existed only on paper for the past few years — came to fruition, mostly from private donors and the help of hundreds of volunteers. Photo by Andy Andrews

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — In the brand-new show ring, under the brand-new pole barn, a poster, encased in a picture frame, tells the story of how a dream was constructed.

The poster has a headline that reads "A Gift to Reading and Berks County From the Berks County Building and Construction Trades Council."

The same note of thanks on a banner extends over the side of the exhibit area — thanks for a job well done, a job that was finished just in time.

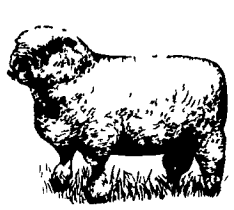
At a cost of more than $3 million, the new Reading Fairground — which existed only on paper for the past few years — came to fruition, mostly from private donors and the help of hundreds of volunteers.

Two pole barns measuring 125 feet by 60 feet apiece are joined by a show ring measuring 60 by 60 feet.

Altogether, the site of the new Reading Fair, on County Welfare Road and Hill Top Road on the way to Berks Heim, encompasses about 80 acres, according to Wayne Readinger, agricultural director of the Agricultural and Horticultural Association of Berks County.

Some of the acreage of the Berks County 4-H Center was used to house fair activities.

According to the posters, Jim Reilly and the Operating Engineers Local 542 donated more than $750,000 in free labor and equipment to fairground construction. Two weeks ago, according to the fair organizers, before the start of the fair, an "assembly line" of final preparations were ongoing to finish the fairground on time.



About 60 acres of land were donated from the Berks County Commissioners and the Bern Township board of supervisors and planning. On the poster, work from at least 17 companies was done — mostly free of charge.

Some of those involved in construction included the Carpenters Local Union 492, the Plasterers and Cement Masons Local 592, Plumbers Union Local 690, Electrical Workers Local 743 — more than 300 members from the county building and construction trades.

At the start of the fair this week, work was still under way, according to John Falter, Berks 4-H agent.

The Reading Fair is a 146-year old Berks County tradition. Volunteers stayed up late — some even began work at 10:30 or later at night to finish in time for this year's fair.

Though some estimates vary, actual costs are less than $300,000 — meaning about 90 percent of the costs was donated by the community.

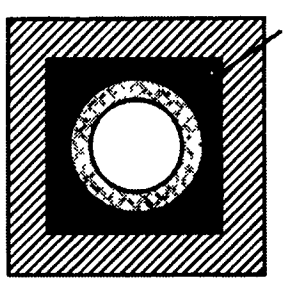
... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements. Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems distributed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

Reading Fair Back In Action

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

READING (Berks Co.) — The Reading fair has reopened its doors after a few years of hiatus, a fact which seemed to have little effect on the type of animals brought to the dairy show on Wednesday.

Dairy ambassador Adrienne Phillips, 15, helped to pass out ribbons during the fair. Phillips has more than two years experience in promoting the dairy industry. A sophomore at Hamburg High School, Phillips was raised on a dairy farm.

"We had a very excellent show with a lot of quality top to bottom," said judge Steve Shaw, a Cargill nutritionist. "The winning cows would withstand a lot of competition anywhere. The animals could go onto bigger shows and still do very well. We also had a very strong junior show."

Shaw, who grew up in the nearby Oley area, judges approximately a dozen shows a year in Pennsylvania. He and his wife own a dairy herd in Williamsport. Clyde Myers directed the Holstein and colored breeds shows.

"We think it's a great experience here at the fair," said A. Wayne Readinger, who coordinates the agriculture and exhibit areas. "We did anticipate that it would be finished, but we weren't sure. We had some last-minute projects."

This fair, believes Readinger, will help fair coordinators improve next year's fair.

Although the fair is down in dairy numbers, Readinger is confident that the new facilities will draw more exhibitors in the coming years. The attendance of competitors in the beef ring has remained about the same.

Lower dairy numbers may be a result of the new location plus

SIMPLE, VERSATILE, and AFFORDABLE Chore-Time® SUPER-Selector™ PNT Ventilation Control is a user-friendly 12-stage microprocessor control designed to efficiently work with nearly all ventilation methods - natural, negative satic pressure, and tunnel. Easy to operate, this control features two heat and 10 cooling stages. The SUPER-Selector is easy to set up and adjust to fine tune for your building's specific ventilation requirements.

Chore-Time nipple drinkers come fully assembled for quick and easy installation and feature a low profile aluminum support channel. To eliminate problems there is no glue, sonic welding or rubber "O" rings in the nipples, saddles and pipe assemblies.

Chore-Time's new MODEL C2® PLUS Broiler Feeding System gets birds off to a good start, minimizes wasted feed, and provides birds with consistent access to fresh feed. The latest in Chore-Time's 45-year history of outstanding broiler feeding systems, the MODEL C2® PLUS includes a reinforced pan eating area and cone wear surface. This may be Chore-Time's most durable broiler feeder yet.

New Ice Cream Flavor To Honor Penn State Dairy Pioneer And Scholar

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Stuart Patton, Evan Pugh Professor Emeritus in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, was honored for 50 years of research and teaching with symposia, a banquet — and his very own ice cream flavor.

Three symposia and a banquet were held at Penn State's University Park campus. For the banquet, the Penn State Creamery unveiled "Stuzipan," a chocolate ice cream with a distinctive buttery almond flavor.

"The idea of this came from the recognition committee," says Craig Baumrucker, professor of animal nutrition and committee chair. "Dr. Patton always researched the chemistry and biology of milk and the mammary gland, so it just seemed like the right thing to do. His wife picked the name as a play on his name and the word marzipan."

Patton joins an exclusive cadre with Penn State ice cream namesakes, including Pennsylvania governor Tom Ridge, Penn State ice cream pioneer Philip Keeney, Penn State dairy researcher John Almquist and Nittany Lion football coach Joe Paterno. "Stuzipan" was available only during the banquet.

The celebration opened with a symposium on "Dairy-Based Foods and Ingredients" presented by professors from several state universities. The festivities continued with a "Patton Banquet Roast" at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Symposia continued with "Milk Components and Health." Afternoon sessions addressed "Milk and the Mammary Gland Regulation."

Stuart Patton received his bachelor's degree in dairy husbandry from Penn State in 1943 and went on to earn his master's and doctorate from Ohio State University. He joined Penn State's dairy science faculty in 1949 and became the College of Agricultural Sciences' first Evan Pugh Professor in 1966.

He is known internationally for his research and teaching on milk chemistry and the biological processes that regulate milk synthesis in the mammary gland. He was awarded the 1999 Outstanding Alumni award from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. In recent years, Patton has been adjunct professor in both the department of neurosciences at the University of California-San Diego and in the foods and nutrition program at San Diego State University.

"We think once people get here they'll come back again," said Readinger.

Southwest Pennsylvania Holstein Championship Show held in Fayette County

Quality Holsteins from Southwestern Pennsylvania converged on Fayette County Fairgrounds in Uniontown. The show, held Saturday, July 29, attracted over 120 animals. Michael Stiles judged the show with Rick Allen acting as chairman.

Andrea Bednarski took home grand champion honors of the open show with Rodney Rankin for RTD Syndicate taking reserve grand champion. Bednarkski also got the best bred and owned spot of the open show. Winners of the youth show included Erin Parker, who took the grand champion placing, and Andrew McKissick the reserve grand champion spot. McKissick also took home the best bred and owned of the youth show.

The premier breeders award went to Allen Hill Holsteins and McKissick Farms took the top premier exhibitors placing.

Lamb, Found In Field, Rises To Grand Champion At Chester 4-H Sale

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — Chester County Lamb Club 4-H'er Joann Bachrach may not know the age-old story about the return of the king. But she knows about a lamb who would be champion.

Joann's friend, Jeremy, 17, found a lamb in a field and nicknamed the wether after himself. That same lamb, nurtured by Joann and family, became grand champion market lamb Monday at the Chester County 4-H Roundup.

The grand champion, the 119-pound light heavyweight lamb, was sold for $3.25 a pound to Ken Smoker of Parkesburg.

The Chester County 4-H Livestock Sale was conducted Wednesday evening at the Romano 4-H Center near Honey Brook.

Joann, 11, in the sixth grade at Renaissance Academy, swept the lamb show. With parents Joanna and Chris, Pottstown, Joann watched in awe as 100 percent of the price paid for the reserve champion lamb ($5 per pound) was donated to the Romano 4-H Center. The lamb was purchased by a consortium of buyers, including George Ley, Bill Beam, Bill and Betsy MacCauley, Dale Pfeifer, Nelson Beam, Don Cairns, Carl Lindborg, and Ken Walker.

The lamb, donated back, was then purchased by Karen Martynick, chair of the Chester County Commissioners, for $3.50 per pound, making the total donated to the 4-H center of $969.

The 102-pound reserve light heavyweight champion, a wether, was nicknamed "Rico."

This is Joann's first roundup grand champion.

Phillip McAllister, 16, exhibited the grand champion steer at the roundup.

The 1,273-pound grand champion, light heavyweight division winner, was purchased by Hoss's Steak and Seafood House of Lionville for $2 per pound. Representing Hoss's were Sarah Smith, assistant manager, and Rick Kinderman, general manager.

Phillip, son of Bill and Karen McAllister, Spring City, is a senior at Owen J. Roberts High School. The Chester County 4-H Beef Club member exhibited "Black Jack," purchased from Ken Walker, Honey Brook. Phillip said he exhibited reserve champion at the roundup last year.

Phillip said the calf was good to work with. He said his father, a former 4-H'er, chose it. "He saw its potential," said Phillip.

Reserve champion market steer was exhibited by Eliza Walton, Kennett Square.

Eliza, 15, is the daughter of Margaret and David Walton, Kennett Square. The Unionville High School 10th grader exhibited "Rocky," weighing 1,305 pounds.

The homebred steer, pasture-raised, from the family farm bull "Sleepeasy," is walked about two miles daily, Eliza noted.

The steer was purchased by Don Beidler from Hoober Inc., Intercourse, for $1.61 per pound.

Eliza, who said she won grand champion last year, plans to show at Allentown Fair, Keystone International Livestock Expo, Mid-Atlantic Junior Angus Show, and Farm Show.

Joann Bachrach swept the lamb show. The reserve champion lamb was purchased by a consortium of buyers, including, back from left, George Ley, Bill Beam, Bill and Betsy MacCauley, Dale Pfeifer, Nelson Beam, Don Cairns (holding daughter Lauren, 2), Carl Lindborg, and Ken Walker, for $5 per pound. Donated back, the lamb was then purchased by Chester County Commissioner Karen Martynick for $3.50 per pound. In front are Megan Navarro and at right, Joann.

Reserve champion market steer was exhibited by Eliza Walton, Kennett Square. The steer was purchased by Don Beidler, Hoober Inc., Intercourse, for $1.61 per pound.

Angela Stoltzfus, 15, far right, exhibited the reserve champion, a 240-pound gilt that won champion medium weight at the roundup. Angela sold the hog to Hoss's Steak and Seafood House for $2.85 per pound. Representing Hoss's were Sarah Smith, assistant manager, and Rick Kinderman, general manager.

Cheryl Fairbairn, livestock agent, said the steer show was a record sale. She said steers are usually the most expensive 4-H projects and usually, "kids don't make any money on steers." But the great sale Wednesday evening disproved all that.

Laurell Stoltzfus, 10, daughter of Bertha and Scott Stoltzfus, Geigertown, exhibited the grand champion hog.

The 250-pound light heavyweight champion gilt was sold to Bill Fairbairn for $3.25 per pound.

Laurell, in the fifth grade at Twin Valley Elementary School, said she picked the hog from a group of three that her dad helped select. She chose the last one, named "Marcy" after the Snoopy cartoon character. She plans to attend Farm Show.

Laurell's sister Angela, 15, exhibited the reserve champion, a 240-pound gilt that won champion medium weight at the roundup.

Angela, in the 11th grade at Twin Valley High School, sold the hog to Hoss's Steak and Seafood House for $2.85 per pound.

Angela said she obtained the hog from Nelson Beam, Elverson. Angela said she plans to attend Farm Show.

Cheryl Fairbairn of the extension office said the hog sale was another record-setter.

Bill MacCauley, president of John Rock, Inc., Downingtown, was auctioneer.

At the sale, steers sold for an average of $1.74 per ound with champions and $1.73 without champions.

Hogs sold for an average of 1.25 per pound with champions and 1.23 per pound without champions.

Lambs sold for an average of 2.82 per pound with champions and 2.71 without champions.

Following is a list of show placings.

Secrets For Year-Round Visual Pleasure

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

DRUMORE (Lancaster Co.) — What's the secret for growing a gorgeous blooming flower garden?

"It starts with a soil test," said Ann Zemsky. "I can't stress that enough."

Surrounded with acres of blooming plants, the Zemskys' gardens offer breathtaking beauty.

It isn't without intensive labor, trial and error, and extensive reading that the Zemskys' gardens have become a visual delight.

"The secret is to have the right plant for the right place. Most problems stem by placing a plant in the wrong spot," Ann said of the need to differentiate between shade and sun-loving plants, and between dry and moist soil requirements.

About 25 years ago, when the Zemskys purchased the farm perched in the southern end of Lancaster County, the wooded land had already been cleared. But the land was so hilly that most of the topsoil had washed away and was not suitable for farming.

The slate soil was a gardener's nightmare. To remedy the soil, the Zemskys had truckloads of topsoil, mushroom soil, and compost brought in and mixed together and then soil tested.

"If you know you have acid soil, grow things that like it or amend it," Ann said.

The Zemskys had purchased the land to build a vacation getaway from their Philadelphia home. They left much of the land reforest itself naturally, and planted fruit and numerous other trees purchased through the conservation district's annual sale.

Seven years ago, the Zemskys moved on the site permanently and began to established flower beds.

Ann enrolled in the Penn State master gardener program.

"It's an excellent program," Ann said, one that has enabled her to design gardens using shrubs, perennials, ornamental grasses, and annuals to provide year-round color and pleasure for both birds and for the family.

"Consider your growing conditions," she said. Nonetheless, she often discovers the best spot through experimentation. Because it is considered more visually appealing to cluster plants in threes or uneven numbers, she will buy three of the same variety. Instead of planting them in the same area, she often plants flowers in three different spots to determine where they will do best. The next season, she will transplant the plants if they are not thriving.

Although the natural wooded habitat offers a wonderful view of wildlife, it certainly has its drawbacks for growing vegetables and flowers.

To discourage squirrels from digging up bulbs, the Zemskys place ground oyster shells around the bulbs when planting.

For 15 years the azalea bushes produced no blossoms because the deer nibbled the buds. Since the azaleas were moved to a new spot, they bloom profusely every year.

To protect raspberries from birds, Zemsky erected overhead netting. They needed to cover little trees such as the white oak, which deer consider "their ice cream."

Another consideration when plantings is to be aware that some trees such as black walnut trees are toxic to some plants, but beneficial to bee balm, day lilies, hostas, Japanese maples, and astilla.

Novice gardeners often make the mistake of planting shrubs and flowers around the house. When inside, they can't see a thing. The Zemskys planted their gardens to provide a breathtaking views from inside their home.

One of the largest areas is a 45x90-foot walled garden. This includes both vegetable and flowering plants. The walled garden keeps out deer, ground hogs, rabbits, and squirrels.

Ann tends to plant vegetables that are harder to find at roadside stands such as English-style cucumbers, Oriental soybeans, shallots, leeks, herbs, and greens.

"I'm big on IPM (integrated plant management)," Ann said. She strives to be an organic gardener but admits to bouts of frustration and resorting to occasional use of insecticides. She spends many hours hand picking off beetles and slugs from plants.

Ann and her husband are retired and Ann jokes that they are now full-time gardeners. She realizes they may not always be as agile in working among the gardens. In preparation of this stage, she is planting more flowering shrubs, which require less care. Clematis, which most people plant where it can climb, is allowed to grow throughout other plants that provide natural climbing support.

She uses butterfly bush cuttings as stakes for peas and other

"Everybody should compost," Ann said. She and her husband devised a simple system of wiring together wooden pallets where grass, leaves, and kitchen waste can be chucked and composted in place.

Ann has what she calls a nursery bed to insert small plants that may become lost among bigger plants. After the plant is established for a year, she will replant in a more permanent spot.

Another way to insert color and different size plantings in the garden is to use potted plants. Although they require more watering, the plants can be moved from spot to spot for light control and instant color in a foliage area. Pots can also be moved to a protected area to winterize. When replanting a plant that is pot bound, be sure to spread apart the roots or the plant will strangle itself.

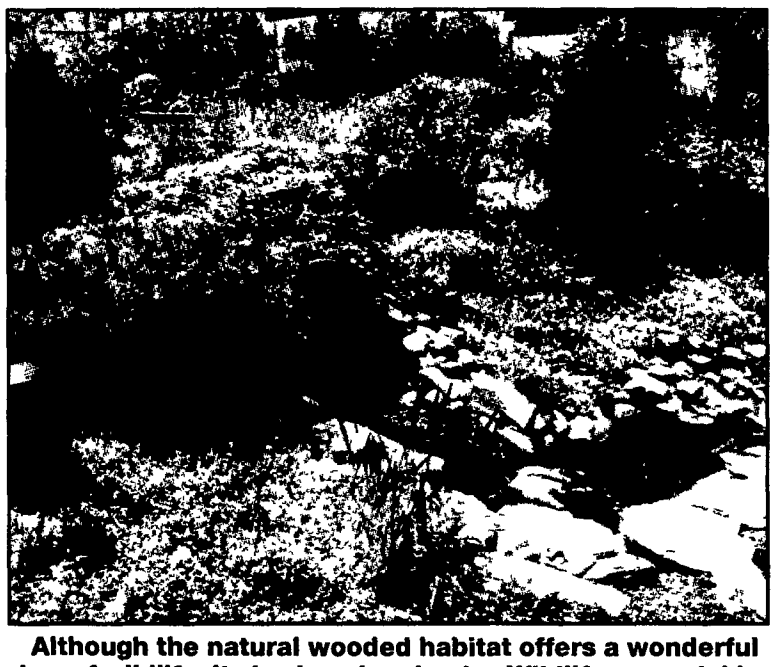
Ann Zemsky draws a rough plot plan similar to a map to determine where perennials are planted. During the different seasons she jots notes on observations such as a spot that needs more color. This helps determine where and what is needed to make gardens visually appealing.

To delay blooms, prune a plant to half its size in June. In mass plantings, prune several of the plants but let others alone to extend flowering.

Ann Zemsky recommends the Penn State Master Gardener program to those interested in gardening.

A bubbler provides calming gurgling sounds.

The right plant in the right place is the secret to success.



Although the natural wooded habitat offers a wonderful view of wildlife, it also has drawbacks. Wildlife can quickly devour plants, buds, and vegetables.

Most perennials need to be divided every three to five years. She gives them away and has also been the recipient of "pass-along plants," many of which she considers to be her favorites.

Overpowering.

Almost. The aroma hung in the still, moist air of this mid-August evening.

A plane droned overhead, birds twittered late-day gossip in the fading light, and a bunny hopped and paused, hopped and paused down the dirt field road. But it was that heavy, sweetish scent that grabbed my nose.

Not a costly concocted blend of chemical fragrances, nor the distilled essence of floral oils. Not a French import or an exotic Oriental designer perfume.

What was tickling my olefactory senses was Eau de Corn. Hands-down winner of our August "scratch and sniff" selections.

The fragrance of Eau de Corn whispers a promise of golden grain pouring into bins and augers. Of silage bunkers packed full and round with winter stocks of feed. Of forage harvesters chewing noisily through forests of stalks to feed chomping cows and hungry folks.

Eau de Corn's haunting fragrance is an organic and all-natural one, noticeable only a fleeting week or two in August. Its aura drifts across the countryside when corn stalks have almost reached their final height and begins taking their finals steps to maturity. You can catch a whiff as you drive by a pollinating field on a warm, humid night or loll in it with a walk next to a stand of stalks.

At pollination, the tassel atop the stalk, which begins as a needle-like-being tightly wrapped in thin layers of leaves-to-be at the bottom heart of a corn seedling, has flared wide and pushed out tiny bits of pollen along its edges. (County extension crops specialist Mark Goodson recently cut one of our corn stalks apart during a field visit, showing me how those embryonic tassels are buried deep inside the young plant.) As ears push out of the lower part of the plant, each with a mop-top of pinkish-hued delicate silks, the pollen bits fall from the tassels over a period of a couple of days, onto the waiting silks below.

Viola! The silks are pollinated. And each pollinated silk begins to slowly dry, as the embryonic kernel to which it was attached swells and matures into a seed capable of generating another entire corn stalk.

Pretty miraculous when you think about it, huh?

During that pollinating stage is when the aroma of corn hangs heavy in the still summer air, especially during warm, moist, humid weather. Of which we have not had any shortage this summer, just in case you hadn't noticed.

But pollinating corn isn't the only feast for the nose during August.

A batch of Red Haven peaches carefully laid out in the basement to ripen enveloped us with the heady aroma of the favorite late summer fruit, a perfume even more enticing than that of the corn. I lay almost-ripe peaches out in a single layer on a cushioning base and cover them until they ripen enough that the flesh slightly "gives" under gentle finger pressure. Ditto for fresh pears, which The Farmer loves as a snack to grab on his way through the kitchen.

Mixing with the fruity fragrances in the house is a delicate floral one. It wafts across the kitchen each time you pass by the small vase of nasturtiums parked on the appliance cart. Neon orange in color, these two-inch blossoms carry a sweet, long-lasting aroma. Told by seed catalogs for years that nasturtiums should grow in hot, dry places to bear flowers instead of foliage, I always put mine in the raised border, which can turn desert-like during drought years. And got unimpressive results.

This year, the nasturtiums went next to the stone-walled runoff settling basin around the barns, where the rich soil rarely dries out. Not only do these babies sport monster leaves, they have stunning blossoms twice the size of any we previously grew, and are vining out in an apparent mission to smother the rose bush and strangle the gloriosa daisies.

In an effort to catch and preserve the scents of summer, I've been tossing rose petals, herb prunings, meadow tea snippings, and assorted fragrant blossoms into a basket to dry in the dark of a storage closet. A handful of the fragrant drying sage from near our son's Idaho desert home adds a unique touch to the mix.

I've always wished it possible to bottle some summer scents to save as a balm for the blizzard season.

This East-N-West Potpourri might be as close as we can get.

ARE YOU A GRAZER?

According to Webster's Dictionary, "to graze" is to feed on grass and pasture. While we don't graze in the literal sense, we humans have adopted our own style of grazing. So, what type of grazer are you?

- Sheepish Grazer — You do most of your grazing at home on nuts, fruit, and cheese.
- Convenient Grazer — You make unplanned stops at convenience stores and drive-through restaurants whenever you feel the urge.
- Lone Grazer — You consider food secondary and pair it with other activities.
- Freudian Grazer — You nibble to provide comfort or relief from stress.
- World Class Grazer — You like variety and sophistication in your food and order several appetizers instead of a main meal.

Some of these ways of grazing definitely lead to poor eating habits, which can eventually lead to health problems. Some of them can be okay, if you select healthier foods.

In fact, some research says that grazing (or snacking) can actually be beneficial in promoting better eating habits. For example, a healthy snack an hour or two before arriving home from work can help you avoid eating anything you can get your hands on while waiting for dinner.

Deprivation is one of the main reasons why people stop "dieting." A healthy snack can help to relieve that miserable hunger feeling that causes you to run to the vending machine between meals for a high-calorie, low-nutrient snack.

When it comes to weight loss, some research points to the fact that snacking throughout the day may actually help to keep your metabolism up and running.

You may be convinced it's a good idea to adopt the "grazing" way. It's simple — just eat mini-meals or snacks throughout the day. You can eat whenever or wherever you want - at home, in the car, and on the job. It can fit into everyone's schedule.

While there are many benefits to grazing, you can imagine there are pitfalls. You have permission to eat whenever or wherever, but not whatever. One of the biggest pitfalls to grazing is "eating amnesia," or mindless eating. Not only do you forget what, but how much, you've eaten. Most people forget about the bite of this and the spoonful of that, which can cause your calorie intake to creep up throughout the day. At the end of the day, you realize the bag of cookies or chips are all gone, and you were the only one eating them.

The best way to avoid eating amnesia is to pre-plan your snacks. It's not as hard as it sounds. Taking healthy snacks to work, in the car, or to your home office is the first step. Some ideas are bagels, small bran muffin, bread sticks, low-fat crackers, raisin bread, tuna, snack-size dried fruit, raw vegetables, pretzels, baked snacks, fresh fruit, rice cakes, applesauce, unsweetened cereal, fat-free pudding, yogurt (if you have a refrigerator).

To avoid overeating, the second step is to portion out a serving of the snack. When it's done, you should be done. Many times when you eat while working on other things, you lose track of how much you're eating. Before you know it, the entire bag of pretzels is gone by the end of the afternoon. Even though pretzels are a healthy snack, too much of a good thing can add too many calories to your day.

Another pitfall of grazing is that people feel they need to eat when they take a break. Many of us feel guilty if we take a break just to relax or pleasure read. Since eating looks productive, we turn to food, even if we're not hungry. Don't eat for the sake of eating — eat only when you are hungry.

To be a successful grazer, the following guidelines will help keep you on the right track:

- Go no longer than five hours without foods. Waiting longer than five hours to eat will likely result in overeating or stopping for fast foods, which can sometimes not be healthy.
- Select nutrient-dense foods for your snack. Nutrient-dense foods are those which provide many nutrients for the calories. For example, pretzels and fruit are much more nutrient dense than potato chips and fruit roll-ups.
- Shop for portable and ready-to-go foods. Grocery stores carry a variety of easy-to-pack and smaller portion sizes of foods. For example, you can now purchase baby carrots and place them into a small plastic bag in the morning. Small pudding and yogurt containers (if you have a refrigerator) and single-serving breakfast bars can easily be placed in your briefcase as you head out the door.

Grazing isn't so bad, if you do it the right way. A small amount of time thinking ahead can help you to be a successful grazer.

What Does My Child Need To Know?

MONTOURSVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — Many of you have seen a recent article in "Good Housekeeping" (May) which addresses the topic of essential life skills that all children should know before they leave home.

Do your children know the following:

1. How to do laundry. This includes sorting and may include sewing on buttons.

2. How to cook. Simple meals for younger children, who will need supervision. Older children can even help plan menus!

3. How to budget expenses. Begin with easy concepts at an early age and advance with the child's age.

4. How to clean a room. This begins early with picking up after playtime. By age 7, a child can vacuum and change sheets. Scrubbing the tub and dusting are chores to teach, among others.

5. How to shop for groceries. Ask a 9-year-old to go and get an item on another aisle; and this can lead to price comparisons. A teen should be able to come up with a list and shop alone.

6. How to help themselves. Self-sufficiency skills like looking up numbers in the phone book (not cheating and calling directory assistance), making his own doctor's appointments, scheduling oil changes at the appropriate time, are all important things for kids to know.

CHICKEN AND RICE CASSEROLE

½ cup butter
½ cup olive oil
8 pieces skinless, boneless chicken
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 sweet red pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
12-ounces sliced black olives
Salt and pepper to taste
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon rosemary
½ teaspoon thyme
4 bay leaves
28-ounce can diced tomatoes
8-ounce can tomato sauce
2 cups water
2 tablespoons soy sauce
14-ounce box minute rice

In dutch oven, saute chicken in oil and butter. Brown on both sides. Remove chicken and set aside. Saute onions, peppers, and garlic for 5 minutes. Add mushrooms and olives, saute 2 minutes. Stir in salt, pepper, spices, tomatoes, tomato sauce, water, and soy sauce. Mix well.

Lay chicken on top and bake 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Increase temperature to 375 degrees and bake 20 minutes more. Remove from oven and take chicken off top, save, add rice to sauce and stir. Cover let stand 10 minute. Place chicken on top and serve.

MELBA STREUSEL PIE

9-inch pie crust
Filling:
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 can (1 pound 13-ounces) peach slices, drained
10-ounce package frozen raspberries, thawed, drained
Topping:
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup butter

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

For filling: In large mixing bowl, combine sugar, corn starch, cinnamon, and lemon juice. Stir in peaches and raspberries. Turn into unbaked pastry shell. Sprinkle on topping. Bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 minutes until golden brown and bubbly. Cool.

For topping: In small mixing bowl, combine flour and brown sugar. Cut in butter until mixture is crumbly.

CHICKEN KIEV

4 large chicken breasts, boned, skinned, halved lengthwise
Salt
1 tablespoon chopped green onion
1 tablespoon snipped parsley
¼ pound butter, chilled
All-purpose flour
1 tablespoon water
1 beaten egg
½ cup fine bread crumbs
Fat for frying

Place chicken pieces, boned side up, between two pieces of clear plastic wrap. Working out from center, pound to form cutlets about ¼-inch thick. Peel off wrap; sprinkle with salt, onion, and parsley. Cut the stick of chilled butter into 8 sticks, place a stick at each end of cutlet. Roll meat as for jelly roll, tucking in sides. Press end to seal well. Coat each roll with flour and dip in mixture of water and beaten egg, then roll in bread crumbs.

Chill thoroughly at least one hour. Fry chicken rolls in deep hot fat (375 degrees) about 5 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 4-8.

Note: pound boned chicken with wooden mallet, work out from center, forming thin cutlets. It is important that the rolls be thoroughly chilled.

With summer comes an ideal opportunity for reconnecting family and friendship ties — and what better way to celebrate than with a covered dish gathering?

Perhaps you have a special recipe that family and friends request that you bring to every gathering. But if you are like many people, you're probably searching for new ideas or reminders of past favorites.

In addition to today's selection of recipes from many readers, here is one from Jody Applebee, Prattsburgh, New York. Taco Dip served with corn chips is a popular choice especially among teen-agers and adults. And, Jody writes, it also makes a great meal to serve at home.

TACO DIP

First layer:
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
16-ounces sour cream, softened
Combine cream cheese and sour cream and place in bottom of casserole.
Second layer:
1 pound ground beef
1 package Old El Paso taco mix
1 jar salsa (mild or medium)
Brown ground beef. Follow directions on taco dip, add salsa, and simmer until thickened. Chill in refrigerator until cool. Spread on first layer.
Third layer:
Shredded lettuce, as desired
Diced fresh tomatoes, as desired
Cheddar cheese, shredded, as desired
Black olives, sliced
Place lettuce, tomatoes, cheese, and black olives on second layer in order given. Serve with corn chips.

Green Ketchup, Anyone?

They're about to start making green ketchup. How dare anyone mess with an American icon?

Actually, ketchup — or catsup, or even catchup — has gone through a variety of evolutions over the years. The word itself is a derivation of the Chinese ketsiap, a spicy pickled-fish condiment that, legend has it, British sailors liked so much that they brought it home, possibly from Malaysia or Indonesia, in the 1700s.

Since then, ketchup has been made with everything from oysters, blueberries, mushrooms, anchovies, walnuts, grapes, plums or almost any assortment of fruits. Even today, British catsup is a spicy liquid made with a base of mushrooms, unripe walnuts or oysters that's used primarily as a seasoning for cooking. Americans are credited with first trying tomatoes as a base for the sauce, and H.J. Heinz is said to have perfected the recipe and popularized the product as early as 1876. So, if anyone can "mess with" ketchup, that company can.

In the United States, you can call it ketchup, catsup or catchup, but if you do, it must be made from tomato concentrate, puree, pulp or similar product, vinegar, sweetener such as sugar or corn syrup, and spices and other flavorings. Compare the ingredients on your favorite brands and you'll see some variations, but not a whole lot of them.

The standards for ketchup don't end at ingredients, either. Food and Drug Administration regulations demand that manufacturers test for the product's consistency: Its flow cannot be faster than 1 centimeter in 30 seconds at 20 degrees Celsius (that's 68 degrees Fahrenheit), using a piece of equipment known as a Bostwick Consistometer. While such details may seem picky, they're exactly what prevent you from getting something the consistency of, say, Worcestershire sauce when you open a bottle of ketchup.

Obviously, ketchup can be used on a wide variety foods, including burgers, fries, meatloaf, and eggs. (The new Heinz ketchup just may give new meaning to the Dr. Seuss classic, "Green Eggs and Ham.") A tablespoon of ketchup has about 15 calories and 180 milligrams of sodium. Low-sodium varieties contain only 3 grams of sodium in a tablespoon. Just a note: A packet of ketchup contains a little over a teaspoon.

Making Flavored Vinegars

Fruited or herbed vinegars are easy to make at home. A few precautions are important to have a safe product:

- Use glass containers that have been sterilized 10 minutes in boiling water.
- Scald lids and caps. If using cork, use new pre-sterilized corks.
- Use high quality herbs. Wash gently; blot dry on paper towels.
- Herbs can be dipped in a sanitizing solution of 1-teaspoon household chlorine bleach in 6 cups water then rinsed and patted dry.
- Thoroughly wash fruits in clean water. Leave small fruits whole.
- Allow 1-2 cups of fruit per pint of vinegar.
- Be aware that wine and rice vinegars contain some protein that provides an excellent medium for bacterial growth.
- Store flavored vinegars in the refrigerator for best retention of flavor and freshness.
- Vinegars should keep for up to three months in cool storage and six-eight months refrigerated.
- If mold, bubbling, cloudiness, or sliminess develop, throw it away without using or tasting.
- Vinegars displayed on the window sill or shelf as a decoration for more than a few weeks should be considered permanent decorations and not used in foods.

RASPBERRY VINEGAR

2 cups fresh raspberries
3 cups white wine vinegar

Wash raspberries gently, bruise slightly with the back of a spoon. Place in sterilized quart canning jar. Heat vinegar to just below boiling; pour over raspberries. Cap tightly and allow to stand for 2-3 weeks in a cool dark place. Strain through damp cheesecloth and discard fruit. Pour into clean, sterilized glass jars. Seal tightly. Store in the refrigerator.

Vinegar Variations

Infused with fruits, flavored vinegars look beautiful enough just used as decorations or given as gifts in pretty canning jars with decorator lids. More important, they are easy to create and use in your own kitchen.

Start with the best ingredients. Each kind of vinegar has distinctive characteristics. Distilled vinegar is the least expensive and most versatile of all vinegars. It is best when you want added sour.

Cider vinegar adds a sour apple flavor as well as the sour. It is best for adding zip to a stew, chili or your favorite pickle recipe.

Rice vinegar has a smooth sour flavor with less of an edge than distilled vinegar.

Increasingly popular balsamic vinegar has an intense fruity, spicy, sour flavor that matures over time as it is stored in wooden barrels.

Made from grapes and aged to a delicate flavor, wine vinegar is the best foundation for fruit infused flavored vinegars.

Use these sparkling vinegars with salads and vegetables. A basic vinaigrette can be prepared with two parts oil to one part fruited vinegar for a milder flavor — one to one for more tartness.

Add your favorite mustard, lemon juice, fresh herbs, salt, pepper, honey or jam in whatever proportion suits your culinary mood.

Try sprinkling vinegar on steamed vegetables, fresh salad greens like Swiss chard or spinach, or broiled fish.

For an unusual fruit dip, mix fruited vinegar with yogurt and honey.

Drizzle berry flavored vinegar over pears poached with brown sugar for a sweet-tart dessert.

For a refreshing summer quencher, prepare a syrup of ¼ cup raspberry vinegar and 6 Tablespoons sugar, boil one minute, chill and add to 8 cups seltzer water. However you use them, flavored vinegars add elegance and excitement to special dishes.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Notice: Several readers write that they have problems accessing this address. The common mistake is that readers are substituting an "i" for the "l" needed in two places. If you are having problems reaching this address, please check to make sure you are typing an "l" in both places and not an "i."

QUESTION — Charles Cramer, New Market, Md., would like a copy of the "Lancaster Level Flo Cookbook (Recipes From the Land of the Pennsylvania Dutch)." His family enjoyed a recipe that they believe was originally published in this 1970s' cookbook. The potato salad recipe had a delicious salad dressing.

QUESTION — A reader wants a recipe to make elderberry wine from fresh elderberries.

QUESTION — A subscriber from Leesport writes that she has a problem with sponge and chiffon cakes. Although the cakes bake well, she ends up cutting off one-inch from the bottom of the cake because it is a gummy consistency.

QUESTION — Kenneth Hixon, Warfordsburg, would like a recipe for making gherkin pickles.

QUESTION — Kenneth Hixon, Warfordsburg, would like a recipe for stuffing peppers with a cabbage slaw mixture and canning in a pickled vinegar mixture. He needs complete instructions and ingredients.

QUESTION — A Somerset reader wants a recipe for cooked potato salad dressing that is very yellow from including lots of eggs. The dressing is chilled after it is cooked.

QUESTION — Don Love writes that ladies are not the only ones who like the "B" section. He used to manage restaurants in Gillette, Wyoming, and enjoys good old American country cooking. He'd like recipes to make homemade marshmallow creme, homemade cottage cheese, and cream cheese or substitute.

QUESTION — Eleanor Kisner, Muncy, wants zucchini recipes for casseroles.

QUESTION — Several months ago Michael Brennan, Wilkes Barre, was at an auction in Sullivan County where he ate chicken noodle soup. He writes that it was delicious and looked to be only noodles and chicken. He believes the people at the food stand were from Berks County and were also selling beef vegetable soup. Brennan would like both recipes.

QUESTION Michael Brennan, Wilkes Barre, would like a recipe for what he calls brown basmati long-grain rice. Perhaps the word is misspelled as I have never heard of it before. Does anyone know to what he is referring?

QUESTION — A reader is looking for recipes for hot pepper jam and for sweet pepper jam that tastes similiar to that made by Kitchen Kettle.

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe to make a baking mix similiar to Bisquick, which she can use in recipes calling for Bisquick.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes for breads, cakes, etc., using whole grains. She'd like to cook and bake more healthful foods. Anyone have some ideas and recipes to share?

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Littlestown, wants a recipe for cabbage-noodle salad that is served cold similar to potato salad or coleslaw. It is sold at the Allentown Farmers Market.

QUESTION — Bonnie Reese, Wellsboro, writes that a few years ago, she clipped a wonderful recipe for vegetable pizza from this paper. The recipe had a crust that tasted similar to crescent roll refrigerated dough. She lost the recipe and asked if anyone else clipped it and could send it in to be reprinted.

QUESTION — Bonnie Reese, Wellsboro, wants a recipe for cheesecake that tastes like that served in restaurants. The cheesecakes are about 10-inches in diameter and 4-inches in depth.

QUESTION — A Newburg reader would like recipes for jams and jellies or fruit spreads without sugar or artificial sweetener. She'd like recipes that taste similar to brands such as Polaner's All Fruit, Spreadable Fruit, or Smucker's Simply 100% Fruit.

QUESTION — Sylvia Allgyer, Christiana, would like a recipe for sourdough seven grain bread.

QUESTION — Eva Mae Oberholtzer, Ephrata, would like recipes to make goat cheeses and soaps. She writes that Michelle Good, Beavertown, had sent in a dairy contest recipe for a goat milk pudding and Eva Mae asks if she would send in more recipes using goat's milk.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wants to know where to buy vanilla beans in bulk other than in a health food store.

QUESTION — Like many of our readers, Bonnie Koons, Harrisburg, writes that she loves B section and all the recipes she tries from it are great. She wants a recipe for cheesecake cookies, which have a snickerdoodle recipe base, cheesy center, and a cherry on top.

ANSWER — Summertime brings lots of reunions and gatherings where participants are asked to bring a hot and cold dish. Several readers requested recipes to take to these events. Thanks to many readers for sending recipes, which are printed on page B6.

ANSWER — Herman Bean requested a recipe for cutout molasses cookies. Dorothy Stoms, Deerfield St., N.J., sent a drop cookie recipe, which, she writes, is very old. The recipe is from an 84-year-old friend who got it from her mother. Dorothy has used the recipe for 20 years and taken the cookies to family gatherings and church suppers or given to friends. The cookies go fast according to Dorothy.

Molasses Cookies

½ cup molasses
½ cup sugar
½ cup milk
½ cup shortening

Mix together shortening, sugar, milk, and molasses until light and fluffy.

In another bowl, mix together:
2½ cups flour
½ tablespoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ginger

Mix together both mixtures, add ½ cup raisins.

Drop on greased cookie tray. Bake 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

Store in cookie tin for a day or two. Makes a soft cookie.

ANSWER — For George Spencer who wanted to know who sells buttermilk, Samuel Zook writes that he will have a quart or two to sell each week starting in the fall. He has a few neighbors who churn their own butter and would probably also sell buttermilk. Write to him at 430 N. Shirk Rd., New Holland, PA 17557.

ANSWER — C. Alleman, Hummelstown, wanted recipes for pepper cabbage and pickled vegetables. Thaks to a reader who sent in the following recipes. More will be included with the garden vegetable feature printed on the "Home on the Range" page next week.

Red Pepper Relish

24 sweet red peppers
7 medium onions
2 tablespoons mustard seed
2 tablespoons salt
3 cups vinegar
3 cups sugar

Grind peppers and onions, saving the juice. Combine with juice and other ingredients. Boil 30 minutes. Pack into hot sterilized jars and seal at once.

Yellow Summer Squash Relish

8 cups squash
4 cups bell peppers, chopped
2 cups onions, chopped
2 cups vinegar
2 teaspoons celery seed
2 teaspoons dry mustard
3 cups sugar
½ cup water

Mix vegetables and let stand one hour. Drain. Mix vinegar and remaining ingredients. Pour into kettle with vegetables. Bring to a boil and cook 10 minutes. Pour into sterilized pint jars and seal. Yield: 8 pints.

Pickled Corn Chunks

4 ears fresh corn
2 cups white vinegar
1½ cups water
1½ cups sugar
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon mustard seed
½ teaspoon ground red pepper
2 small onions, thinly sliced

Remove husks and silk from corn. Cut into one-inch pieces. In a large saucepan, combine remaining ingredients, bring to boiling point. Boil two minutes. Add corn, cover and cook five minutes. Cool and chill. Serve corn with corn holders as an hors d' oeuvre or as a meat accompaniment. Makes 2 quarts.

ANSWER — A reader wanted a recipe for soft and high oatmeal whoopie pies. Thanks to R. Hoover, New Holland, for sending a recipe.

Oatmeal Whoopie Pies

2 cups brown sugar
¾ cup butter
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
2 cups rolled oats
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda, dissolved in 4 tablespoons boiling water

Cream together sugar, butter, and eggs. Add salt, flour, rolled oats, cinnamon, and baking powder. Add baking soda water last. Beat. Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 10 minutes.

Frosting:
2 egg whites
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons milk
4 cups confectioners' sugar
1 cup shortening

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Spread between two cookies.

Send Your Favorite Beef Recipe To Enter Contest

The Pennsylvania Beef Council and Lancaster Farming are sponsoring a beef recipe contest to highlight the versatility and nutritional value of beef. To enter the drawing, pick out your favorite recipe which includes a substantial amount of beef or veal.

Simply give us your favorite recipe to prepare that steak, roast, filet, or ground beef for your hungry family and write a short description on why the recipe is such a hit with your family.

Your recipe may fall into the appetizer, soup, entree, vegetable, snack and salad categories or any other creative way to prepare and present beef and veal.

The deadline to enter recipes is Friday, August 25. Contest winners will be printed in the September 2 issue of Lancaster Farming.

Send your entry immediately. Winners will be selected by a random drawing at the end of August, however Lancaster Farming will be printing beef recipes throughout September.

Please clearly print or type your recipe entry. Also be specific and accurate with measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. We may disqualify entries if these guidelines are not followed.

Along with the recipe include your complete mailing address so we can send you a prize if you're a winner. In addition please enter one recipe per family. Contest participants must be 18 or older.

Send entries to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Beef Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 609, 1 East Main Street, Ephrata, PA 17522.

Summer Interns Help With Extension Programs

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — When schools close, students congregate in the many programs offered through county offices of Penn State Extension.

Helping out with the summer rush at Lancaster County extension programing are three summer interns whose experience and career plans bring energy, enthusiasm, and new ideas. The three interns selected have different responsibilities within extension programing.

Charity Irvine, 20, is working with urban youth. A former 4-H'er herself, Charity adapts 4-H programing to the needs of inner city youth, who especially enjoy cultural cooking.

Charity is in her final year at Cornell University where she is pursuing a degree in psychology and Asian religious studies. She spent one semester in London at the School of Oriental and African studies. After grad school, Charity plans to devote her life to missions and finds the experience of working with urban youth invaluable.

Lori Hohanwarter, 20, is a junior at Millersville where she is majoring in English and secondary education.

Because Lori is in charge of general 4-H activities and day camp, her educational background is beneficial in helping 4-H'ers with speech competitions. She enjoys compiling facts and trivia to use in activities such as "Who Wants To Be A Strawberry Millionaire."

Tia Crider, 22, grew up on a dairy farm in Chambersburg, Franklin County. She is in her fifth year at Penn State studying dairy and animal science and hopes to become an extension agent.

As a member of the college dairy judging team, Tia brings a strong background in organizing the county's dairy judging team, which won first place in regional competition and second place at the state level.

Tia previously served as a summer intern in Franklin County. While working as a summer intern, Tia lives with a local poultry farm family.

Register For Shirley Adams Sewing Seminars

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension of Berks County and The Berks County Sewing Guild will co-sponsor two Shirley Adams Sewing Seminars on Tuesday, September 12, at 1 p.m.-4 p.m. and 6 p.m.-9 p.m. located at the Berks County Agricultural Center.

The cost for one session is $25 or for both sessions $45. Registration must be received before August 31. Registration fees increases after that date.

Shirley Adams, inspirational host of the television sewing show called, The Sewing Connection, comes from an educational background so teaching is her primary concern. With three degrees in clothing and textiles, she taught these subjects at the university level for many years. Now her "classroom" has expanded to include television stations all over the country, Canada and even Australia. She not only provides the quality information to perform such operations as setting-in sleeves and satisfying fitting problems, but she inspires her students to mix and match colors and materials — even create their own fabrics.

The two seminars will focus on different topics and a huge collection of 150 garments will be displayed each time for everyone to see. Various fabric embellishments will also be highlighted. The daytime session (1-4 p.m.) will feature quick alterations, ways to easily solve pattern problems, ways to change the location of darts, changing styling but using the same pattern. The evening session (6-9 p.m.) will feature quick wardrobe additions and add-ons for suits and other garments that are suitable for business, church and many other occasions.

To receive a registration form, call the extension office at (610) 378-1327.

Free Summer Fun

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) - Many of the best things in life are free — sunshine, fresh air, water, parks, and lots of agriculture related activities.

Pennsylvania has 127 fairs, sometimes called farm shows. Most offer free admission and free activities. In addition to seeing cows, horses, sheep, goats, and rabbits, petting zoos or tents are set up for children to cuddle, touch, and admire animals up close. Activities often include tractor pedal pulls, hay mazes, and hay bale tosses.

In the upcoming weeks, fairs are scheduled in many communities. To experience the fun, ask your parents to help you find a fair near you.

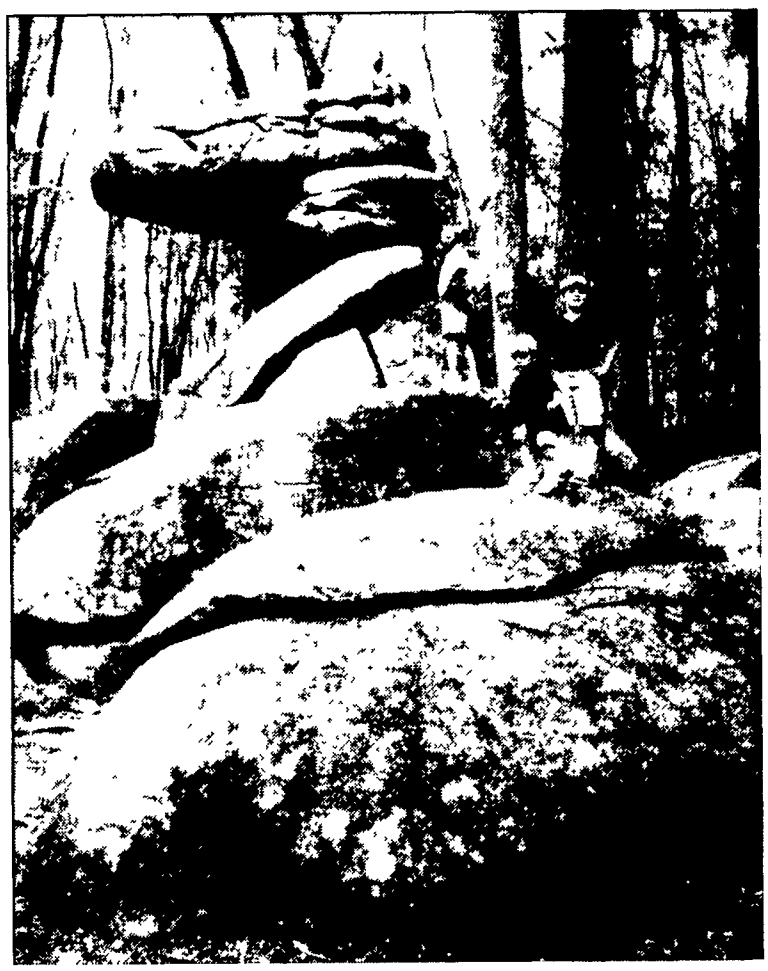
Another option is visiting state parks and state game lands. Along Colebrook Road near Mount Gretna (Lebanon County) are Dinosaur Rocks. These rocks are a natural formation of huge boulders that are shaped like dinosaurs. Kids have lots of fun climbing over these and running around the woods located on state game lands.

Perhaps you have a favorite free place you like to visit. Write and tell us about it. Include a picture if you have one. We will print the information so other kids can have fun too.

To have fun, you don't need to pay high admission tickets to visit amusement parks. The activities on this page are amusing to kids of all ages.

Alex Marple, Covington, pedals to the winner's circle during the Farm City Day held in Tioga County recently.

Keven, Zachary, and Nicole Vernarec, Clinton Township, N.J., cradle a baby bunny at the popular petting zoo during the Clinton County Farm City Day.



Climb the Dinosaur Rocks at Mount Gretna. The huge boulder are a natural formation of rocks that form interesting shapes such as dinosauers.

Kids At Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Don't forget to bring the kids to Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

The Family Learning Hub, near the food vendors on Main Street between West 8th and West 9th, will interest kids whether they live on a farm or in the city. The Hub includes:

• ImAGination Station. Here, the science of agriculture comes to life. Experience out-of-the-ordinary exhibits such as the "Bugmobile," a roving, "talking" car painted like a ladybug. The Bugmobile teaches kids about insects and other potential pests and reducing our exposure to pesticides through integrated pest management (IPM) — with live insects for a real hands-on experience. Visitors also can add their good looks to a 4-H character at the "Picture Yourself in 4-H" exhibit and take home a souvenir.

• Shaver's Creek Environmental Center. This exhibit gives visitors a unique look at native Pennsylvania animal species, such as live raptors, snakes, turtles and frogs, and some hands-on natural history exhibits.

• Farm Animal Learning Center. This is the place to learn about farm animal welfare, including animal care and use issues. The exhibit includes dairy and beef calves, goats, lambs, pigs, miniature horses, chickens, retired greyhounds and other farm and companion animals, as well as information about the myths and facts of farm animal production. More than 50 handouts, mostly for grades 3-8, will cover almost every aspect of animal agriculture.

• Family Room Building. Here, master storytellers will weave their magic tales daily at noon. Jan Kinney, award-winning short story writer, will spin her yarns on Tuesday and Thursday.

• Ermyn King, creator of multisensory story-dramas, will perform on Wednesday. Visitors can go on a treasure hunt, play in the water, do art activities, and read. Educational exhibits by Penn State and other agencies include food preparation demonstrations; life skills and financial know-how; spotting scams and ripoffs; summer safety for children; the "six pillars of character"; tobacco use prevention; reducing your family's pesticide risk; getting fit and choosing foods sensibly; hazards of lead and carbon monoxide poisoning; food safety and dressing, handling, and processing wild game and fish; and an exhibit that encourages eating more fruits and vegetables and purchasing locally grown produce from farmers' markets and stands.

Other activities for the younger crowd include "A-Maze-N Corn." At the Natural Resource Conservation Partnership area, kids can play in the water at the "stream table," make fish prints and enjoy other educational activities.

Food Safety Certification Training Set For Penn State, Lancaster

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Each year in the United States there are an estimated 6 to 33 million cases of food-borne illnesses that result in an estimated 9,000 deaths. The mishandling of food causes about 95% of all food-borne illnesses.

These statistics justify the concern that has arisen throughout our society over the safety of food. Penn State, The Lancaster Center, is offering a course in Food Safety Certification Training on September 13, 20, 27 and October 4 from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

This four-day course is designed to train food service managers, chefs, caterers, cooks, health officials and inspectors to ensure the standards and regulations of food safety.

The National Restaurant Association will certify participants who complete the ServSafe course and pass the exam in food safety and sanitation. The exam is scheduled for October 11 from 8:30-10:30 a.m. at Penn State, The Lancaster Center.

The fee of $150 per participant covers the cost of the ServSafe coursebook, instructional materials, and refreshment breaks.

For more information, contact Helen Ebersole at (717) 299-7667. Register early to ensure your space in the class. Penn State, The Lancaster Center, is at 1850 William Penn Way in the Greenfield Corporate Center.

Learn While Doing

MONTOURSVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — Tired of making the same old dinners for your family?

Diane Scharper, R.D. of the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office is sponsoring cooking classes this fall.

Cost of each program is $10 and covers the entire four weeks.

All sessions will be held at the Extension office at 542 County Farm Road, Montoursville. Registration deadline is five days before event.

• Let's Do Vegetarian! — September 21, 28 and October 5, 12. Time: 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Learn how to compliment proteins, cook grains, prepare tofu and expand your vegetable world.

• Heart Healthy — October 19, 26 and November 2, 9. Time: 10 a.m.-12 p.m. Lowfat baking and cooking to please the palate. Bring your favorite recipe for a makeover.

• Quick and Easy February 1, 8, 15, 22. Time: 1:30 p.m.-3:30 p.m. No time to cook, but miss home cooking? Whip up meals in 30 minutes or less.

For more information , call (570) 433-3040.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The summer is slipping by rather quickly. Some leaves on our big crab apple tree are already turning yellow.

Our daughter and her children came to visit for several days. They drove from Atlanta, Georgia and it was a long journey by car. They leave early in the morning and arrive here late at night. She came to attend a picnic and to visit her parents. She always comes bearing gifts. This time she gave containers of saffron and a big bag of pecans. A big basket of peaches from North Carolina was a welcome treat too.

Her girls like to go to the farm and play with the three children who live there. The cousins have a tree house in the meadow. And, they have three dogs and many cats to play with when they visit.

One afternoon the children got me away from canning pickles, which is a daily job, and we went to the Lititz Museum. The town of Lititz was founded in 1756 and during our tour of the Mueller House we learned what it was like to live in a closed Moravian settlement. Johannes Mueller was a local tanner and dyer.

Lititz is well known for Linden Hall School for Girls, the Pretzel House, and Lititz Springs Park. General John Sutter, of gold rush fame, lived and died in this town. Many of the 18th Century buildings are still standing on Main Street. And, I especially enjoyed the heritage garden behind the museum with its water garden and many flowers. We had a busy week.

Stream MAPS

NOW UPDATED WITH ROADS !

Why every fisherman needs these maps

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Professor Higbee's Stream Maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind... showing virtually all of the streams, rivers and lakes in each state.

Professor Higbee's® STREAMS

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."
John Pitarres
OBSERVER-DISPATCH-Utica

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake ....then "Professor Higbee's Stream Maps" are without question the finest
Howard Brant
THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman.
Joe Gorden
TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT-Johnstown

"The map is the most comprehensive charting of waterways we've ever run across "
Dave Henderson

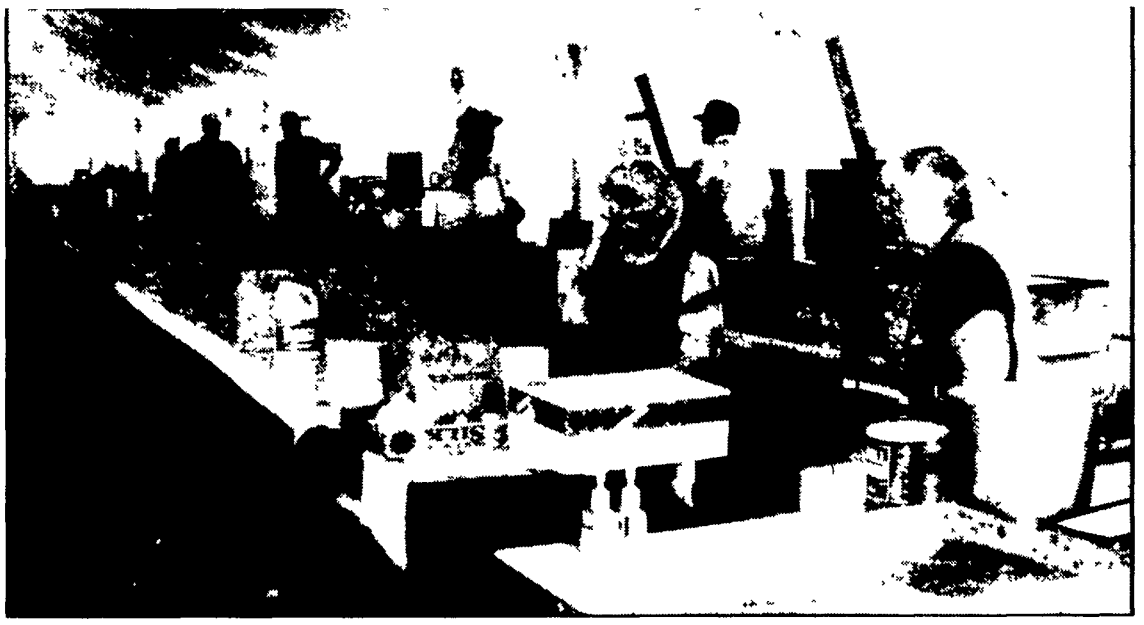
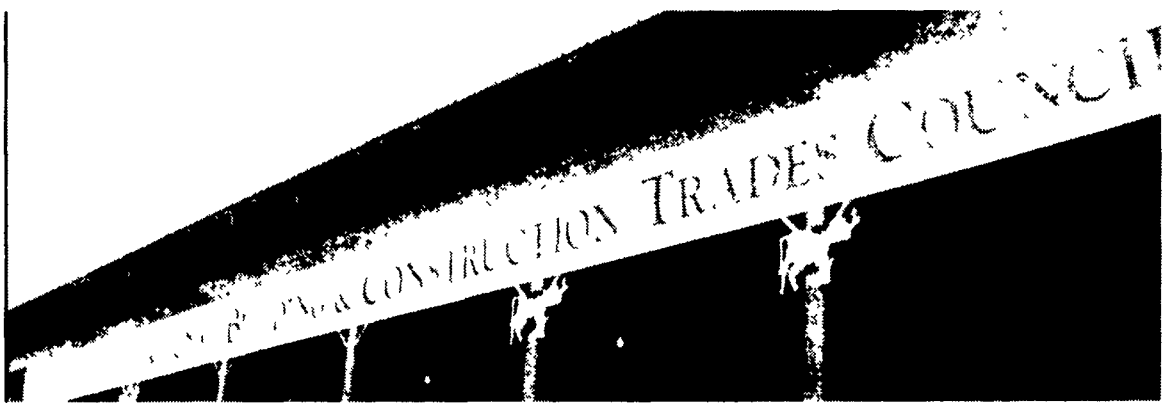
New Fairground, New Traditions For Reading Fairgoers

Volunteers in the Reading Fairground exhibit area (in the 4-H center) hold up the first-place entries Monday. From left, Linda Ernst holds the winner of the Hershey's Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest baked by Kim Miccicke, Bernville; June Schuler with the greatest cocoa cookie, brownie and bars contest winner, exhibited by Chuck Hertzog, Birdsboro; and Helen Readinger with the apple pie contest winner, exhibited by Kim Miccicke.

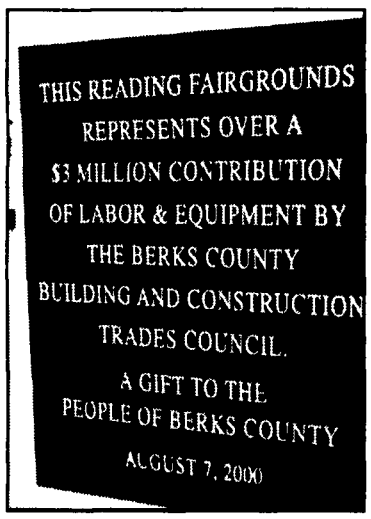


The Cookery — the longtime Reading Fair tradition — returns to the new fairground near Leesport. Home-cooking specialities are offered by the Granges. Virginville Grange members Dorothy Bechtel and Esther Stitzel ready the stand Monday.



This banner in the new exhibit area provides a great big "thanks" for the gift of the new fairgrounds exhibits from the Berks County Building and Construction Trades Council.

Sheep showmanship champion Amanda Miller 15, daughter of Ron and Joan Miller, Bernville, holds one of the "first" champion trophies at the new Reading Fairground on County Welfare Road new Leesport.



Located on more than 60 acres, the new Reading Fairgrounds is a testament to the large amounts of time and money donated by the public. This sign, on the new bridge connecting the fairgrounds to the 4-H center, was placed to remind those who cross of the efforts of an entire community.

Finally . . . it's done! Volunteers Monday were busy finishing the new fairground up to the last second. So were the exhibitors, who caught some shut-eye. Cody Miller, 6, son of Todd and Martha Miller, Hamburg, enjoys some time off from the fair.

At a cost of about $3 million (mostly in donations), the new Reading Fairground near Leesport hosts two pole barns on a side connected to a show ring. Each barn measures 125 by 60 feet.

Dairy Princesses Learn Skills Behind Effective Promotion

HAMILTON, N.Y. — Sunny skies welcomed 33 new county dairy princesses to the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's (ADADC) annual training seminar. Held at the White Eagle Conference Center in Hamilton July 6-7, the two-day event prepared girls for their role in increasing milk and dairy product consumption throughout the coming year.

Throughout their year-long reign, dairy princesses are asked to make school presentations, generate newspaper publicity for dairy products, attend farm meetings, and make appearances at special events. At the seminar, promoters attended interactive workshops on public speaking, school presentations, newspaper and media relations, product knowledge, and heard an update from the Madison Co. Health department. The seminar allowed girls to meet fellow dairy promoters across New York and New Jersey who are interested and enthusiastic about increasing dairy product consumption, and offered the girls ample opportunity to ask one-on-one questions.

Former New York State Dairy Princess, Alison Littlefield, taught the school program and public speaking workshops. Littlefield stressed the importance of reaching school-aged children, saying, "School programs teach children at a young age to continue to consume dairy products their entire life."

Reigning Tioga County dairy princess Heather Howland felt that Littlefield's workshops were the most beneficial to her. She commented, "Alison's experience with the dairy princess program and knowledge of the dairy industry gave me a better idea of how to present my message." During her public speaking workshop, Alison put many girls on the spot, drilling them with controversial questions frequently asked by media and the public, and offered tips for how to respond.

Scott Hallman, ADADC director of communications, and Beth Meyer, ADADC public relations specialist, presented a newspaper and public relations workshop. The pair offered tips for getting news articles published, what constitutes an effective article, and dealing with the public. To put the newly learned skills into practice, princesses were asked to edit a mistake-ridden news article. and were given 10 minutes to write a news release about a special event. Their submissions were corrected and returned in the hopes that the constructive criticism would improve communication skills.

Serving as role models for the new county dairy princesses, reigning New York State Dairy Princesses Marianne Moody, Cairy Norman, and Christine Weissmann drilled product knowledge to the girls.

According to State Second Alternate dairy princess Christine Weissmann, "Knowledge is the key to success. You must believe in the magic of milk."

The seminar provides a foundation for the 2001 New York State Dairy Princess pageant to be held February 20 at the Four Points Hotel in Syracuse.

ADADC Uses Hot Teen Star To Sell Cold Milk

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — One of the hottest young teen performers in the country is doing it "one more time" for dairy farmers, and local dairy promotion teams are taking advantage of the opportunity to spread positive milk messages.

This summer, "got milk?" is sponsoring teen sensation Britney Spears' national concert tour. To help drive home the milk consumption message, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) is using its allotment of tickets to her concerts in the region to create local promotions with the cooperation of television stations, hoping to capitalize off the star's popularity.

Britney continues to turn heads in the dairy department, as key supermarket chains throughout ADADC's marketing area have agreed to participate in a promotion this fall featuring: point of purchase materials and special locker-sized Britney posters. To get the posters, consumers need to purchase two gallons of milk. On the back of the posters are also directions on how to enter a special chocolate milk sweepstakes.

Consumers can call an 800 number and win prizes instantly, including a grand prize of a day with Britney.

Preparations . . .

To achieve shiny show ring hooves Kendra Lehman, 17, Mechanicsburg, leans into her task. Lehman has been showing swine, sheep, and goats, but this year marks her first time showing cattle.

"Emma" stands quietly during her appointment in a makeshift salon at the fair. Melissa Bashore, 12, of Northern Lebanon, sets her heifer's top line with a hair dryer, brush, and clear holding agent.

On a muggy August day, a lengthy rinsing benefits both animal and handler. Valerie Blauch, 10, in the fifth grade in the Fredericksburg school district, cools off "Jasmine."

Although each fair is unique, one element is essential to every fair: careful preparation.

And, of course, last-minute lead line practice. Chelsea Horst, 11, from Newmanstown, has been working with "Cyrenne" all summer. New surroundings, however, may make even the most docile animal a little more difficult than usual.

Shawn Hernley demonstrates to Andy Atkins, both of Lebanon, the fine art of fitting calves for the show ring.

Junior And Senior Teams Compete At State Days

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — "My dad's lectures came in handy," a surprised Tiffany Dean said after the Strasburg teen-ager was named tops in junior dairy judging at the state level.

Tiffany said that she lacked confidence and feared she didn't do well while competing in livestock judging during the annual 4-H State Days held last week at Penn State.

When the points were tallied, Tiffany scored as high individual of all participants. It's an honor she gives to her dad Gary, who continually reviews points in the visual appraisal of sheep, beef, and swine.

The senior livestock judging team composed of members Ryan Donough, Jason Rohrer, Radell Peters, and Derek Bollinger placed third in their division.

The Lancaster County junior dairy judging team placed second. Quite an accomplishment according to Tia Crider, summer intern and coach for the team.

"The first time this team competed in a competition was at regionals in July. To qualify for state competition is quite exciting, and to place second at the state level is thrilling," she said.

In addition, team dairy club members Timothy Donough Jr. scored as third high individual and Josh Akers as fourth.

Not all competitions are agriculturally related. In a repeat of last year, Mila Pilz scored as high individual in the senior girls archery competition.

Katina Showman, 4-H extension agent, said of the three-day event, "It was another good trip with a good bunch of kids, and a good opportunity to build friendships, practice skills, and meet one another."

In upcoming weeks look for more pictures of winners from across the state.

Life Skills, Family Information At Ag ProgressDays

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Learn life skills and take a break from the sun (or rain!) at the Family Room Building at Penn State's 2000 Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

The Family Room is located in he Family Learning Hub on Main Street, between West 8th and 9th Streets at the Ag Progress Days site. Visitors with children can hear a storyteller, go on a treasure hunt, enjoy water play, do art activities and read.

This year's exhibits include:

• Healthy Meals, Healthy Families, a series of 30-minute food demonstrations conducted on the hour, features Kids in the Kitchen, Stromboli, Eating Your Way to Better Health, Get a "B" Attitude, Are You Folate Smart?, Ideas With Tofu, and Food From Other Cultures.

• Strong Families, Strong Children — Cultivating Life Skills teaches people how to meet needs and manage life challenges. Families who cope well with stress have daily routines and traditions and express love and humor. Financial know-how also helps people thrive by providing an economic foundation and sense of control.

• Fraud, Scams and Rip-offs introduces an extension program that teaches consumers how to spot scams and rip-offs, and avoid becoming a scam victim.

• Summer Safety for Children, by the Better Kid Care program, highlights water safety. Visitors also will learn how to keep kids safe in the sun, riding bikes, using play equipment, traveling in vehicles and near campfires, grills, and biting insects.

• The Character Education exhibit features the Six Pillars of Character — respect, trustworthiness, responsibility, fairness, caring, and citizenship. Youth can contribute to a "Wall of Respect" and "Act of Kindness Tree."

• Youth Tobacco Prevention emphasizes the importance of smoke-free air. Breathing secondhand smoke significantly increases our risk of developing cancer. We all deserve smoke-free air in restaurants, public places, and work places.

• Reduce Your Pesticide Risk, by the Appalachia Cancer Network and Pennsylvania Breast Cancer and Environmental Risk Factor Project, teaches how to read pesticide labels, select a pest control method, lower exposures, and wash clothing after application.

• Year 2000 Dietary Guidelines focuses on fitness and choosing foods sensibly. Visitors can learn how snacks fit into the food guide pyramid and evaluate how well they are following the patterns of recommended food choices.

• Hazards of Lead and Carbon Monoxide Poisoning, by the Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health, tests knowledge of these hazards and offers fact sheets, handouts and free gifts.

• Pennsylvania's Nutrition Education's To Market, To Market exhibit will encourage people to eat more fruits and vegetables and purchase locally grown produce from farmers markets and produce stands to positively impact rural communities.

• Consumer Food Safety addresses food temperatures while cooking and barbecuing, meat irradiation, hand washing, and dressing, handling, and processing wild game and fish.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

ANSWER — Merryleigh Berger wanted to know how to propagate roses from her mother's rosebushes. Here is a method different from the one printed in last week's issue. Sorry I can't credit the person who mailed the instructions because she did not include her name.

Here are the instructions for air layering, a method of propagating: Leave a few leaves on the tip of a strong rose stem and cut a notch about a quarter through the stem a short distance below the leaves. A small splinter of wood or pebble is placed in the cut to keep it open. Place a larger handful of sphagnum or peat moss around the stem at this point and bind it in place with an opened plastic bag tied around it with a cord. Keep the moss moist. When the roots develop, cut the upper part away, which will be the new plant.

Simple layering: Make a small trench where a flexible rose stem is growing. Bend stem down into the trough, anchor it with a stone, cover it with enough ground to keep it as moist as much as possible. The underside of this stem can be cut slightly where the roots are desired before placing it in the trench. The tip must be kept uncovered.

ANSWER — Mrs. John David Zimmerman, East Earl, wanted to know if someone has a Model 47 Royal sweeper or Tristar they wish to sell. L. Zimmerman writes that she has one that was used only 1½ years. Call her at (717) 445-5104.

ANSWER — Lena Oberholtzer, Leola, wanted to know where to get a rubber seal for a No. 7 National pressure cooker. The company had been located in Eau Claire, Wis. An Ephrata reader writes that the seals are available from Specker's of Main St., Ephrata.

ANSWER — Pat Barbosa should contact N. Kring, 943 Fleegle Rd., Cairnbrook, PA 15924, for an answer to her request.

ANSWER — In answer to Ed Hoffman, David Kreider, Bethel, writes that groundhogs serve no good purpose on their farm. Toxic smoke bombs, available from farm supply stores, have been used with good results.

G.C.M. writes that they got rid of a groundhog beneath their deck by putting vinegar around the opening of the deck. The leftover brine from a jar of pickles works well.

Working From Home Saved The 1800s "Decayed Gentlewoman'

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA — Working from home while the soup simmers on the stove and clothes tumble in the washing machine is a dream for many women.

It is a concept that has deep roots in Pennsylvania.

In 1837, before heart bypasses and antibiotics, many women suddenly found themselves without a husband or substantial income to feed a growing family. Sweatshops were prevalent and day cares were absent. On the plus side, many of these women developed marvelous sewing and artistic skills.

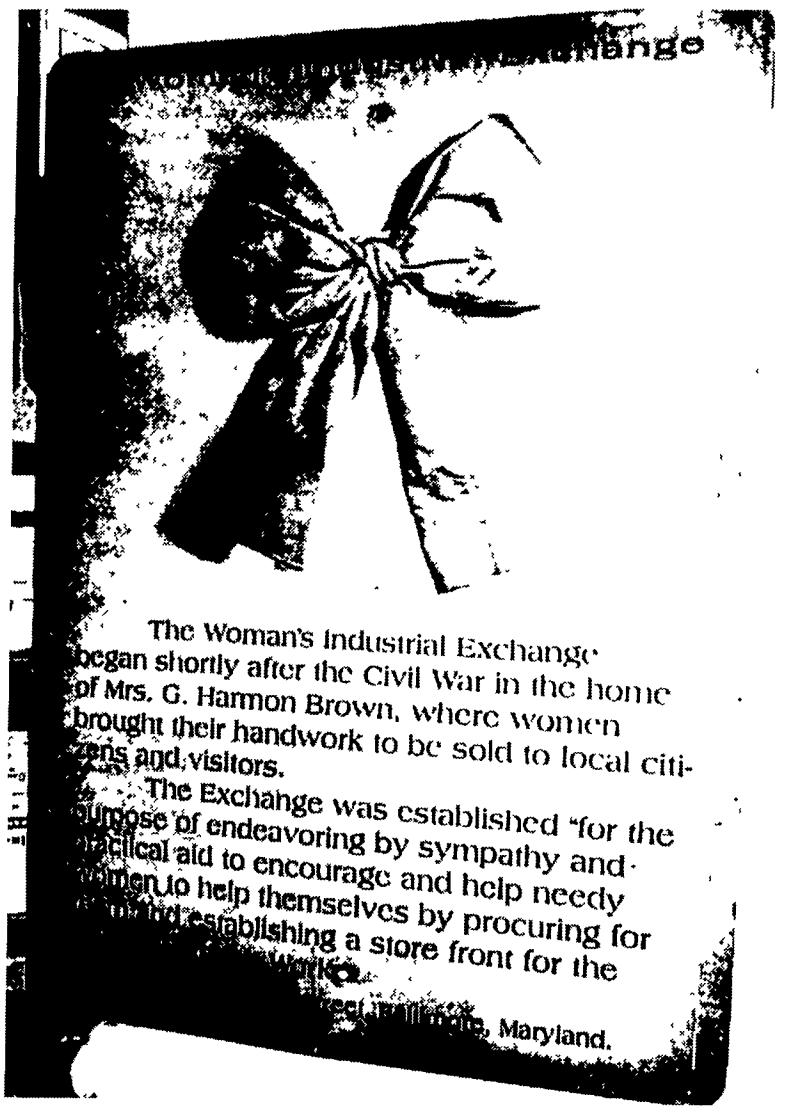
Their talents did not go unnoticed. In 1837, Elizabeth Stout of Philadelphia and 16 of her benevolent associates opened the first Women's Exchange. This was a shop where women could anonymously sell their handmade creations. It was a concept that quickly spread throughout many of the states.

The Exchange movement with the lovely handmade products grew rapidly after the Civil War. It was referred to as the angel's inspiration to save the decayed gentlewoman, because the war had left a surplus of widows and children.

Changes cause many businesses to fall by the wayside. Such it was with the women's exchanges. Richmond, Virginia closed the doors of its exchange in 1955. Cincinnati celebrated 75 anniversaries before closing down in 1958.

Philadelphia Ladies' Depository, originator of the Exchange idea, merged with the Philadelphia Exchange for Woman's Work. This new consolidated business, in turn, spawned several other exchanges in the Philadelphia area with five still being concentrated in the surrounding suburbs and townships.

Boston Women's Industrial and Educational Union continues as a popular shopping spot for a fifth generation of New England patrons and boasts one of the country's finest needle work departments. The Brooklyn, New York, Exchange prides itself as being one of Brooklyn's oldest continuously operating enterprises and is housed in one of the borough's historic churches and employs about three hundred consignors a year.



The Woman's Industrial Exchange began shortly after the Civil War in the home of Mrs. G. Harmon Brown, where women brought their handwork to be sold to local citizens and visitors.

The Exchange was established "for the purpose of endeavoring by sympathy and practical aid to encourage and help needy women to help themselves by procuring for them and establishing a store front for the work..."

...Maryland.

St. Augustine, Florida, and Hartford, Connecticut, also survive. Hartford had a great celebration in 1988 and invited all 238 consignors to share in the event. It was a far cry from the early days of the exchanges, when consignor's identities were kept secret, because it was considered unladylike to earn money.

The longest surviving continuous business in Baltimore, Maryland, is the Women's Industrial Exchange. Located near the Peabody Institute, it is a step back in history to walk through the old wooden doors with the arched window top.

Inside, dark polished shelves are home to dozens of objects created by women from around the country. Today's computerized methods make it possible to stock items from all over the United States and not just the immediate area.

A rack of carefully stitched and lovingly made children's clothing ranging in size from infant to about a size six invites mothers, grandmothers, aunts, or just gift seekers to visit on a regular basis.

Paintings, an assortment of handmade toiletry items, dollhouse furniture, stuffed toys, handpainted notes, quilted potholders and other kitchen accessories and an assortment of fresh daily baked goods line the shelves and counters of this quaint shop.

Nora Ephron, director of the 1993 hit film Sleepless in Seattle, was inspired to stage a scene in the lunchroom of the Baltimore Woman's Industrial Exchange. One of the waitresses, Marguerite, who is now well into her 90's has worked at the Exchange for over a half-century, had a role in the scene. Later, she was a guest of honor at the movie's premier in Baltimore.

Much of the material for this article was taken from a book written by Kathleen Waters Sander, "The Business of Charity."

For more information on the "Exchanges" contact the "Baltimore Industrial Exchange" at 300 Charles Street, Baltimore, Md.

The outside of the Women's Industrial Exchange in Baltimore, Maryland is the oldest continuing business in that city. Considered unladylike to earn money in the 1800s, the exchange enabled women to sell handmade creations anonymously.

5-Year-Old Tops Lebanon Fair Holstein Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — A 5-year-old — Ju-Vindale Flip Megan — exhibited by Scott and Karen Nolt, Lebanon, won grand champion of the Holstein Show last week at the Lebanon Fair.

This is the first time the Nolts won in the open show for Megan (S: Cook-Farm Starbuck FLI, D:JU-Vindale Henry Mado), though Scott said they won in the FFA division in the past.

The Nolts will be attending the Holstein district championship show in Kutztown.

The Sonnen Holstein junior 2-year-old (S: Fraeland Leadoff-ET, D: Frogmore TN Calico) won first at the Pennsylvania Spring Show in March. Last year, at the fair, the 2-year-old won junior champion.

Sonnen said the cow will be shown at the district Holstein show at Shippensburg. The Sonnens also exhibit at All American in Harrisburg.

Scott and Karen Nolt, Lebanon, exhibited the grand champion Holstein, a 5-year-old cow, last week at the Lebanon Fair Holstein Show. Karen is holding Katelyn, 6 mos.

Sun Is Food's Original Energy Source

How does the body uses food for energy?

That's a complex question that college courses in nutrition are designed to answer. But, to focus on the very basics, the whole process starts with the sun.

Plants — which are both a food we eat and food for the livestock that we eat — rely on solar energy to convert water from the soil and carbon dioxide from the air into glucose. When we consume glucose and other substances, such as triglycerides, they must be broken down into smaller pieces before the body's cells can use them. For example, a single glucose molecule contains about 100 times more energy than a cell needs for a chemical reaction, and so it must be dismantled before cells can tap that energy. Triglyceride molecules, which we consume when we eat fat, contain about 500 times more energy than a cell can use as an energy source.

The form of energy that cells actually use is called adenosine triphosphate, or ATP. ATP plays a dual role: Two ATP molecules start the process with glucose, for example, by breaking a glucose molecule in half. The entire break-down process results in the formation of pyruvic acid and a total of four ATP — two more than the process started with. Much more ATP results from each glucose molecule through other chemical processes.

Cells use ATP whenever they need energy, whether it's chemical energy to store for later use; mechanical energy used in muscle movement; electrical energy for nerve transmissions; or osmotic energy to balance sodium, potassium and other ions within the cell. When ATP is used — for example, when you run to catch a bus — it breaks down. It's in that breakdown that energy is released, from the bonds that hold ATP together.

The byproducts of all these energy transformations are water, carbon dioxide and heat — which are exactly the things that started the whole process in the first place. It's a fascinating system that connects the sun at the center of our solar system to each individual cell in our bodies.

Bad For Me?

The warm days of summer cause many of us to lay out in our backyards, at the beach or by the pool in an effort to develop a dark tan.

What many people don't know is that careless exposure to the sun can be harmful!

Ultraviolet rays from the sun damage skin. They can also create vision problems, allergic reactions, trouble with your immune system, and skin problems.

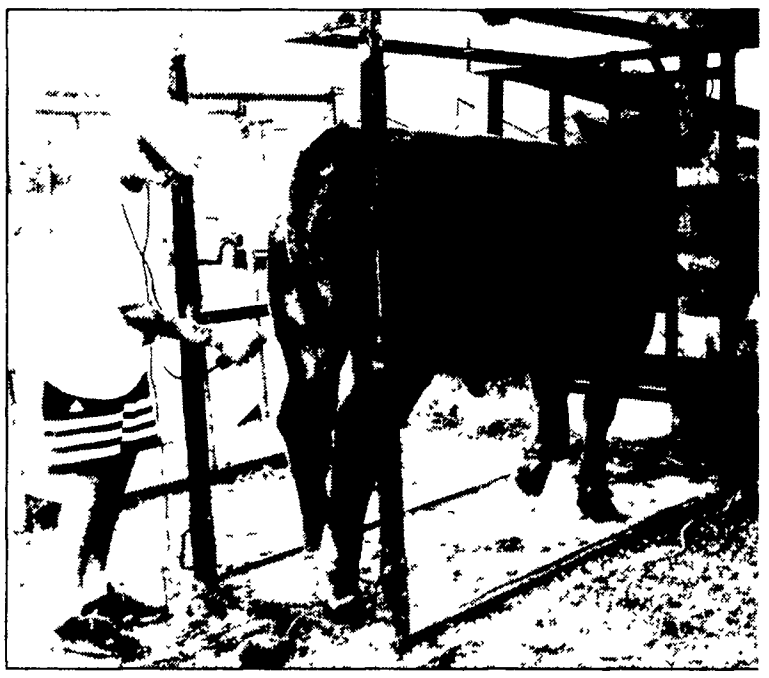
When ultraviolet rays penetrate our skin, they stimulate cells containing a brownish-pigment called melanin. Melanin protects the skin by absorbing and scattering ultraviolet rays.

People with dark skin have high amounts of melanin and greater natural protection from the sun. People with blonde or red hair, and those with fair skin, have less melanin and burn more quickly.

There are two types of ultraviolet rays: UVA and UVB. UVB rays cause burning and redness of the skin associated with sunburn, skin cancer and premature aging. UVA rays stimulate tanning, but are linked to other problems like impaired vision, skin rashes, and allergic reactions to the sun or certain medications.

It's important to wear sunscreen! The next time you go outside, make sure to slap on the sunscreen so you'll stay healthy!

Fair queen Beth Kreider, Agriculture Secretary Samuel Hayes, Dairy Maid Jessica Bross and Lebanon County Alternate Amanda Heffelfinger attended the fair's dairy show.



Matt Blauch, 14, of Jonestown trims up a friend's animal, named "Steer Calf," in preparation for the afternoon's beef show.

Dairy Miss Janelle Mendoff, 5, helps Lebanon Fair Queen Beth Kreider hand out ribbons in the fall heifer class. Receiving the ribbon is Cody Hostetter of Annville, who took first place in the FFA division.

Bedford County Selects First Fair Queen

Newly crowned Bedford County Fair Queen, Amber Clark.

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW ENTERPRISE (Bedford Co.) — Amber Clark, daughter of Richard and Elizabeth Clark of New Enterprise, was selected as the first Bedford County Fair Queen at a ceremony held on Monday evening, August 7.

Amber is a 2000 graduate of Northern Bedford County High School and plans to attend Mount Aloysius College in the fall to major in business administration.

Tall and graceful, Amber has been showing Guernsey cows at the Bedford County Fair since she was old enough to hold a halter. She is a protegee of her aunt, Bernetta Gable.

Contestants were judged on an interview, a 300-word essay on "Why is the fair important?" and a question, which was answered on stage.

Amber's question was "Why would you want to be a fair queen?" which she answered without hesitation stating the importance the fair plays in her life.

First runner-up was Sarah Howes, daughter of Stan and Tina Howes of Bedford. A senior at Bedford High School, Sarah plans to attend college to major in fashion and interior design.

Her question was: "What would be the most important duties of a fair queen?"

First place queen was awarded a $500 check while Sarah was presented with $100. There were also gifts for each of the other five contestants.

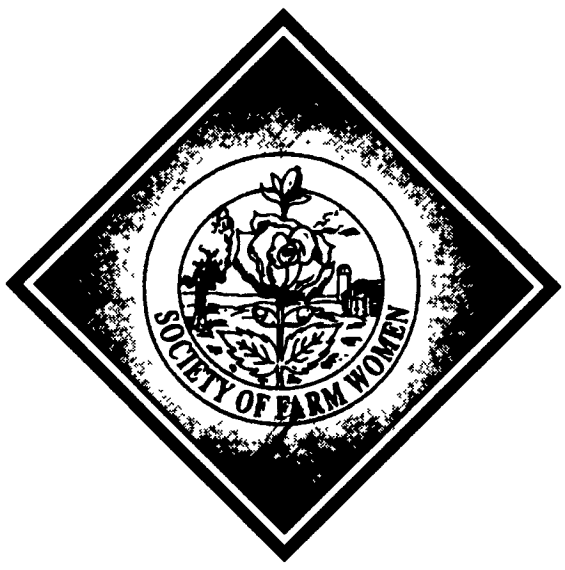
Janna Duttry, 2000 Pennsylvania State Fair Queen from Clearfield crowned the historic Bedford County queen.



Berks Society 1

The May meeting of the Berks County Society of Farm Women was conducted at the home of Mrs. Ella Richard in Oley. We repeated Psalm 23 followed by the Lord's Prayer and flag salute.

The meeting was conducted by president Geraldine Marsteller.

The entertainment was Mrs. Carole Fisher from the Berks County Extension Office. She gave us highlights on nutrition and balanced meals. It was very interesting.

We then made final arrangements on our 60th anniversary, the next day.

The 60th anniversary was celebrated with much success. Seventy-five women from all over Berks County attended. We had wonderful entertainment — Marimba and Chimes by two ladies and a son. We had good food and a good time was had by all.

The June meeting was conducted at the home of Mrs. Eva Seigfreid in Oley.

The roll call question was: What is your least favorite task around the house?

The answer was unanimous: cleaning.

For entertainment, we had the Berks County Dairy Princess Miss Cindy Bray. For her program she gave an essay about the Pennsylvania farmer. For those of us who were farmers, she described them very well.

Program Chairman Agnes Noll thanked everybody for making the 60th anniversary a success. And we thanked her for the way she organized everything.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ellen Snyder, our annual Googie Roast.

Lancaster Society #20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met on Thursday, June 1, at the home of Helen Winters with an attendance of 14.

Following the refreshments, the meeting was called to order by the president, Valaria Ferguson.

For the opening, Jean Ressel, in the absence of Velma Goss, led the Lord's Prayer and then had a poem titled "Hugs." Following the poem, the group spent a few minutes sharing hugs.

Before reading the minutes, all joined in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Several "thank you" letters were read and the president stated that she presented the FFA Award to Ryan Wimer at the Solanco High School. Helen Tout was given four names to whom "get well" cards should be sent. We received invitations to be guests of Societies #14 and #15.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet at the home of Anna Mary (Sis) Groff with Frieda Wimer as cohostess.

Bake Sale Nets $1439 For Bedford Fair

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — The annual bake sale held at the Bedford County Fair brought in a total of $1439 for the continued maintenance of the Bedford Fair 4-H building fund.

Baked goods are provided by the contestants who enter baked goods in the fair and range from tantalizing chocolate cakes to sweet tooth lovers fudge to light and fluffy biscuits.

There seems to be no reason as to why some of the bidding goes high while others will settle for a $5 bid on a blue ribbon winner. At the Monday, August 7, sale, a pan of fudge went to DeArment Insurance for $135. It was bid by Peg Wolfhope, an employee of the agency.

DeArments was top bidder for the evening, buying a total of $207 worth of delectable goodies.

A close second to DeArments was Alden Weaverling who bought $144.50 worth of cookies, cakes, pies, and homemade bread.

The grand total for the bake sale was $1,439.

The fun annual event brings buyers from all walks of life including a local doctor, Eric Weaverling who donates all of his goodies to the fair contestants.

Ben Kendall, local accountant, also does his share of running up the bids and hands out his purchased items to spectators in the audience.

Massage Therapy bought a good supply of cookies and brownies and also shared them with the audience.

Volunteer auctioneers were Stanley Claycomb and his daughter, Linda Brumbaugh.

Peg Wolfhope, representing DeArment Insurance, pays $135 for a pan of fudge to volunteer auctioneer Stanley Claycomb.

The bidding gets going as 4-H members bring out the baked goods and Stanley Claycomb and daughter Linda Brumbaugh do the auctioning.

Arts And Crafts Show

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) - The 13th annual Heart of Lancaster County Arts and Crafts Show will be held on Labor Day, Sept.2, at Roots Market, Manheim. Free parking and free admission to the show that features 170 juried artists and craftsmen. A quilt will be raffled at 5 p.m. with all proceeds donated to the Make A Wish Foundation.

ONCE A DAY DOES PAY

More than 30 million Americans consume milk just once a day (mainly at breakfast or dinner), but they drive nearly 20% of total fluid milk volume, or 1.2 billion gallons.

Don't Be A Couch Potato: Come To Penn State's Trial Gardens Tour, Sample New Vegetable Varieties

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Backyard gardeners, gourmets, and any person with an interest in vegetables can find out how to produce, cook, and serve great produce at Penn State's All-America Selection Vegetable Tour, Aug. 24, at the Penn State Trial Gardens.

The gardens are located at the corner of Bigler Road and Park Avenue, on the University Park campus.

"The trial gardens are test plots where we grow new vegetable varieties to see if they are reliable, vigorous, productive and show distinct improvements over other varieties that are currently in use," said Peter Ferretti, professor of vegetable crops in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

The event begins at 9 a.m. with registration and refreshments. At 10 a.m., Ferretti will lead a tour through the vegetable plots, highlighting such fruits and vegetables as fall peas, peppers, squash, melons, pumpkins, tomatoes, cabbage and ornamental (and edible) chard. "We have many varieties of each vegetable," Ferretti said. "For instance, we have cherry, bush, plum and vine tomatoes that are red, orange and yellow."

Visitors will get a chance to photograph and sample vegetables during the tour. At noon, participants will reconvene at the nearby Beaver Picnic Pavilion for a catered buffet luncheon, where samples of the most promising vegetable varieties will be served in various side dishes.

At 1 p.m., Ferretti will offer gardening and production advice for each variety as well as food preparation ideas. Alison Harmon, senior extension associate in food science, will discuss their nutritional aspects. Luke Laborde, assistant professor of food science, will address food safety issues associated with vegetable handling and preparation.

A round table discussion on various vegetable topics is scheduled from 2:30 p.m.-3:30 p.m.

A $25 registration fee includes materials and the catered lunch. Registration slots are limited, so early registration is recommended. For more information, or to request registration materials, call Peter Ferretti at (814) 863-2313 or the Conferences and Short Courses Office at (814) 865-8301. A block of rooms at the Autoport Motel is being held. To reserve a room ($57 for a single and $67 for a double), call (800) 932-7678.

Registrations will be accepted by mail or fax through Aug. 17. The fax number for the Conferences and Short Courses Office is (814) 865-7050. Checks should be made payable to Penn State. Completed registration forms and payment should be mailed to AAS Vegetable Tour, The Pennsylvania State University, 306 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA, 16802-2601.

Get Lost, See Monsters, Get Crop Tips At Ag Progress Days

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Visitors to Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17, can get lost in a corn maze, enter a monster weed in the "Largest Weed in Pennsylvania Contest," and learn about the latest improvements in forage and crop production at the Crops and Soils Area on East 5th Street here at the Ag Progress Days site.

"This year's "A Maze "N Corn' is four times larger than last year's, and it's wheelchair- and baby-stroller accessible," said Marvin Hall, associate professor of forage management and coordinator for the area.

If there were a contest for growing weeds, do you think you'd win hands down? Now's your chance to show all of Pennsylvania your biggest weed. Enter the "Largest Weed in Pennsylvania Contest" by bringing your entry in one of the two categories — broadleaf or grass — to the Crops and Soils Tent before noon any day of Ag Progress Days. Prizes will be awarded daily.

Rules include: 1) only two weeds per person, 2) weeds must be grown in Pennsylvania, and 3) weeds must be cut off at soil level (no roots).

This year's demonstration plots, located outside the tent, include the latest technology in weed control, herbicide-resistant corn and soybeans, and management of corn, soybeans, small grains and forage crops.

Inside the tent, visitors can see exhibits and demonstrations from Penn State, the Corn Growers Association and the Forage Growers Association. "The display of common weeds of Pennsylvania always is a big attraction," said Hall. "We have live weeds in pots, and specialists on hand to answer your questions on controlling specific weeds. If you have strange weeds on your property, dig them up and bring them in, and the specialists will identify them."

Other exhibits explore crop production and management, soil fertility and testing, nutrient management and pest control.

While at the tent, farmers can find solutions to problems with soil fertility, diseases, insects, corn, forages, small grains and tillage practices by asking agronomy specialists from Penn State and the Pennsylvania Crop Management Association.

Visitors also can test their agronomic knowledge with the agronomy quiz board with questions about small grains, soybeans, corn, forage, and soil fertility.

The Hay Show will display the state's best hay samples. Growers who would like to enter the show are invited to bring samples to the Hay Show drop-off point near the Ag Progress Days east entrance by 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 15. All growers will receive the results of their hay evaluation.

Managing Stormwater

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — The location of the second annual series by Penn State Cooperative Extension on "Natural Landscapes and Habitats" will be Byers' Choice in Chalfont, starting at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, August 22.

Instead of mowed bowls for retention basins. Byers has two quarter-acre stormwater ponds landscaped with native aquatics and wetlands shrubs. This state-of-the-art stormwater management system not only does its job well, it looks magnificent and provides habitat for wetland wildlife such as frogs, fish, and herons.

Any property owner with stormwater management needs may be interested in learning how to turn a "problem" into an attractive asset.

Space is limited at some of the locations. To receive a walk schedule and registration form, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Recycling Education Program, Natural Landscapes & Habitat Walks, 1015 Bridge Road, Suite H, Collegeville, PA 19426, or call the Recycling Education Program at (610) 489-4315.

NEW Model 1412 Discbine Disc Mower With Flail Conditioner

Fast, Trouble-Free Cutting... and Flail Conditioning For Faster Drydown.

Now, get New Holland's popular Discbine® disc-cutting technology teamed with fast-drying flail conditioning. It's all built into the new Model 1412.

The "1412" has an eight-disc modular Discbine cutterbar for cutting through the toughest, heaviest crop quickly and cleanly. The modular cutterbar features individual disc modules with sealed gear cases and independent alloy drive shafts - it's the secret to fast, easy and inexpensive cutterbar servicing.

Flail conditioning system promotes faster drydown so you're able to save valuable time and bale much sooner.

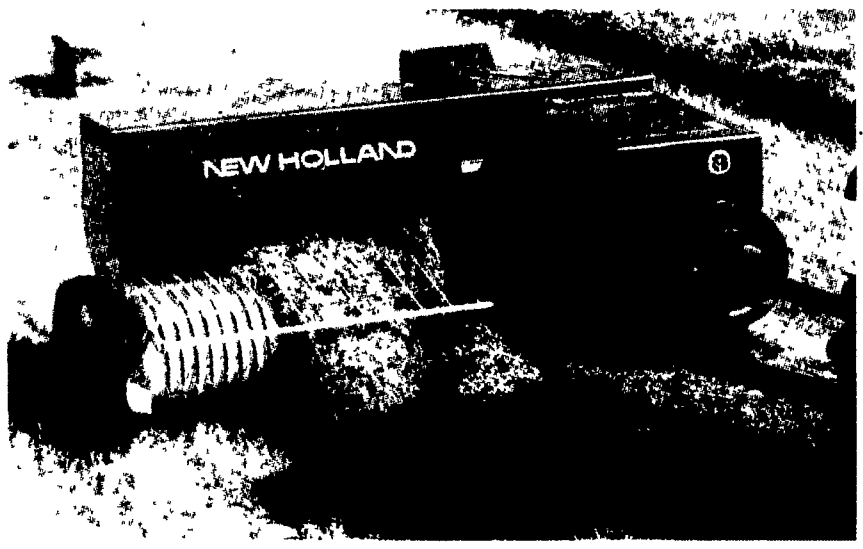
B37P



Model 575 Baler

Consistent bale quality
The rotary feeding system, a New Holland exclusive (Models 570, 575, and 580), delivers top capacity and square, uniform bales.

- Super-Sweep pickup: 75 inches wide; 80 inches (flare)
- 156 teeth on six bars (78 double fingers)
- Exclusive rotary feeder
- 283-square-inch feed opening
- 93 SPM on a 30-inch stroke
- Twine
- Category 6 driveline
- 75-hp (mininum) tractor required

Model 648 Silage Special 4'x5'

Strength and durability are built into every New Holland Roll-Belt™ round baler. Larger chain idler springs to maintain proper tension, beefier bearings for follower rolls and drive rolls, heavy-duty cam-follower bearings in wide pickups, stronger pickup lift cranks, heavy-duty wheel hubs, and long-lasting curved pickup tines - they're just some of the features we've included to make Roll-Belt balers stand the test of time.

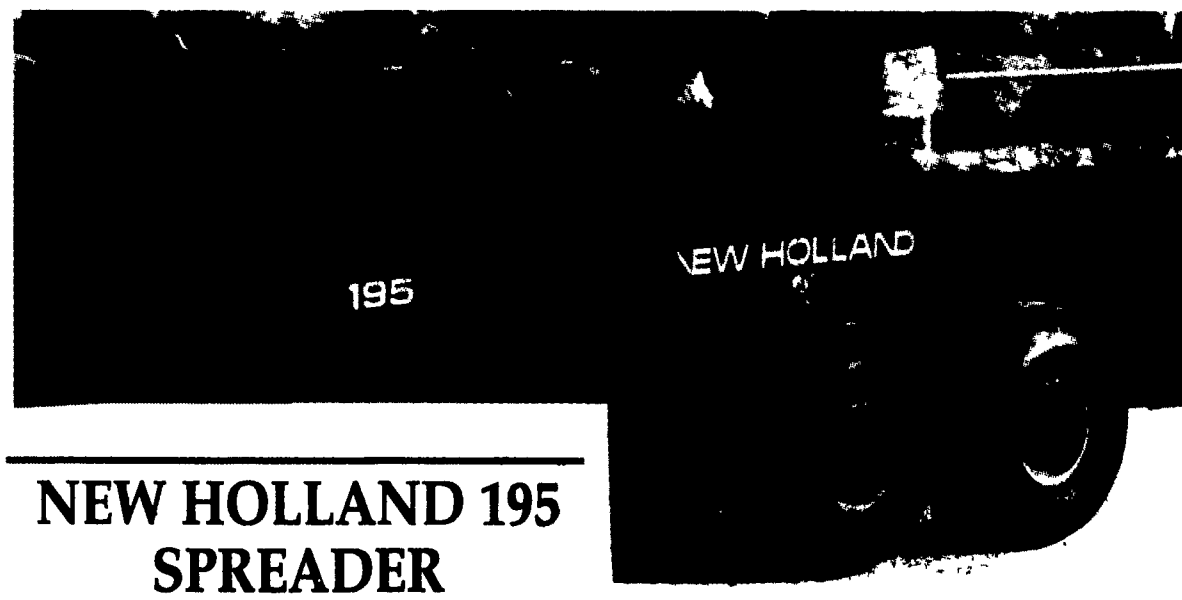
Expand your forage productio wrapper to your current hayi traditional silage systems.

Wrapping adapts well to any for silage. Along with being a space for your hay.

SUPER BOOM LS SERIES

GREAT NEW LOOK. SAME GREAT PERFORMANCE.
LS Series Super Boom™ skid steers may have a sharp new look, but they still deliver the same innovative design features and field-proven performance advantages that you've come to expect from New Holland.

Unbeatable performance. All day, every day.
Hard-working farmers all over North America have come to rely on Super Boom skid steers for outstanding performance and unbeatable productivity. They know that when it comes to helping them get the most out of every day, no machine's better than a New Holland Super Boom.



NEW HOLLAND 195 SPREADER

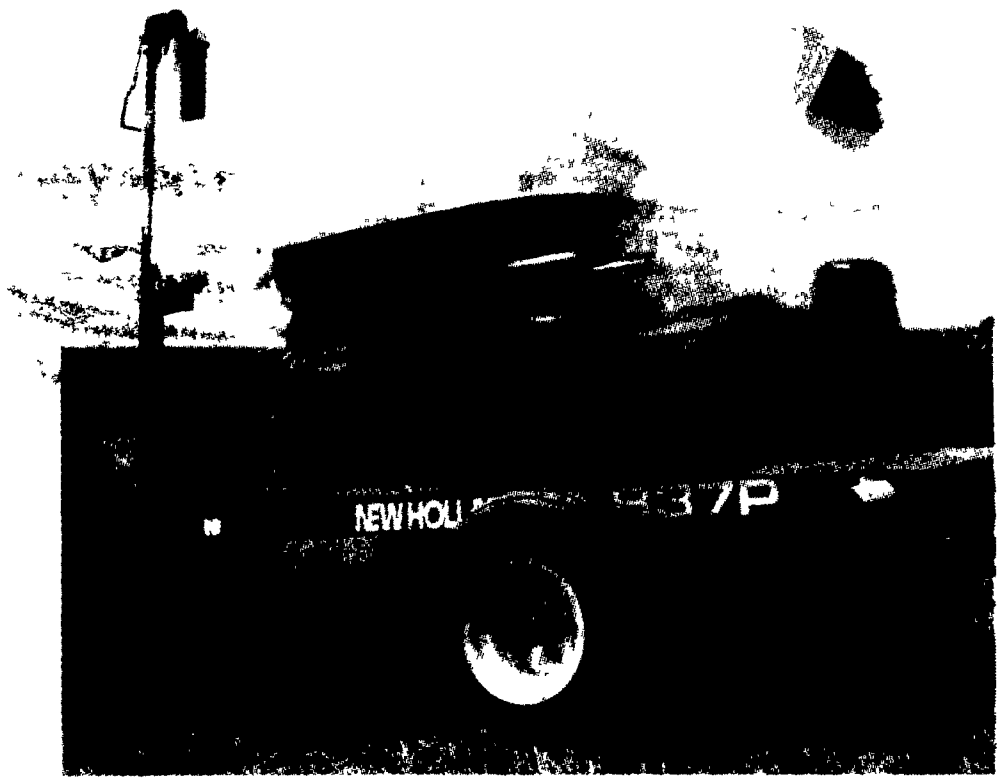
No Other Forage Harvester Gives You Best-In-Class Capacity And Chop Quality

New Holland Pull Type FP230 & FP240

or row crop applications, the ew three-row 3PN features ew spacing from 28" to 32"

The best-sellling line of forage harvesters just got better with the introduction of two new pull-type models, the New Holland FP230 and the FP240, designed and built to deliver best-in-class capacity and chop quality. Both models feature a rugged 1,000-rpm driveline, designed for today's higher horsepower tractors. The FP230 can be used with tractors up to 225 PTO hp; the FP240 with tractors up to 300 PTO hp.

B37P Round Bale Wrapper



Expand your forage production system with a New Holland round bale wrapper. By adding a round bale wrapper to your current haying system, you can put up high-quality forage at a fraction of the cost of traditional silage systems.

Wrapping adapts well to any haying system. Both twine-tied and net-wrapped bales can be wrapped for silage. Along with being a low-cost silage investment, wrapping eliminates a need for shed storage space for your hay.

The Most Reliable, Most Durable Spreader You Can Buy

New Holland box spreaders are the best-selling spreaders in the industry - and for good reason. Known as "Strong boxes," New Holland box spreaders are engineered to perform and built to last. They have the toughest floors and sides of any spreader available. And they're made of special steels that are more corrosion-resistant and stronger than ordinary steels.

Every New Holland 'strong box' comes with Bonded Protection

Do Killer Bees Exist?

In 1956, a scientist tried to develop a superior honey bee by mating bees from Africa with European honey bees that live in North and South America. He created the Africanized honey bee or "killer bee" as people like to call them in the movies.

Many scientists believe that the Africanized bees will thrive only in the southern United States because the winters are relatively mild. As of 1997, Africanized honey bees have spread across much of southern Texas, southern parts of New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Africanized bees do not search for people and animals to harm. They do tend to sting in greater numbers, however, and it's easier to make them mad than our native honey bees.

Just like other bees, the Africanized honey bee usually stings only when their nests are threatened.

But don't worry! The chances of being killed by honey bees of any kind are less than the chances of being hit by lightning!

All honey bees are important for growing healthy crops. Without the honey bees for pollination, our food supply would suffer!

Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Andy Farabaugh, son of Ted and Annette Farabaugh, Carrolltown, recently participated in the twelfth annual Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference held at the University Park Campus, where participants attended workshops on interviewing skills, media relations, presentations and slide-show development.

In addition to the workshops, the conference delegates visited with a number of Penn State faculty and administrators during a reception.

State 4-H ambassadors promote the 4-H youth program and the land-grant university system and are available to speak to groups about Penn State Cooperative Extension and 4-H. These ambassadors represent Pennsylvania's approximately 120,000 4-H members.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Cumberland County 4-H

On July 15, the Cumberland County Light Horse and Pony Club held its annual 4-H roundup.

Roundup was conducted at Long Acres in Carlisle at 9:30 a.m.

There were 26 classes in which members from the age of eight to 18 competed.

In every class, the top three riders advanced to district competition at the Lebanon Fairgrounds on Aug. 19 at 8 a.m. Twenty-four of the horse and pony club members have the honor to represent Cumberland County in district competition.

Advancing in the English riding competition will be Nikki McCaffrey, Mary Strasbaugh, Gwen Thomas, Janine Guido and Paige and Megghan Michaud. In the senior English grooming and showmanship division, Nikki, Mary, and Gwen will represent our club. Nikki, Janine, and Megghan will be riding in the hunter under saddle horses.

The hunter seat equitation on the flat (senior rider) the competitors from our club will be Nikki, Janine, and Gwen. Janine will also be riding in hunter hack horses while Megghan will be also in the hunt seat equitation over fences (senior rider).

Megghan and Janine will be teaming up for the pleasure horse pairs competition. New member Paige Michaud advances on in the junior division in English grooming and showmanship, hunter under saddle ponies 14.2 hands and under, and hunter seat equitation on the flat.

Carrie McLaughlin, Trevor Long, and Heidi Evelhoch will represent the western senior division in western grooming and showmanship, western pleasure horses, and stock seat equitation on the flat. Heidi Evelhoch will also compete in reining, pleasure horse pairs, western riding, and open trail horses.

The junior western division will be represented by Alina Lebo, Laura France, Laura McLaughlin, Wesley Armstrong, Audrey Wronski, Erin Hoch, Amber Tritt, and Jessica Fabik. Alina and the two Lauras will be competing in the junior division of western grooming and showmanship. In the western pleasure horses (junior rider) Alina, Wesley, and Laura France will be in competition. Alina will also be riding in the stock seat equitation and Erin and Audrey will be joining her in the competition. Erin, Jessica, and Amber will be competing in the western pleasure ponies (over 13 hands not over 14.2 hands). Laura McLaughlin will be riding in the western pleasure ponies (under 13 hands) class.

One of the favorite competitions is the gaming division. Laura McLaughlin, Katie Gossert, Katie Barry, Matt Meals, Robin Kitzmiller, and Erin and Megan Hoch will represent the club. The gaming division is broken down into horses and ponies for the competition. In the pole bending horses, barrels and keyhole will have Katie Barry, Megan, and Matt. Representing the club in the pony division: Laura McLaughlin, Robin, and Erin will be in the pony pole bending class. Laura, Katie Gossert, and Robin will be competing in clover leaf barrel race for ponies. Laura, Robin, and Erin will be ending their competition in the pony key hole class.

Mary Strasbaugh and Heidi Evelhoch will be teaming up for the pleasure horse pairs competition. Mary will also be riding in the open trail horse class.

Levi Smith will once again go on to districts in the reining class.

At districts the top two riders in each class advance to the state competition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, Oct. 27-29.

Cumberland County Sheep Club

NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER

Complete hay control starts at the pickup. Hay is gathered and precompressed before it reaches the bale chamber . . . for more-solid bales. Gear- and shaft-driven knotters adjust to different twines and crops. Easy to service, too.

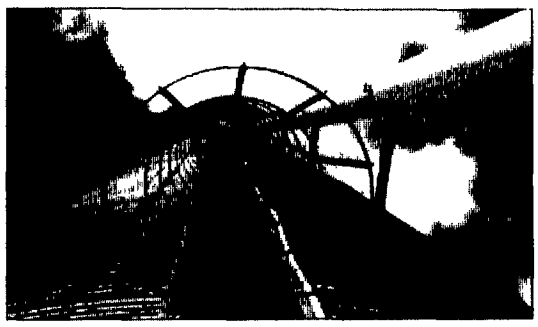
Silo Unloader Technology Takes a Giant Leap Forward!

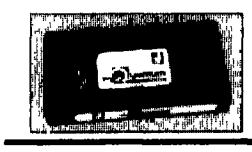
BIG JIM® Quantum™ SYSTEM



TOWER SILOS REALLY MEASURE UP!

Measure for measure, nothing beats a tower silo for storing forage. Just compare them to bunkers which have up to 45% storage loss, as well as lower capacity, increased labor and equipment costs and considerable inconvenience. Towers lose just 3% to 7% because of gravity, feed weight and a good unloader like the Big Jim QUANTUM System.

QUANTUM installs in any type of 20' to 30' forage silo conventional or oxygen limited, and makes your tower silo even better!



CALL US TODAY FOR A VIDEO AND BROCHURE.

The Silo Unloader Experts

VOLUMAXX

MORE GUTS MORE GLORY

MORE Stainless Steel

The new Volumaxx™ unloader impeller features reversible adjustable stainless steel paddles a beefed up 3/8" stainless steel impeller band in the critical wear areas and a stainless steel auger shroud cover. More stainless steel for longer wear and low maintenance!

MORE Distribution Choices

All Volumaxx unloaders give you the best of both worlds. New Hi-Lift legs let you raise the unloader an extra 15 inches at the roof of the silo so you can use a conventional side distributor. Or get the best – Jamesway's Powermaxx™ load pans stage distribution. Powermaxx pans increase your silage capacity more than 30 percent – and we can prove it.

Bring your old Jamesway® ring-drive up-to-date with a Re-New™ Kit. Ask your dealer for more details. He's the best in the business!

MORE Performance

The new Volumaxx unloader's high performance 10 inch 3a upstage auger features 16° forward pitch flighting to keep haylage and silage moving toward the center of the auger tube and away from the edge. Result: lower power requirement in even heavier, higher capacity applications, longer wear!

MORE Protection

The new Volumaxx unloader and its New Roof are covered by the exclusive Jamesway Ultra 5 year warranty. We call it CARE. Customer Assurance Protection. It's proof positive.

JAMESWAY

THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

POW'R-RING™

Now, regardless of what type of suspension you have, you can install a Pow'R-Ring unloader in your silo. That's beause it can be hung under any one of these common suspension systems

- Single Cable Tripod
- Modified 3-Cable Tripod
- 3-Cable Hexapod with Hi-Lift™ leg option

Put the power of Pow'R-Ring to work for you. It's the ring drive silo unloader that gives you more – power, performance and suspension options

Prices Strong At Bradford County Livestock Sale, Milk Auction

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — Prices started strong and held steady throughout the 2000 Troy Fair Livestock and Milk Auction Wednesday, July 26.

In all, four steers, 16 lambs, and 60 market hogs crossed the auction block followed by pitchers of milk from the champions from the youth dairy show. Numerous animals were also donated back to benefit the 4-H scholarship fund and a newly created building fund.

In total, five lambs and two hogs were resold to benefit the scholarship fund, raising $2,054 for that cause. Nine hogs were donated back to the youth program to raise money for a new hog facility. At the end of the auction, a total of $3,468 was earmarked for the project.

Overall bids in the sale were strong, with four steers averaging $1.23 per pound. The champion steer, raised by Jade Wood, tipped the scales at 1,272 pounds. He was purchased by Wyalusing Livestock Market for $1.50 per pound. The reserve champion steer, raised by Randy Calkins, weighed 1,316 pounds and was purchased by Columbia Cross Roads Equipment for $1.20 per pound.

Sixteen lambs averaged $3.47, with the grand champion lamb crushing records at $7.25 per pound. Steve Pelton, Pelton Trucking, purchased the 120-pound champion from Kayla White. The reserve champion market lamb also sold high as C&N Bank bid $6.75 for the 115-pound animal owned by Eileen Elliott.

Among the 60 market hogs, prices averaged $2.69 with a high of $4.50 and a low of $2. Meredith Hennip sold the 260-pound grand champion to First National Bank of Canton for the high bid of $4.50 per pound. The reserve grand champion market hog commanded a price of $4 per pound. That 225-pound reserve champion was raised by Abbie Kuhlman and was sold to Hostetter Management, Pine Hill Pig Company.

The annual milk auction also got the interest of buyers as milk from the champion animals was sold to raise money for the dairy promotion board, youth organizations, and the owners of the animals. Milk from the supreme champion cow, a Jersey owned by Christine Eick, sold for $850 to Gray and Gray Trucking. The second highest seller was milk from Amberleigh Yurkanin's grand champion Ayrshire, which brought $550 and was purchased by Judsons Inc.

In all, 12 gallons of milk and two baskets filled with Bradford County products were sold, with an average price of $373 garnered on all products.

Gray and Gray Trucking purchased milk from the supreme champion of the Youth Dairy Show, owned by Christine Eick, for $850. Part of the proceeds from the milk auction goes to the dairy promotion board, part to the member's 4-H club of FFA chapter, and part to the youth who owns the animal.

Farm Bureau Announces Achievement Award Semifinalists

GLENMONT, N.Y. — New York Farm Bureau, the state's largest general farm advocacy organization, has announced the three semifinalists in the Young Farmer Achievement awards.

The annual award recognizes Young Farmer members between the ages 18-35 for achievement in their agricultural pursuits and leadership within their agricultural sector and community.

"This year's finalists truly represent the diversity of agriculture and the various regions in New York State," said Sandra Prokop, assistant director of organization for New York Farm Bureau. "We received many applications, and had a difficult time narrowing the group down to just three."

The finalists are Jay P. Dey, a cash crop farmer from Seneca County; Eric A. Huddy, a grape, hay, and custom-hire farmer from Chautauqua County; and Dale and Colleen Mattoon, who own and operate a unique dairy enterprise in Cayuga County.

The three finalists will compete at the New York Farm Bureau State annual meeting in Buffalo Dec. 5. The New York State Champion will go on to compete nationally at the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting in January in Orlando, Fla.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Ohio Urbanization Offers New Agricultural Opportunities

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio is becoming more urban, but that does not necessarily mean the end of agriculture, said Jeff Sharp, an Ohio State University Extension rural sociology specialist.

"It's a mistake to think that nonfarm people moving out of metro areas and into the country signals the end of agriculture," Sharp said. "Increasingly urban areas offer a diverse and creative landscape with some exciting opportunities for agriculture. There are some positive adjustment strategies that some Ohio farm operators are adopting to tap into the market potential of being near large numbers of people."

With increased development, the demand for landscaping materials, such as trees, shrubs and flowers, also increases. Ohio farmers have responded to this demand, Sharp said. The number of Ohio farms with nursery and greenhouse sales has increased 79 percent since 1978, from 1,572 farms to 2,812 farms.

In 1978, 12 percent of all farms in the core counties of the largest metropolitan areas reported some nursery and greenhouse sales. By 1997, 17.8 percent of farms in these areas reported nursery and greenhouse sales. In the fringe counties of metropolitan areas, the percent of farms with nursery and greenhouse sales has grown from 1.9 percent to six percent. Total nursery and greenhouse sales in five core or fringe metropolitan counties — Lake, Lorain, Franklin, Lucas and Clark — rank in the top 100 counties nationally.

Increasing populations also allow more opportunities for farmers to sell agricultural products directly to consumers, through farm markets, pick-your-own operations and other similar arrangements, he said.

About nine percent of metropolitan farms in Ohio reported some type of sales directly to consumers in 1997, compared to about six percent of nonmetropolitan farms. Core counties of the largest metropolitan areas had the highest proportion of farms, 11.2 percent, with direct sales.

While the number of farm operations reporting some type of direct sales grew only 3.8 percent between 1992 and 1997, total sales directly to consumers grew 14.3 percent, from $24 million to $28 million, Sharp said. In metropolitan Ohio, the growth was from $14 million to $18 million, or 22.2 percent.

Licking, Mahoning, Lorain, and Portage counties all had more than $1 million in total sales directly to consumers in 1997. Licking, Mahoning, and Lorain rank in the top 100 counties nationally.

While sales directly to consumers comprise less than one percent of the state's total agricultural sales, it appears to be quite popular in northeastern Ohio, where more than 10 percent of the farms in the region report some direct sales, Sharp said.

"Some folks engaging in nursery and green house sales and direct sales to consumers may not come from traditional farm backgrounds, but they are entrepreneurs who like that kind of work and are taking advantage of an opportunity," he said.

These new urban-oriented farmers can start out small, while maintaining an off-farm job, he said. Then, once they have developed a market, their operation could become full time.

"Urban agriculture is a drop in the bucket of Ohio agriculture compared to traditional agricultural production," Sharp said. "But, it is seeing growth, and community leaders and development professionals might want to pay closer attention to it, because urban-oriented agriculture can contribute to an aesthetically pleasing landscape and can make a solid contribution to the local economy."

Ohio has historically been one of the largest states and is the seventh most populous state in the United States, trailing only California, New York, Texas, Florida, Pennsylvania, and Illinois. The statewide population density of 244 people per square mile is the ninth highest in the nation, behind New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, New York, Delaware, and Pennsylvania, all located to the east. And, Ohio has the fifth largest rural population.

The fastest growing areas of Ohio since 1980 have been those outlying or fringe counties of the state's three largest metropolitan areas — Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Columbus. From 1980 to 1998, these areas have grown approximately 20 percent, while the statewide average growth during this time period has been only 3.7 percent.

Urbanization does have obvious negative effects on agriculture. As more people move into an area, farmland can be converted to nonagricultural purposes, and the land can become fragmented into small plots. This may hurt the ability of larger farm operations to effectively use the land, Sharp said.

The difficulty of raising livestock in heavily populated areas may be one factor in total sales from livestock and their products declining 40 percent in Ohio, in inflation adjusted dollars, from 1978 to 1997, he said. Livestock sales, adjusted for inflation, declined 52 percent in metropolitan Ohio and only 32 percent in nonmetropolitan areas.

Since 1978, Ohio's land in farms has declined 10.7 percent, with the greatest declines occurring in the largest metropolitan areas — a 24 percent decline in core counties of the largest metropolitan areas and 15 percent in the fringe counties.

But despite a smaller average farm size in metropolitan areas, the average, self-reported worth of these farms equals, and in some cases exceeds, the average value of nonmetropolitan farms. It appears some metro farmers are intensifying their production and taking advantage of urban market opportunities to either sell high value products — such as landscaping products from nurseries — or sell products directly to consumers, Sharp said.

"When more people move to the country, farmers can choose to either disinvest in their operations, assuming they will sell to a developer in the near future, or see it as a new opportunity to adjust, be creative, and adapt," he said.

A full report by Sharp titled "Agricultural Change by Metropolitan Character in Ohio: 1978 to 1997" can be found on Ohio State University's Swank Program in Rural Urban Policy website at http://www-agecon.ag.ohio-state.edu/Faculty/Programs/Swank/index.html.

...a Boom Sprayer

for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...

- 24 ft one-side boom that allows for 50 ft coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2 ft. to 7 1/2 ft for sweet corn
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 28 GPM 3 diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- NEW A-spring loaded hydraulic shock to control boom bounce.

Available with 300 or 400 Gallon Tanks

With the high cost of chemicals, the right sprayer is needed

LEADER

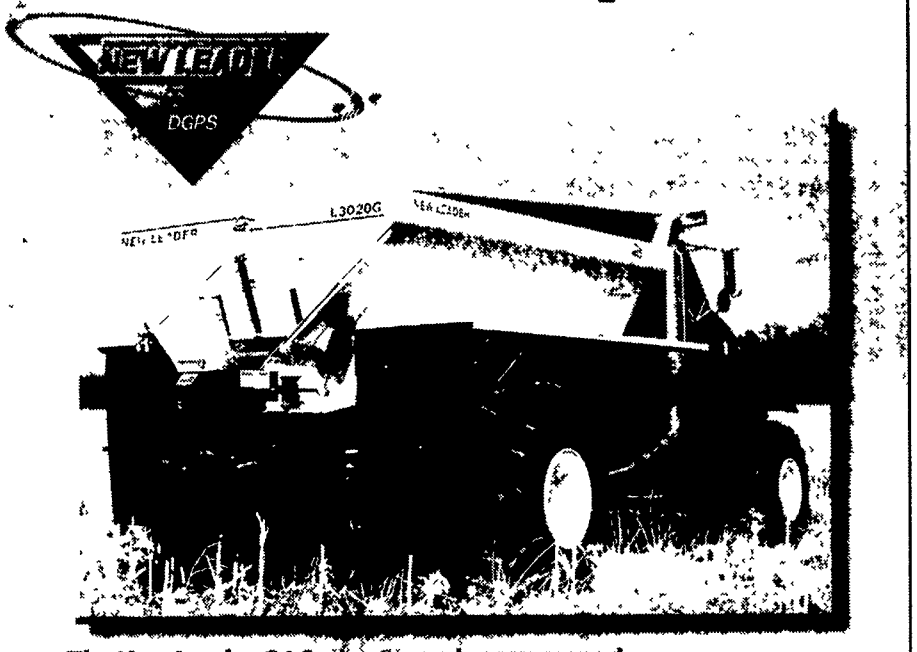
Fertilizer and Lime Spreaders



The New Leader G4 Series Spreader can spread more acres per day--with a wider range of material application rates--than any other granular applicator currently on the market. The new L3020G4 variable rate broadcaster allows you to

- Spread lime with effective swath widths up to 60'.
- Spread fertilizer with effective swath widths up to 90'.

The New Leader L2020G4 is also available.

BUY INTO A BETTER FUTURE WITH GEHL AND FFA!

We are proud to support FFA

A little help goes a long way. That's why Gehl is donating to the FFA chapter of your choice. Simply purchase a new Gehl ag product* between July 2, and Sept. 30, 2000 and we will donate $100 in your name!

As an ongoing sponsor of the FFA Forage Proficiency Award, Gehl realizes the importance of investing in the future of agriculture. And that's why Gehl is the right choice for today's (and tomorrow's) farming operation. But don't wait! Stop in soon for complete program details.

Never got a-round-to-it?

Sometimes we get so busy that we don't take the time to prioritize what is most important to us. God, family, friends and our health. In looking forward to Ag Progress Days we are reminded of what a wonderful year we have had in Pennsylvania. The crops, the weather, and the economy. Sure, things could always be better, like milk prices and interest rates. But, all-in-all, I believe you'd have to agree that we have been a blessed people.

Sometimes you just don't get "around-to-it" to tell God and the people who have made your life so special how much they mean to you. I'm cutting out my "round-to-it" and giving it to my family and my employees and tell them how much they mean to me and how they have enhanced my life. I thank God for His faithfulness and also thank Him for my customers who make my world go 'round.

Cut out your own "round-to-it" and give it to those you love and who have helped make life worth living.

Case-IH Concorde Seeding System with Mounted Gandy Hopper

- Compact
- Economical
- Maneuverable

The Case-IH Concorde Seeding System has proven to be very successful in the north-central states and Canada. Hoober technicians are currently adapting the Concorde system to eastern field and crop conditions.

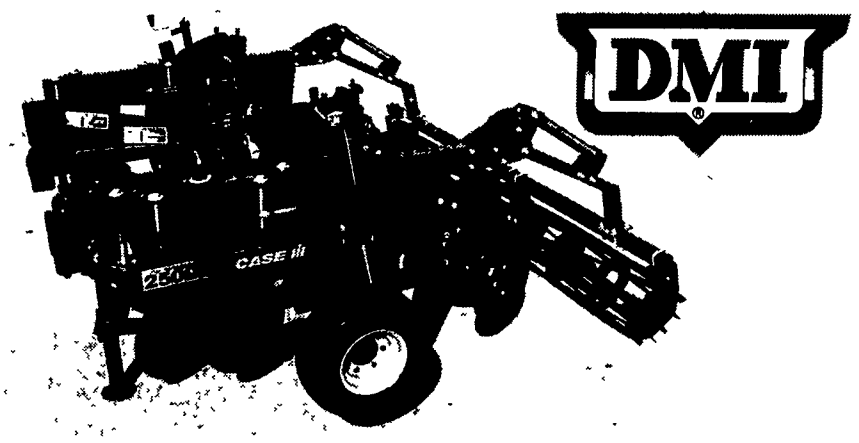
KRAUSE 7300 & 7400 Series Disc Harrows

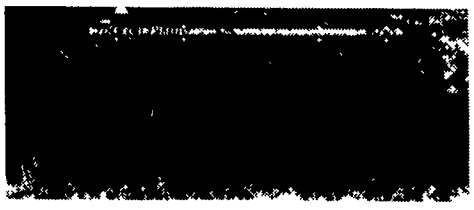
Years ago Hoober, Inc. introduced Krause Rockflex disc harrows to the East. Since then Krause discs have been the undisputed leader when it comes to finishing seedbeds on Eastern farms. And Krause Rockflex discs continue to get even better. The new 7300 & 7400 Series Krause Rockflex disc harrows are in a class by themselves when it comes to getting the job done in tough conditions. Plus, Krause Rockflex technology backed by Hoober's outstanding service and parts support is as good as it gets. Krause Rockflex disc harrows from Hoober... a great idea for 25 years.

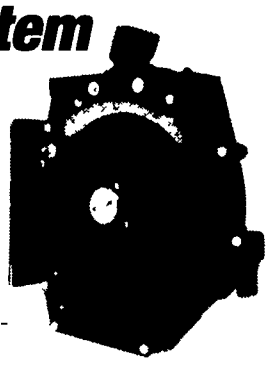
The Hoober/DMI Strip Tillage Concept



Hoober service technicians have modified the DMI ecolo-til 2500 into a strip tillage machine. With strip tillage, the coulter tills a strip that is much more uniform. Hoober adds additional coulters to the DMI ecolo-til 2500, which slice and condition the soil, allowing the soil to heat up quicker. The result? Farmers can seed earlier in the spring than with conventional no-till equipment.

New for 2000: Great Plains Precision Seeding System





The revolutionary Precision Seeding System from Great Plains gives you the ability to singulate seed in the furrow while dramatically increasing seedbox capacity over traditional hopper-style planters.

Big capacity. Uniform chop.

No other forage harvesters give you best-in-class capacity and chop quality. Only the new FP230 forage harvesters from New Holland.

- Rugged 1,000-rpm driveline matches higher-horsepower tractors. Use the FP230 with tractors up to 225 PTO hp.
- Massive 12-knife cutterhead produces a uniform length of cut from 3/16" to 1-5/16" with four knives.
- Knife sharpening and shearbar adjustment are easy to keep cutting performance at its best.
- Optional on-board Crop-Pro™ crop processor makes feed more digestible and saves the expense and time of using a stationary roller mill.
- Optional Metalert® III electronic metal detector gives you peace of mind.

Stop in and see the FP230 with Crop Processor today. NEW HOLLAND

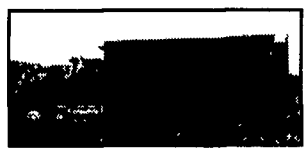
Don't Buy 2 Trucks! Save Big $$$ Do It All With One Chassis!

Quickly and easily transform one chassis from the popular, multi-use, all season ALLStar Ag body into a USA Liquid Manure Spreader or Nurse unit or vice versa in just minutes



- The USA "2 in 1" system includes all the features of the industry-leading ALLStar Body plus the performance and durability of the Husky brand liquid manure tank all in one package using 1 truck chassis - a major cost savings to you, the Farmer
- First of its kind to utilize the Omaha Olympic Series Hoist, the leading twin cylinder telescoping hoist, for absolute maximum stability and fast cycle time
- Bonus features include light weight and almost no increase in overall height for ease of loading and a low profile in the fields

See the new '2 in 1' plus much more at Empire Farm Days, August 8, 9 & 10, 2000 at USA Body Inc Booth 912!

A TRADITION OF LEADERSHIP

COME AND SEE THE TRACTORS & EQUIPMENT THAT MAKE FARMING EASIER

WHAT GOES INTO OUR RED PAINT.

PERFORMANCE.
Our goal is to build the industry's most productive, reliable equipment – and to back it with a network of dedicated dealers.

EXPERIENCE.
When you've been serving agriculture as long as we have, you learn a thing or two about how to succeed at it.

LOYALTY.
Seasons change. But our commitment to customers never will.

HERITAGE.
This word means a lot to us. Especially considering the fact that ours began more than 150 years ago.

SUPPORT.
Our dealers will do everything they can to make you more productive, from parts to financing. That's commitment.

PRIDE.
The way we see things, if you don't believe in quality, you don't belong in this business.

VALUE.
It's not just about price. It's about making each dollar you invest work harder and longer.

INNOVATION.
Over the years, we've gotten pretty good at setting new industry standards. Why stop now?

BUSINESS ❖ NEWS

Financing Available For Farm Storage Facilities

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Farmers without sufficient on-farm storage either have to sell their crop at harvest, when prices are usually at their lowest, or rent storage if available. USDA's Farm Service Agency is taking applications for loans for the construction of farm storage and drying equipment to help farmers store their production until prices are more favorable.

Eligible facility loan crops include whole grain corn, wheat, oats, soybeans, grain sorghum, and minor oilseeds.

The loans are for a term of seven years and the loan amount is limited to 75 percent of the net cost, not to exceed $100,000. A lien on the real estate on which the farm storage facility is located will be required on loans of $50,000 or more. Repayments will be made through equal annual installments beginning the year after loan approval. The producer is responsible for 25 percent down payment at the time of loan closing.

The interest rate will be a fixed rate and equal to the rate charged on treasury securities of comparable maturity during the month the loan is approved. The rate in effect for the month of July is 6.375 percent.

An eligible producer must demonstrate a need for storage and have a satisfactory credit history. Also, the ability to repay the loan must be documented. Farmers must farm according to a conservation plan and comply with natural Environmental Policy Act and local zoning laws.

Borrowers must complete an application form CCC-185 and submit it along with cost estimates and a $45 application fee to the county Farm Service Agency (FSA) office. An application must be approved by the county committee prior to site preparation, delivery of material, and construction of facility.

Borrowers will have four months after loan approval to construct the facility. The loan will be disbursed after inspection and evidence of production costs for eligible equipment has been submitted to the county office. The Lancaster County FSA is located in the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

Turbocharged Loader Available

FARGO, N.D., — Bobcat Company announced its new turbocharged Bobcat 773 G-Series skid-steer loader, ideal for high-altitude jobs or other applications requiring extra power.

Like other Bobcat G-Series models, the 773 Turbo features a new cab and instrumentation design to improve operator comfort and increase job-site productivity.

The Bobcat 773 G-Series Turbo loader features a more powerful 56-hp Kubota V2003T engine and an increase in rated operating capacity from 1,750 pounds to 1,850 pounds compared to the standard 773 model. When equipped with an optional counterweight kit, the 773 Turbo has a rated operating capacity of 1,950 pounds.

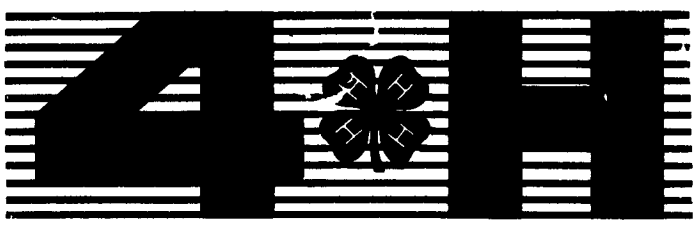
The 773 Turbo is the latest Series model from Bobcat d signed for operator comfor unprecedented system diagnos tics and monitoring, and ease of use. The Bobcat 773 Turbo low-profile, vertical-path lift arms — along with the new G-Series cab design — increase visibility to the sides, rear corners, and front of the loader, easing use.

Like all Bobcat G-Series loaders, the cab has a larger front opening for easier entry and exit as well as more head clearance inside. For added comfort, an optional full-suspension seat adjusts to the operator's weight and size, and the seatbelt is mounted to the seat rather than to the seat pan, so it moves with the operator. The new rear-pivot seat bar offers more room for larger operators as well as improved arm rests for comfortable all-day operation.

The standard G-Series left-hand instrument panel includes sweep-type gauges for engine coolant temperature and fuel level. The digital engine hour meter doubles as a glow-plug countdown timer and mini-information center for system diagnostics.

A dual-mode auxiliary hydraulics button allows users to select between maximum-flow (instant on-off) and variable-flow auxiliary hydraulics for more efficient operation of hydraulic attachments. An auxiliary pressure release button multaneously shuts down the ader and relieves auxiliary hydraulic pressure to facilitate attachment hookup.

A new hydraulic Power Bob-Tach system is now available for Bobcat 773, 773 Turbo, 863, 864, and 873 loader models. The Power Bob-Tach option makes changing attachments quick and easy, saving operators time by allowing them to remain in the cab while changing attachments. To use the Power Bob-Tach, operators simply activate a switch inside the cab, change the attachment, and go back to work.



Agri-Inc. Wins Construction Honors

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Recently, Agri-Inc.'s new office was voted the winner of the post-frame, rural commercial category of Fabral's second annual "building of the year" contest at the National Frame Builders Association's "Frame Building Expo" in Nashville, Tenn.

The voting was done by all of the attendees at the Frame Building Expo, and the winners were chosen from five buildings displayed in each of the four categories.

Fabral had more than 60 photos submitted for consideration for the four categories: post-frame, agricultural/farm buildings; post-frame construction, rural commercial, residential construction; and post-frame construction, general use buildings.

Agri-Inc. recently was honored with a construction award at the Frame Building Expo in Nashville, Tenn.

As part of the prize winning selection, Agri-Inc. received a winner's check as well as a $500 scholarship award that went to Penn State University's Agricultural Engineering Department at University Park. Agri-Inc. and Fabral have been business partners in post-frame construction for a number of years, with the strongest reputation for quality and customer service in the industry.

Corn Growers Continue Strong Opposition To USDA Involvement In Terminator Technology

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In comments submitted to the USDA Advisory Committee on Agricultural Biotechnology, the American Corn Growers Association (ACGA) continued to express their concern and opposition to the involvement of the USDA in the so-called terminator technology.

Terminator leaves second-generation seeds sterile. USDA funded research into this technology and holds a co-patent with Delta and Pine Land for the licensing of Terminator.

"From the beginning, we questioned why USDA would invest taxpayer dollars in such a technology. Sterile seeds hold no advantage for production agriculture," said Gary Goldberg, chief executive officer of the ACGA. "After all, the sole purpose of the development of terminator was an economic one, so that seed companies can force farmers to purchase new seed every year."

While there is a legitimate debate going on within many agricultural associations about the benefits versus risks of genetically modified crops and the uncertainty over marketability, segregation and legal liability, there is mostly unanimity among these same groups over their opposition to the Terminator.

The motives of the biotechnology companies are transparent when it comes to terminator, with their economic gain being the only motive involved with no benefit for the American farmer or the rest of the world according to ACGA.

To guarantee that research dollars be used in a wise fashion and are directed toward a genuine public good, the ACGA made the following recommendations to the advisory committee:

- The USDA should abandon all research on genetic seed sterilizations, including research grants to University scientists
- USDA should adopt a strict policy of prohibiting the use of taxpayer dollars to support genetic seed sterilization
- USDA should use public research dollars to re-invigorate public plant breeding for family farmers and sustainable agriculture
- USDA should insure that farmers and citizens are involved in determining research priorities.

"This debate is important because it brings to the forefront the discussion of just what the Department of Agriculture should be and who should the department represent. The ACGA believes that USDA should be an advocacy agency, working to protect those Americans who devote their lives to producing food for the rest of the U.S. and most of the world and that works to protect all our citizens through the production and distribution of a safe food supply," said Goldberg.

Third Class Graduates From Wenger's Poultry Management Class

RHEEMS (Lancaster Co.) — On July 13, Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc. announced the third graduating class for its commercial poultry management training course.

The company, which began conducting the course in 1999, designed the program to help instruct some of its employees, suppliers, and customers.

The 18-week course focused on all aspects of poultry management from organizational skills, communication skills, and supervisory training, to egg quality, disease, fly and rodent control, and necropsy.

In addition to Wenger's own staff, experts from the New Bolton Center and Hy-Line International were brought in to instruct the course. Classes were conducted at Wenger's Rheems corporate office and at other company owned facilities in Hegins and Mount Joy, and at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center in Kennett Square.

Graduates of this course included Tammy Reno, complex manager, Berkshire Complex, Fredericksburg; Ira Reed, complex coordinator, County Fair Complex, Westminster, Md.; and Delaware Egg Complex, Middletown, Del.; Doug Metzler, complex coordinator, Egg Basket, Mount Joy; and Bridge Valley, Columbia; Joanne Wentling, layer records, Wenger's Feed Mill, Rheems; Becky Petit, breeder service, Hy-Line International, Elizabethtown; and Jeff Kelchner, flock service, Melhorn Sales, Service and Trucking, Mount Joy.

- It will require 48,286 acres of corn and 33,262 acres of soybeans to produce the corn and soybean meal used by the mill in one year.
- From its five operating locations, Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc. produces feed for 14 million layers, 12 million pullets, 1.6 million turkeys, 51 million broilers, and 26,000 sows.

Wenger's Breaks Ground

RHEEMS (Lancaster Co.) — Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc. broke ground on June 7 for a new mill located off of Rt. 405 in Clinton Township near Muncy.

The mill is designed to produce 6,000 tons a week of animal feed, which will be delivered in bulk trucks. Like most of Wenger's facilities, this mill will produce both mash and pelleted feed for laying hens, broiler chickens, turkeys, ducks, and swine.

The new mill will be staffed by 15 mill operators and 20 feed truck drivers. A five to five-½-day workweek is planned with a 24-hour-a-day schedule. Ingredient purchasing, financial administration, dispatching, and human resource functions will be done at the Rheems headquarters in Lancaster County.

The design of this mill is nearly identical to the Wenger mill under construction in Franklin County off of exit 9 on Rt. 81. The main structure of the mill will be a concrete slip-form, which will stand 150 feet tall. The concrete structure will be erected in seven to 10 days with round-the-clock cement pouring. The Muncy mill will be completed sometime in the fall of 2001.

Like the Franklin County location, the Muncy location was chosen because of the expansion of new animal production opportunities in the surrounding area. The Muncy mill will be the sixth location in Wenger's network of facilities.

- The mill will use approximately 3,640 tons of corn and 900 tons of soybean meal a week or about 189,280 tons of corn and 46,800 tons of soybean meal a year.

Nobledale Has Grand At Troy Fair Open Colored Breed Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — Ayrshires, Brown Swiss, Milking Shorthorns, and Jerseys were the talk of the day at the Troy Fair Open Colored Breed Show Thursday, July 27.

The show, judged by David Castrogiovanni, had more than 110 entries with Windy Acres Farm garnering both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners of a strong Jersey show.

Nobledale Dunker Veryl was named the grand champion Jersey. The 4-year-old entry was owned by Nobledale Farm. Flanking the champion was Christine Eick's Windy Acres Alf Kimber, a junior 3-year-old. Nobledale's senior calf, Nobledale Delco Shelli-ET, was named the junior champion of the show. Nobledale Saturn Cosmo, a spring yearling, was listed as the reserve junior champion.

Earning distinction in the Ayrshire breed was Amberleigh Yurkanin's C.M. Ayrshires November's May, a junior 3-year-old. In the reserve grand champion spotlight was Burk-Ayr-Red Star's Raspberry, a junior 2-year-old owned by Marlesa Coolbaugh. The junior champion Ayrshire was Ridge-View Daria, a fall yearling and the reserve junior champion was Elmbrook Mays Summer, a summer yearling. Both junior champion animals were owned by Amberleigh Yurkanin.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon 4-H youth enjoyed more than $84,600 in bids announced at the annual Lebanon Area Fair Livestock Sale late last week here at the fairgrounds.

Kyle Fleener, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia, sold his grand champion hog to Country Fare Restaurant, Myerstown, for $1,050. Representing Country Fare were Katy, Roxy, Caleb, and Doug Horst.

Grand champion steer, exhibited by Justin Fuls, son of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland, sold for $3,000 to Hoss's Steak and Seafood House. Shaundi, Jordan, and Bob Billet, Hoss's district manager in Annville, represented Hoss's.

Grand champion lamb, exhibited by Ann Leed, daughter of Robert and Nancy Leed, Myerstown, sold for $600 to First National Bank of Fredericksburg. Martin Daubert, Wilmer Stoner, and Alletta Schadler represented the bank.

Reserve champion hog, exhibited by Justin Fuls, Richland, was sold for $600 to Kurt Good, representing Hatfield Quality Meats.

Reserve champion steer, exhibited by Joel Crouse, son of Bryan and Brenda Crouse, Myerstown, was sold to Funck's Family Restaurant, represented by Ruth and Ray Funck, Palmyra, for $2,100.

Reserve champion lamb was exhibited by Kyle Fleener, Robesonia, and sold to Lebanon Valley Bank Ag Department and John F. Lengel, Womelsdorf, for $650.

Grand champion complete market hog (carcass champion), represented by Janine Winebark, daughter of Ken and Janet Winebark, Myerstown, sold to Country Fare Restaurant for $400. Lebanon Valley Bank purchased the reserve, exhibited by Janine's brother Brandon, for $325.

The complete market hog contest represented an analysis of a carcass hog. Janine Winebark's grand champion, a crossbred, represented a live weight of 246 pounds with an average daily gain of 2.49 pounds. The hog exhibited a loin eye area of 8.24 square inches and backfat of .55. It exhibited 1.16 pounds lean per day on test with a final index of 1.16.

The reserve, exhibited by Brandon Winebark, a Hampshire, exhibited a live weight of 225 pounds with an average daily gain of 2.28. The hog had a loin eye area measuring 7.44 square inches with .42 backfat. The hog had 1.13 pounds lean per day on test with a final index of 1.13.

There were a total of 108 buyers registered for the sale.

At the sale, 138 hogs were sold for $43,485, 18 steers for $22,250, and 80 lambs for $18,890.

Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?

With the summer heat, consider a Mueller pre-cooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

Attention

Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!

New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP

This natural mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content. Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

GOLDEN MEAL 40

An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

A product of Keystone's expelling process this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

To make these products available and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

17 PLANTS

It is time to ORDER!

The Strawberry Plasticulture System season has arrived!

NEW CERTIFIED plants

Clean Start, MD 2000

Registered varieties:

Seneca	Honeoye
Jewel	Allstar
Earliglow	Latestar
Northeaster

Clean Start, MD

We are pleased to announce our joining forces with three other prominent growers and suppliers to form now what is called, Plant Technologies. This joint venture was established to provide growers with true-to-type, registered strawberry plugs, Clean Start, MD, which are grown under the strictest standards. The plants being propagated in a controlled environment allows them to be protected from transmitted virus diseases. To ensure the virus-free status and quality of the plants, the growing conditions are monitored and inspected by trained personnel from both the MD and NJ Department of Agriculture.

Ag Progress Days Aug. 15-17

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Penn State is well known for its contributions to the science and technology that drive our food and fiber system, and some of the university's recent inventions and innovations will be on display at Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

Sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences, the event is conducted at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

"Tools and processes developed by Penn State researchers have played a large role in making agriculture and related industries Pennsylvania's top economic sector," said Ag Progress Days manager Bob Oberheim. "We're planning interactive exhibits that will give folks a hands-on look at some recent Penn State innovations, from turfgrass mulch made from paper to a machine that makes egg shell waste valuable by separating the shells from their inner membrane."

Ag Progress Days, Penn State's annual agricultural showcase event, draws lots of onlookers to check out the new and innovative equipment, the great food, and the many family-oriented activities. The event is scheduled each year at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center, Rockspring. There are several new and expanded activities scheduled for this year's event. Information about those activities are included this issue.

Penn State Ag PROGRESS 2000

Other new attractions planned for this year's event include a farm equipment manufacturers' "show-and-tell'; a farm vehicle and equipment highway safety workshop; a "horseless" equine skill-a-thon for youth; field demonstrations of corn and grain planters, and rakes and tedders; and an outdoor Pasto Agricultural Museum exhibit of animal-powered farm tools.

Oberheim said returning field demonstrations will include hay mowing, baling, bale handling, a skid steer rodeo, and a special high-tunnel vegetable production tour.

Other exhibits, tours, and workshops will feature cutting-edge research and information on crops and soils, animal science, dairy and livestock production, integrated pest management, farm safety, conservation practices and woodlot management. More than 325 commercial and noncommercial exhibitors also will be on hand to display the latest goods and services.

In addition, a variety of family and consumer-oriented attractions are planned, including family living exhibits and demonstrations, an expanded corn maze, cut flower beds and exhibits, storytelling, horse exhibitions, live animal and insect displays, lawn and garden advice, and antiques exhibits.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 10 to Aug. 17 or visit the Ag Progress Days site on the World Wide Web at http://apd.cas.psu.edu.

Horse-Powered Hay Press To Be Demonstrated At Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — A 1905 stationary hay press powered by horses or mules will be demonstrated daily at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., Aug. 15-17, at the Pasto Agricultural Museum during Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

"This rare piece from the museum will show how loose hay was baled into rectangular blocks weighing 100 to 120 pounds," said Darwin Braund, museum curator for Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Manufactured by the Panama Hay Press Company, Kansas City, Mo., the press is 26 feet long, Braund explained. One mule hitched to a 12-foot sweep arm will walk in a circle to provide power. The power drives a 16-foot-long wooden plunger that compresses the hay in a metal chamber. As the compressed hay emerges, workers place long wires by hand around the bale to hold it together.

"The bale chamber has the significant title of 'O.K.' stenciled on each side," Braund said. "Early history from the manufacturer said that means 'all right,' which it undoubtedly was."

Donated to the museum in 1998 by Dr. Robert L. Cowan, professor emeritus of animal nutrition, the baler was completely restored in early 1999. It was first exhibited at the 1999 Ag Progress Days.

Dr. Cowan and his sons, who have operated the baler many times, will conduct the demonstration using their own mule for power. "One of Cowan's sons, Timothy Lunn Cowan, was 12 years old when he and his grandfather went to the county fair with this same OK baler and he learned how to operate it," Braund said. "Tim is flying from his home in Seattle to help his dad and brothers perform this special demonstration."

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours and machinery demonstrations.

Dean Steele Welcomes You To Ag Progress

WELCOME!

I am pleased to welcome you to Ag Progress Days 2000, Inventions and Innovations. We have some very special features at this year's show. In the College Exhibits Building, and at other locations, you'll find fascinating new services and technologies developed by our faculty and staff. These inventions and innovations are designed to help families, communities, businesses, and industries meet some of the challenges they face. You'll be amazed at what determination, imagination, and ingenuity can produce!

There are a number of changes at this year's show that we think you'll really like. At the Pasto Agricultural Museum, a special outdoor exhibit focuses on the use of animal power in agricultural production. The museum is also hosting a "silent auction" featuring an amazing array of goods. We're allowing cash sales by the vendors at the show this year, and we'll be very interested to know what you think of the change. In addition, several major equipment manufacturers and specialty equipment companies will hold a "show-and-tell," allowing you to see their products in action. All in all, more than 300 commercial exhibitors will showcase more than $20 million in equipment and services.

We've expanded some of our most popular features. The corn maze is four times larger than last year's, and the "largest weed" contest has returned by popular demand. You can visit the beautiful flower gardens and get expert landscape, lawn, and garden advice right next door. Corn and small grain planters will be demonstrated, and we've brought back the lamb show and skillathon as well as the equine skillathon, and added a "horseless skillathon." In addition, a new tent features agricultural health and safety.

The Family Room, ImAGination Station, Shaver's Creek, and the Farm Animal Learning Center continue to offer terrific information, great fun, storytelling, and a place to relax. Children will love seeing the talking "Bugmobile" as well as other critters, while adults can get information and take part in programs on topics ranging from nutrition and health to financial management. There are research, natural resources, and conservation education tours at the show. We also offer presentations on the safe handling of farm equipment on highways, and on insect-borne diseases such as West Nile encephalitis, Lyme disease, and the Plum Pox virus.

Throughout the show, you'll find exhibits, educational programs, and demonstrations packed with valuable information to help you improve your life or business. Our faculty and staff are eager to offer their expertise and answer your questions. Please let us know if we can be of assistance or make your stay more enjoyable. Thank you for coming!

Penn State's Ag Progress Days Celebrates Invention, Innovation In Agricultural Sciences

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — If invention is 10 percent inspiration and 90 percent perspiration, it will be no sweat to be inspired by the agricultural inventions showcased at Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

The College of Agricultural Sciences Exhibits Building, on West 11th Street at the Ag Progress Days site at Rockspring, will feature several inventions that changed the face of agricultural business, as well as innovations that helped create new business opportunities and educational technologies.

"Visitors will really get an idea of how much work goes into bringing an invention to market," said George Hamilton, senior lecturer in agronomy and inventor of PennMulch, an environmentally friendly mulching product for lawns and gardens.

"For me, the real work started after I had the idea and figured out that it would work. I think this display really shows all the facets of how new ideas come to market."

One of the building's main exhibits will detail how DuPont Inc. and Hummer Athletic Fields collaborated with Andrew McNitt, assistant professor of turfgrass science, to work with them on the development of Grass Tiles, a turfgrass system for sports stadiums. McNitt mixed and tested a variety of resilient materials used with sand and turfgrass to create an improved playing field.

"Using the Grass Tiles system, a crew can lay down an entire football field over an asphalt surface, and a team could play on it the next day," McNitt said. On display will be a machine used to install the large, square turf tiles and a special machine used to simulate the wear and tear inflicted on a turf surface during a typical football game.

Hamilton's invention, PennMulch, also marketed for consumers under the name Emerge, created a new product category for lawn and garden centers — pelleted paper mulch. The product uses recycled newspaper fiber and fertilizer mixed with a polymer that expands on contact with water to form a protective mulch over lawns or landscape and vegetable gardens.

Another inventor, Joseph MacNeil, professor emeritus of food science, will display and demonstrate his prototype for a machine that separates the eggshell from the protein membrane coating the interior of the shell. MacNeil's process, which is now licensed and used by Cutler Eggs, a Philadelphia egg-processing company, has been adapted to create value-added products from what were once landfill-bound eggshells.

Once the shell is separated from the membrane, processors can market the calcium in the eggshells and use collagen from the shell's protein membrane for medical products.

Another Penn State innovation, Penn State's Community Impact Model, or CIM-PSU, uses a database of economic information from Pennsylvania's 67 counties to analyze how changes in a community's economy will affect the long-term health of the area. Designed by Tim Kelsey, associate professor of agricultural economics, and Martin Shields, assistant professor of agricultural economics, CIM-PSU can be used by a community to better plan its economic development strategies and react to economic downturns.

Innovation in outreach to new audiences will be on display in an exhibit about a Penn State Cooperative Extension program in Potter County called Community Information Network. The display details how rural communities can utilize information technologies to compete in the global economy by creating a community technology center and using community resources to market the community's resources nationally and internationally.

Another outreach exhibit will detail how Penn State Cooperative Extension and Outreach and Continuing and Distance Education created the Mifflin County Outreach and Cooperative Extension Center, which provides educational and vocational opportunities for the largely rural Juniata Valley, an area that has no college or university within 30 miles of its population. Visitors can see how the new center has provided opportunities for undergraduate and graduate degree programs as well as vocational training and extension education programs.

The College of Agricultural Sciences' Publications Distribution Center will provide a display of college publications. Visitors can pick up a variety of free publications and an order form for the college's for-sale publications.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 10 to August 17 or visit the Ag Progress Days site on the World Wide Web at http://apd-.cas.psu.edu.

Hesston Forage Harvesters

It's no big secret that whole-stalk corn silage produces 40 to 50% more digestible energy over corn harvested as grain.

The big secret is how economically and efficiently you can harvest it with a Hesston® 7155S Forage Harvester

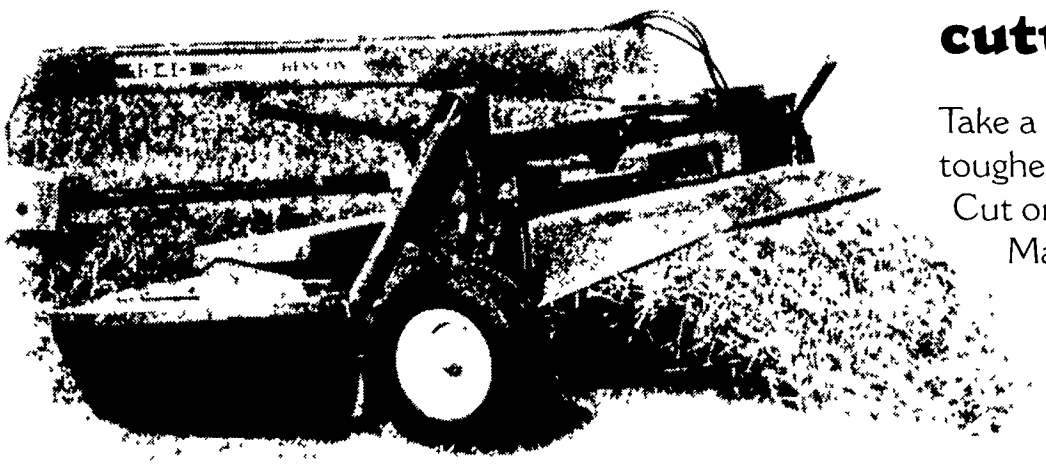
Hesston Disc Mower Conditioners



Cut corners without cutting quality.

Take a 12-foot swipe through your toughest crop. Cut square corners. Cut on either side of the tractor. Maneuver around obstacles You can do it all while making quality hay with the Hesston® 1340 Disc Mower Conditioner.

Hesston Balers

The balers that can.

Thanks to the exclusive Center-Line design, the Hesston® 4550 builds the straightest and squarest bales possible

Saves leaves.

Teamed with Hesston's performed flake concept, leaves are saved and uniformly distributed throughout the bale. The result: high-quality bales that are loaded with nutrition.

4-H Skillathon Aug. 17 At Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Ag Progress Days is also the site of the 4-H Equine Skillathon, here Aug. 17.

All 2000 Pennsylvania 4- H horse club members are invited to compete.

Components of the skillathon are:

- Division 1, horseless, new for 2000. Included are identification stations, a written test, and the contestant must judge one conformation halter class.
- Division 2, with horse. This includes identification stations, a written test, and a showmanship contest.

For the identification stations, subjects may include topics from project books. The written test includes general knowledge of horses, horse-riding ability, and related topics. In the showmanship contest, participants will show their 4-H project horses and be judged according to the current state 4-H horse show rulebook.

For judging, contestants will rank a class of four horses according to ideal conformation standards for the class.

There are three age categories for each division (4-H age as of Jan. 1, 2000): 8-11 years old, 12- 14 years old, and 15-18 years old.

The champion receives a $200 savings bond. The reserve receives a $100 savings bond.

Horseless competition begins at 10 a.m. sharp (registration at 9 a.m.). With-horse competition begins at 1 p.m. sharp (registration begins at noon).

Contestants must be enrolled in a Pennsylvania 4-H horse or horseless project. Participants must use their current 4-H project horses if competing in the with-horse division. Horses must have verification of current negative EIA status (within one year) and rabies vaccination for 2000. These must be presented at registration.

For more information, contact Kathy Brown at (814) 359-2547 or e-mail kathleenbrown@webtv.net.

Dairy Product Per Capita Consumption Increases In 1999

On a milk-equivalent, milkfat basis, per capita consumption of dairy products reached 598 pounds in 1999, the largest amount since the mid 1960s. This was a jump of 16 pounds from 1998 and occurred despite high and volatile prices. The accompanying table shows per capita consumption for selected products.

Per capita consumption of fluid milk and cream remained flat from 1998 to 1999 at 219 pounds. Nonfat dry milk use declined to 3.0 pounds per person from 3.3 pounds in 1998. Per capita use of evaporated and condensed products increased 0.5 pounds in 1999 to 6.6 pounds; ice cream consumption grew 0.2 pounds to 16.8 pounds.

Most of the increase in per capita consumption was due to the 1.5 pound rise in cheese use, the largest absolute increase ever and the largest percentage rise (5.1 percent) since 1982. In 1999, cheese accounted for more 40 percent of total dairy consumption on a milkfat basis.

Total cheese use equaled 29.8 pounds in 1999, this compares with 22.6 pounds in 1985 and 9.5 pounds in 1965. Consumption of American varieties was up 0.8 pounds (6.7 percent) and provided the largest share of the increase. Italian cheese consumption grew 0.5 pounds (4.1 percent); mozzarella growth was 5.4 percent.

Per capita consumption of butter rose 0.3 pounds (6.7 percent) in 1999 to 4.8 pounds. This was the second year that butter use has risen after two years of declining consumption.

Pasto Agricultural Museum
Main St., between East 9th and East 10th Sts.

This year's theme is "The Role of Animal Power in 19th and 20th Century Agriculture." See a daily demonstration at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. of a 1905 mule-powered stationary hay press. Twenty-five horse- and ox-powered farm tools will be exhibited outdoors, including a newly restored manure spreader, a potato sprayer, and a rope hay loader. The First Silent Auction will take place in the tent.

Agricultural Safety and Health Tent (New!)
End of West 8th St., next to Farm Safety Demonstration Area

AgrAbility for Pennsylvanians presents activities on farm safety, modifications for agricultural worksites, and agromedicine. The AgrAbility Project coordinates services to farmers and rural families that are coping with a disability or health condition that reduces their activities on the farm or in a farm-related occupation.

Equine Exhibits Area
Main St., behind the Special Events Building

Displays feature information about equine diseases and undergraduate education and extension programs. Visit the "Ask the Expert" booth daily from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Exhibits also include information on breed and youth organizations, therapeutic riding, horseshoeing, fencing, and other aspects of the commercial horse industry.

Equine Educational Program

Horse Arena, Main St. behind the Equine Exhibits Building

This program emphasizes the $4 billion horse industry's contribution to Pennsylvania agriculture and highlights Penn State's teaching, extension, and youth programs. See 4-H'ers from throughout Pennsylvania compete for savings bonds and ribbons in Thursday's 4-H Equine Skillathon. Various demonstrations will be presented throughout the event. Detailed schedules are available at the information booths. Clinics are subject to change.

Tours

Get free tickets at the corn crib at the top of Main St. Tickets are not needed for conservation tours, but please arrive early at the Natural Resource Conservation Partnership area to be assured a place.

Research Tours
Leave from the corn crib at the top of Main St.

General Research

Get an overview of research conducted by Penn State's Departments of Agronomy, Entomology, Horticulture, and Plant Pathology, as well as the USDA Pasture Systems and Watershed Management Research Lab. Buses leave every 30 minutes from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tours run until 6 p.m. on Wednesday.

Potato Research

See the latest potato research, including variety trials, studies on insect and disease control, and innovative uses of growth-enhancing technology. This two-hour tour departs Thursday at 12:30 p.m.

High-Tunnel Vegetable Production

See vegetables, small fruits, and cut flowers grown in clear, plastic tunnels for natural, early blooms or ripening. This new technique protects plants from light frosts in early spring and fall. Buses leave daily at 12.30 p.m.

Natural Resource Conservation Partnership Tours
Leave from the Natural Resource Conservation Partnership Tent, West 11th St.

Conservation Tour

See practices that protect soil and improve water quality, including crop residue management, contour strip-cropping, buffer strips, cropland terraces, waterways, and diversions. Buses leave daily at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Wetlands and Stream Corridor Management

Learn how stream crossings, streambank fencing, and restored wetlands can help improve your streambank corridors. Buses leave daily at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Forest Stewardship

This walking tour features wildlife habitat improvement and forest ecology, history, and management. Buses to the trail leave daily on the hour from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and every half hour during peak times. Additional tours will be held on Wednesday at 4 and 5 p.m.

Nutrient Management

See a large-scale composting windrow-turning demonstration and learn how you can prevent putting too many nutrients into the soil. Bus leaves daily at 11 a.m.

USDA, State Agricultural Agencies To Demonstrate Warm-Season Grass Grazing Methods

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Beef producers and other livestock managers can see how farms can use warm-season grasses as summer forages at a field demonstration tour at Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

A five-acre switchgrass pasture will be fenced and separated into paddocks as a herd of seven Angus cow-calf pairs graze on the pasture. The grazing demonstration marks the first time cattle have been part of an Ag Progress Days technology tour. The bus tour is scheduled at 2 p.m. daily, leaving from the Soil Conservation Tent at the Natural Resources Conservation Partnership area on West 11th Street.

"It is a hands-on grazing seminar for people who are thinking of developing a grazing program," explained Bill Stout, soil scientist in the USDA Pasture Systems and Watershed Management Laboratory. "We are using beef cows for this demonstration, but the methods and technology can be applied to any grazing animal — sheep, horses, or dairy cows."

The tour will show producers how to estimate how much forage is available to grazing herds, what percentage of forage will be used by the herd, and how much pasture to allocate for a specific time period.

Visitors also will learn how to manage animal herds on pastureland. USDA animal scientist Kathy Soder will talk on grazing animal management principles.

"We also are going to talk about how to structure your pasture so that shade areas, mineral blocks, and water sources are separated enough so that cattle will not congregate in one area," Soder said. "If cattle remain in one place, it can promote disease and parasites within the herd and concentrate manure nutrients."

Three grasslands specialists from USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service — Jim Cropper, J.B. Harrold and Duane Pysher — will talk on how best to use pasture grasses and how to use warm-season grasses to complement an animal grazing program.

Warm-season grasses — which include switchgrass, indiangrass, Eastern gamma grass and big bluestem — grow from mid-May to late August.

"Warm-season grasses can grow in low-fertility soils and have a deep root system that allows them to reach and utilize water that other grasses cannot," Stout said. "Warm-season grasses such as switchgrass contain a lot of fiber, so they are not pasture grasses for high-producing dairy cows, but they can support beef cows."

The one-hour demonstration, which will be held on the USDA research farm opposite Gate C on the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, also will detail how to set up a perimeter fence and create grazing paddocks by using portable electronic fencing.

"The key is to divide the pasture into separate paddocks large enough to support a grazing herd and to know when to move the cattle into a new paddock so that the grasses have a chance to regenerate," Soder said. "Warm-season grasses have been a subject of interest for many beef producers, particularly in the last few years when drought has been a problem in Pennsylvania."

Animal Power At Ag Progress Days

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Six types of domesticated animals provided power for Pennsylvania agriculture and rural home chores in the days before engines and electricity. Visitors to Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17, can learn about them at the Pasto Agricultural Museum.

"Dogs, sheep, goats, horses, mules, and oxen all provided power for farm and home chores," said Darwin Braund, museum curator for Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Dogs, sheep, and goats drove wooden treadmills that operated butter churns and clothes washing machines," he said. "Threshing machines were operated by larger tread mills, powered by horses, mules or oxen."

The contributions of these animals and the machines they powered will be featured at this year's exhibit, "The Role of Animal Power in 19th and 20th Century Agriculture." A rare 1905 mule-powered stationary hay press will be demonstrated daily at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Treadmills and more than 25 pieces of animal-powered field equipment will be displayed in the museum's first-ever outdoor exhibit. The display includes antique tools for haymaking, potato production, plowing, tillage, fertilization, planting, harvesting, transportation, and ice harvesting.

Transportation items include a dump cart pulled by oxen, a small wooden-wheel delivery wagon pulled by a large dog or goat, and a horse-drawn "dog cart" that carried sporting dogs to fields for foxhunts.

New additions to the museum's collection include a 1920 manure spreader, a horse drawn potato sprayer, and a McCormick-Deering rope hay loader circa 1914-1921.

A special display inside the museum will feature a miniature scale model of a five-draft horse hitch pulling a two-bottom plow. On loan from Penn State's department of dairy and animal science, this historic exhibit describes how to hitch five horses so each is pulling an equal load. The exhibit was used to educate farmers during the days when draft horses provided the power for food and agricultural production.

Serving as a hands-on historical journey, the Pasto Museum houses more than 750 antique implements used for farming and homemaking. Visitors can tour the museum during Ag Progress Days and by appointment. Groups of 10 or more can schedule tours from April 15 through Oct. 15 by calling (814) 863-1383, e-mailing pastoag-museum@psu.edu, or visiting the World Wide Web at pasto-.cas.psu.edu.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45. Hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday, 9 a.m.-8 p.m. Wednesday, and 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 10 to August 17 or visit the Ag Progress Days site on the World Wide Web at http://apd-.cas.psu.edu.

Penn State Ag PROGRESS 2000

Visitors Can Take Away A Little Of Ag Progress

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — This year, as farmers and homeowners enjoy the dizzying array of exhibits, machinery and products at Ag Progress Days, they'll find it easier to take a little bit of the exposition home with them.

For the first time in the history of the event, visitors will be permitted to make cash purchases at the individual booths of participating exhibitors. According to Bob Oberheim, manager of Ag Progress Days, it's a small change made for the convenience of visitors and exhibitors.

"For the general public, it's obvious: they get to purchase supplies or farm items as they see them in use," Oberheim explains. "They may see an item that they've been seeking for some time — something that's unique or beneficial to their operation. They can get it as they see it, rather than order it later. Also, it allows exhibitors to immediately recoup some of the cost of their participation in Ag Progress Days."

The change is a continuation of Penn State's desire to expand the Ag Progress Days offerings beyond field demonstrations, Oberheim says.

"Over the last 10 years, we've been working to diversify the show into areas not represented in the past," he says. "We're encouraging exhibitors who deal with many phases of the agricultural community or rural life: equestrians, alternative agriculture, horticulture and farm safety, just to name a few. The goal is to attract exhibitors and visitors who haven't attended in the past."

Exhibitors come from all sections of the U.S. and from Canada, he says. While commercial exhibitors provide much of the operating budget for the exposition, they also help support the youth and family programs, animal shows and homeowner-oriented attractions.

"We want to promote what's new in commercial equipment and services, as well as introduce the latest agricultural technology drawn from university research," Oberheim says. "At the same time, we present important concepts in family living and consumer services."

On Wednesday, Aug. 16, the skid-steer rodeo for tractor operators will return with more manufacturers represented than last year. The general public can register to compete for prizes on a supervised obstacle course in a test of handling skills.

A new feature is the farm equipment show-and-tell, which will allow manufacturers to promote and educate visitors on new or unconventional equipment. A daily afternoon show-and-tell will be devoted to specialty line equipment. Other field demonstrations are planned, including mowing, grain and corn planters (no-till and conventional), and rakes and tedders.

Techniques for growing vegetables in high plastic tunnels, high-moisture hay baling and bale handling will round out the daily demonstrations. Throughout the exposition, workshops and exhibits will provide information on current research-based production technology, government programs and educational initiatives.

NEW! New Holland TND/TNS Tractors 42 to 62 PTO hp

Customer driven design

TND/TNS tractors have the features customers say they need. These tractors outperform and outmaneuver all others in the three-cylinder class. Plus they're loaded with comfort and convenience usually found on much bigger tractors.

Exclusive SuperSteer™ FWD axle makes TNS tractors the most maneuverable all purpose tractors available.

8x8 or 16x16 Synchro Command™ transmissions feature synchronized gears and a synchronized, left hand mechanical shuttle. The 16x16 includes four speeds 1 mph or less.

8x8 or 16x16 Synchro Command transmissions with power shuttle offer clutchless, forward/reverse shuttling for superior operator convenience.

Exclusive Traction Management System (TNS tractors only) automatically engages FWD when and only when you need it.

Four wheel differential lock is electro-hydraulically engaged on TNS tractors for maximum power to ground performance.

Comfortable cab is suspended and pressurized, shielding the operator from vibration, noise and dirt. Heater and A/C, two doors, tilt/telescoping steering, front and rear washers and wipers, and a best-in-class lighting package are standard. Excellent visibility and an overall height as low as 85.1" lets you go places competitive cab tractors can't.

NEW TM TRACTORS

New TM Tractors SMOOTH

The NEW TM tractors from New Holland are smooth performers:

Smooth shifting - Power Command™ full power-shift transmission provides smooth clutch-free gear changes in all conditions.

Smooth turning - SuperSteer™ FWD axle option provides the tightest turning available.

Smooth ride - ComfortRide™ cab suspension and Terraglade™ suspended FWD axle option give you a smooth ride.

Jersey Named Supreme Champion Of Northeast Region 4-H/FFA Dairy Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — Eastmont Donna Jon, an aged Jersey owned by Trisha McIlwain, was the big winner at the Northeast Region 4-H/FFA Dairy Show at the Troy Fairgrounds Monday, July 31.

McIlwain's cow was named the supreme champion after judges Dean Daubert, McElhatten, and Richard Keene, Gilbertsville, N.Y., perused the 179 entries from seven breeds.

In the Holstein show, Christopher Jackson's Ridge-Nook Horace Janet took top honors as the 5-year-old was named grand champion. The reserve grand champion was Du-Mar Broker Larrah, a dry cow owned by Heidi Alderfer.

The junior champion Holstein was PA Gateway Windsor Daffodil, a summer yearling owned by Betsy Hennip. She was followed by Wellwyn Malachite Kate, a winter calf owned by Philip Bachman.

Junior 3-year-old C.M. Ayrshires Novembers May, owned by Amberleigh Yurkanin, was named grand champion of the Ayrshire show. Named reserve grand champion was Amberleigh Yurkanin's fall yearling, Ridge View Daria, who was also the junior champion of the day. The reserve senior champion was Marl-Ayr Trident Peanut, a dry cow owned by Marlesa Coolbaugh. The reserve junior champion of the Ayrshire show was Elm Brook Mays Summer, also owned by Amberleigh Yurkanin.

Biotechnology — The Public Discussion

Terry D. Etherton
Department Head
Dairy and Animal Science
Penn State

The public discussion over biotechnology foods is a luxury the well-fed people of the industrialized world can afford. But in developing nations, where the population is growing while the supply of farmland shrinks, people are grappling with a much thornier—and higher-stakes—dilemma. Unless they can grow more food on less land, they may not have enough to eat.

Agricultural biotechnology is helping to resolve that quandary by making it possible to grow more and healthier food in conditions and places where it could not be grown before. The new agricultural biotechnologies offer a promising hope for producing enough food for a growing world population

According to a recent report by the United Nations, 800 million people worldwide, many of them children, are already chronically undernourished. There is every reason to believe that problem will grow worse. The world's population, which recently hit six billion, could top nine billion by 2050, with most of the growth occurring in nations plagued by abject poverty. Meanwhile, the amount of usable farmland per person could be cut in half As farmers in developing nations clear-cut more land and consume more natural resources to grow the food their mounting populations need to survive, the world faces an environmental dilemma in addition to a humanitarian one.

Innovations in agricultural biotechnology could transform that picture, helping produce food for a growing population while reducing the environmental strain of agriculture. Yet biotechnology is opposed by some activists who claim both to speak for the people it promises to feed and to defend the environment it stands to protect.

Opponents of agricultural biotechnology characterize it as a new, untested frontier. But biotechnology is as old as agriculture itself. Human beings have improved the genetic characteristics of crops for centuries, from cross- and selective breeding by the earliest farmers to Gregor Mendel's 19th Century experiments on pea pods. Today, high-tech science is making it possible to target genetic characteristics more precisely and safely. Because of advances made in science and through the efforts of governmental regulatory agencies we have the safest food supply ever in the history of humankind.

Some of the most important innovations are plants that draw nutrients from the soil more efficiently. As a result, many are able to grow in the tough conditions—such as drought, changing weather patterns and depleted soil—that farmers in the developing world often face Some biotechnology crops may be developed to grow year-round regardless of the season, potentially relieving food shortages in tropical areas Food biotechnology, for example, is already boosting production of legumes, a major dietary staple in the Philippines, Sri Lanka and India Projections say biotechnology could boost food productivity in the developing world by 25 percent overall, helping to feed more people while consuming fewer natural resources.

Agricultural biotechnology could also reduce crop losses to pests and disease, an especially welcome innovation in developing regions like Africa, which lost 60 percent of the 1998 cassava crop—the region's largest source of calories—to mosaic virus. The European corn borer destroys 40 million tons of corn a year, equivalent to the annual food supply, in calories, for 60 million people—approximately the population of France But biotechnology crops can be produced with genetic characteristics that enable them to resist pests and disease, improving crop yields while providing farmers with an alternative to chemical sprays Biotechnology corn, which is already widely used in the United States, produces its own insecticide Research is under way on virus-resistant strains of sweet potatoes and other crops And agricultural biotechnology can also help foods to stay fresh longer by ripening more slowly, a potentially life-saving innovation in developing nations that lack refrigeration.

Biotechnology could help to alleviate malnutrition by making dietary staples more nutritious. "Golden rice," for example, is being produced through biotechnology to deliver higher doses of beta-carotene, the protein the body needs to make Vitamin A. Similar strains of canola and other crops may soon be on the way. Researchers are even working on a banana that would deliver the vaccine against Hepatitis B, potentially replacing costly, often inaccessible inoculations with a locally grown, inexpensive piece of fruit.

The new food biotechnologies are one of the great scientific advances in agriculture. Based on rigorous scientific findings that have been extensively evaluated by regulatory agencies in the U.S., there is no increased risk to the consumer of using these foods compared to other foods in the diet. There are many promising new food biotechnologies being developed. The benefits these confer will be dependent upon the extent to which the public believes they are safe. Based on a recent survey conducted by the International Food Information Council in

National Dairy Shrine Names Contest Winners, Awards Scholarships

James Nichols Named Dairy Shrine Guest of Honor

Dr. James Nichols, Dean of the College of Agriculture at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia from 1975-1994, has been named National Dairy Shrine's Guest of Honor for 2000. This is the highest honor awarded annually by National Dairy Shrine and one of the most prestigious in the dairy industry. Dr. Nichols will receive the Guest of Honor award at the annual awards banquet of National Dairy Shrine on Thursday, October 5 in Madison, WI, in conjunction with World Dairy Expo.

Nicholas, or "Doc Jim" as he was known by his friends, had a major influence on the dairy industry in the state of Virginia. His undergraduate courses in Dairy Cattle Judging and Dairy Cattle genetics provided a solid foundation for those students who wished to return to the home dairy farm as well as those who wished to pursue advanced degrees.

In addition to supporting existing departments at VPI, Dr. Nicholas led the establishment of a new regional veterinary college. He also used legislative and Virginia dairy industry support to build a new dairy cattle teaching and research facility, keeping Virginia Tech a leader of Dairy Production Science.

Student Recognition Winners

The 2000 National Dairy Shrine Student Recognition winners have recently been selected. This year, Heather Oberholtzer, now Hostetter, of Elizabethtown, PA, receives top honors in the contest. A graduate of The Pennsylvania State University, Heather will receive a $1,500 cash award, at the National Dairy Shrine awards banquet held each year during World Dairy Expo. Each year, the National Dairy Shrine recognizes graduating seniors planning careers related to dairy production.

Rebecca Seifret, California Polytechnic State University, received second place; David Harvatine, Cornell University, received third place while Jeremy Daubert, California Polytechnic State University received fourth place.

Whether she is judging dairy cows, chairing a club fundraiser or introducing 600 first graders to a cow for the first time, Heather Hostetter is driven to excel. A recent graduate from The Pennsylvania State University, Hostetter grew up on a 75-cow dairy operation located in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania. From a very early age, Hostetter took an active role on the farm and is especially interested in large dairy management.

Since graduating from college in May 2000, Hostetter has been employed as an Area Territory Representative for Monsanto Dairy Business in Minnesota. The skills gained while majoring in Dairy and Animal Science, along with being active in Penn State Dairy Club, Alpha Zeta Agriculture Fraternity and the American Dairy Science Association will prove useful in her new career.

Since graduating from Cornell University in May, 2000, David Harvatine has been employed with Cargill, Inc., in the Animal Nutrition Division as a Dairy Management Consultant.

In this position, Harvatine will fully utilize the knowledge and experiences gained while growing up on a dairy farm in Thompson, PA, as well as the skills learned from participating in the Cornell Dairy Club, Block and Bridle Club and Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity.

David looks forward to helping dairy producers with herd production, operation management and their outlook for the future of the dairy industry. Eventually, he hopes to one day be the owner of a large, progressive dairy operation.

Originally from McElhattan, PA and raised on a registered Brown Swiss operation, Jeremy Daubert has played a role in every aspect of operating the dairy farm and has enjoyed showing dairy cattle for many years.

Daubert hopes to work on a progressive dairy farm after graduating from college in May, 2000 and hopes to one day have a Brown Swiss herd of his own, while continuing to be a leader and advocate for tomorrow's dairy industry. While at Virginia Tech, Jeremy was a member of the Virginia Tech Dairy Judging team and served as president and treasurer for the Virginia Tech Dairy Club.

Milk Marketing Scholarships Awarded

National Dairy Shrine and Dairy management Inc. also awarded scholarships to students who plan to pursue careers in dairy product marketing.

Gisela Grammel, Wilmington, DE and Sarah Van Orden, Catskill, NY, will be awarded $500 scholarships during the annual National Dairy Shrine Awards Banquet.

A food science major at the University of Delaware, Grammel is busy working on her degree while raising a family. On campus, she is active in the Institute of Food Technologists, Food Science Club, International Student Association and Sisters of Agriculture. Before returning to college, Grammel owned a wholesale bakery, Classic Cheese Company, for five years.

Upon graduation in May 2001, Grammel plans to attend graduate school.

Sarah Van Orden is an animal science-dairy major at Cornell University. She has been active in the Cornell Dairy Club, Block and Bridle, Collegiate 4-H and Collegiate FFA. She has served as Student Livestock Show dairy chair, College of Agriculture Ambassador and National Scholars participant. She worked as the National Brown Swiss Ambassador at World Dairy Expo; a lobbyist for the New York Farm Bureau; an intern at Hill Lawn Farm, a registered Jersey dairy that bottles its milk and home delivers; and as Greene County Dairy Princess.

Upon graduation in May 2002, Van Orden plans to own and manage her own herd of Brown Swiss cattle.

Four Leaders Honored As Pioneers

Four dairy industry pioneers have been selected to receive Pioneer Awards from National Dairy Shrine, the "Hall of Fame" of the dairy industry. This year, National Dairy Shrine is proud to honor the three "Living" Pioneers: Norma "Duffy" Lyon of Toledo, IA; Richard Kellogg of Columbus, OH and Morris Ewing of Tucson, AZ. Also being honored is the deceased George Malcolm Trout.

Portraits of these Pioneers will join the 247 previous Pioneer portraits at the National Dairy Shrine Visitors' Center and Museum in Fort Atkinson, WI.

Perhaps the industry's most innovative promoter, Norma

FOR MAXIMUM LOADING CAPABILITIES

WALINGA SILO-FILLER

The Silo-Filler has been designed to give the user maximum capacity, flexibility and product control. It does not actually "Throw" the product, but blows it gently, using a cushion of air. With the Walinga Silo-Filler, you simply dump from your truck or trailer directly into the hopper, and the transfer auger moves the product up and into the Drop-Thru / Blow-Thru Airlock. The blower then moves the product up the silo pipes. Ideal for blowing high moisture corn into silos, the Silo-Filler is compact, and can easily be moved from one location to another.

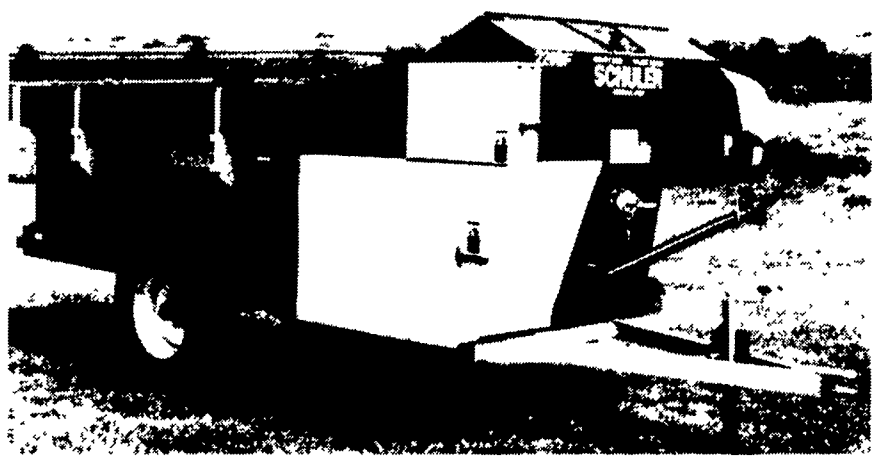
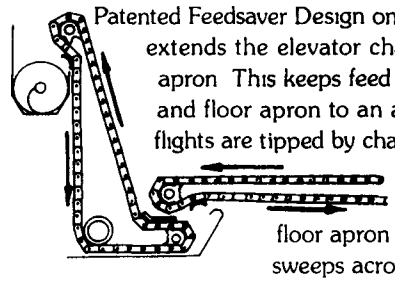
SCHULER "Better Feeders"

Models • 175BF • 220BF

Designed to feed corn silage, haylage and grain rations





Patented Feedsaver Design on Schuler "Better Feeders" extends the elevator chain back under the floor apron. This keeps feed loss between the elevator and floor apron to an absolute minimum. Floor flights are tipped by chain lifters in order to clean apron flights of material that may be lost due to floor apron drag back. Elevator chain sweeps across the bottom of the pan, keeping it clean.

Duffield Lyon, known to her friends as "Duffy," has withstood cool carving conditions in order to warm the hearts of millions — and promote dairy products, namely butter. Duffy's life-sized butter cows have become an institution at the Iowa State Fair, where they have been featured year since 1960. Her butter sculptures have appeared at World Dairy Expo, National Dairy Congress, the International Dairy Show, and the Calgary Stampede as well as fairs in California, Arizona, Kansas, Wisconsin, Maryland, Illinois and Missouri. Duffy discovered her talents by accident, winning a snow-sculpture contest at Iowa State University in 1948 when one judge, Christian Peterson later asked her to study with him.

In addition to her butter sculptures of cows and other figures, Duffy's impact on the dairy industry goes far beyond the crowds she draws. She has been a dedicated spokesperson for the dairy industry through dairy product promotions and a promoter of the Jersey breed.

Dick Kellogg is among the original group of AI Managers who met at Tiffin to establish the organization which became known as the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) of which he also later served as the association's president.

Dick grew up on a Jersey farm in northeast Ohio and attended Blackburn College in southern Illinois. In 1937, he graduated from Ohio State University with a degree in Dairy Science. It was in 1943 that Dick began work as an artificial inseminator in Ashtabula County, Ohio — one of the first non-veterinarians allowed to perform AI on cows in Ohio. Shortly thereafter, he took over management of Northeast Ohio Breeding Association.

Kellogg received a Distinguished Service Award from Ohio State University in 1970 and was presented the Dairy Science Hall of Service Award in 1972. In 1973, Kellogg was honored with the "Governor's Award for Community Action." The American Jersey Cattle Club recognized Dick with an Honorary Membership in 1975 for his meritorious service to the organization and in 1992, he was selected as the third person to be awarded the NAAB Pioneer Award. Since then, he has also been presented with distinguished service awards by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and was inducted into the Ohio Agricultural Hall of Fame in 1981.

Dick and his wife, Lena, reside in Columbus, Ohio and are the parents of two sons and three daughters.

Marlin Hoff Named Distinguished Dairy Cattle Breeder

Marlin Hoff of Coldsprings Farms has been selected to receive the coveted National Dairy Shrine's Distinguished Dairy Cattle Breeder Award for 2000. Marlin and his family milk nearly 700 Holsteins at their dairy in New Windsor, MD. He and his wife, Kathleen, have two sons, Ian, 32, and Matthew, 30. Both also live in New Windsor.

Marlin graduated from the University of Maryland with a degree in dairy science. He returned to the family farm and eventually purchased the entire herd. Over the last three years, his herd has averaged close to 24,000 pounds of milk, 900 pounds of fat, and 770 pounds of protein. Ninety-four percent of the herd is homebred, and 97 percent is registered. The grade cows are used as embryo transfer recipients. Coldsprings Farms has participated in the herd classification program for 37 years. In the last five years, 100 cows classified Excellent and more than 450 scored Very Good.

The herd is milked in a double-20 parallel parlor with automatic identification and milk weighty recording. Marlin still does much of the milking himself. The cows are housed in free stalls; the heifers are kept on loose housing; and calves are put in hutches and go through an extensive vaccination program.

Marlin is well known for his Heart of Coldsprings production sales, which he conducted from time to time when his cull rate was low and surplus females were plentiful. Fresh cows and promising bred heifers made superior genetics available to a variety of dairy farmers. Today, many outstanding Holsteins carry Coldsprings females as a maternal grandam or great-grandam.

Coldsprings Farms has had 625 cows with lifetime production over 100,000 pounds of milk and/or 4,000 pounds of fat and/or 3,000 pounds of protein. Coldsprings Ira Kewpie (EX94), a six-time All-Maryland, produced 216,860 M; 8,634 F; and 7,646 P. Coldsprings Lender Kerk produced 150,000 pounds of milk and more than 50 Excellent offspring. Over the years, Marlin has owned 112 Dams of Merit and 60 Gold Medal Dams.

Pa. State Maple Tour Sept. 15-16

YOUNGSVILLE (Warren Co.) — The 2000 Pennsylvania Maple Tour will be hosted by the Endless Mountains Maple Producers Association Sept. 15-16.

Headquarters for the tour will be the Wysox Fire Hall in Wysox. State directors will meet on Thursday, Sept. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the hall.

The Endless Mountains Association has lined up stops of interest to children and adults. The tour begins with registration from 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. on Sept. 15. Buses will leave promptly at 8:30 a.m. for stops at the Proctor Gamble plant in Mehoopany, Homestead Maple, Back Achers Farm (maple and gift shop), and a soup and sandwich lunch. There will also be time to visit with the vendors after the tour.

The banquet, state Maple Sweetheart contest, and entertainment will be at the fire hall beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Saturday's tour begins at 8:30 a.m. Coffee and cookies will again be available beginning at 7:30 a.m. Visits to Bradley-Mann maple syrup, gift shop, and Christmas tree farm in Mosherville and two other syrup producers as well as lunch in the western Bradford County area are planned.

The cost for both days and banquet is $75. Individuals days are $35 each and $18 for the banquet. Registration is due Aug. 15. A $15 late registration fee will be charged for registrations received after this date.

Final day for any registration is Sept. 5. For more information and registration information, contact Bradford County Cooperative Extension at (570) 265-2896 or e-mail rsh7@psu.edu. Plan on attending the 2000 Pennsylvania Maple Tour.

Biotechnology — The Public Discussion

May, 2000, three out of five consumers in the U.S. believe they will benefit from biotechnology within the next five years. Moreover, the survey reported that 69% of the respondents were more likely to buy foods that had been modified for insect protection and require less pesticide spray. Based on these and other survey results it is evident that the majority of Americans have accepted the benefits of the new food biotechnologies While this is exciting, it is essential that these agricultural biotechnologies be utilized to better-feed people in developing countries where, for many, there is an inadequate food supply available presently.

SMALL-BUSINESS CEOS SHARE SECRETS OF SUCCESS

John Berry
Lehigh County
Marketing Agent

It's easy to know what makes Bill Gates tick or what demons drive Donald Trump. They live their lives in a media swirl, much of it self-invited.

But what about the thousands of CEOs in smaller businesses, the ones who will never be celebrities except perhaps in their home town or in their industry circles? What is it that drove them to the top, what keeps them there, and how has their ambition affected those around them?

Leadership portraits have been developed from a diverse group of businesses and circumstances by engaging small business owners in conversations about what is leadership and life at the top.

So what makes these CEOs run? Some think that the skills and drive for leadership are hardwired into certain people's brains — or as one CEO explains, "I think people climb mountains because they can; they run in marathons because they can. I'm a CEO, because I can. This is just what I do and what I am."

Genetic or not, unusual ambition and an unbending will to succeed are the hallmarks of these CEOs.

For many of these CEOs, values and character are consciously embedded in their leadership. Robert Cutler, from a promotional marketing firm, echoes those thoughts: "As a business leader, you don't do the right thing because bad things will happen if you don't. You do the right thing because it is a reflection of your character and values."

Steve Tobias, who built a $15 million annual shipping container business from scratch, expresses it this way: "If you do what's right, everything will work out in the end. If you fail, you still have your values and your character."

A value that many share is a desire to give back to their employees and to the wider community.

One CEO pays his employees to learn, everything from work-related skills to after-hours book clubs. "If you can spend five percent more of your salary base on education, think of the tremendous benefits — not just to the people, but to the business."

Debra Turpin, founder of a 15-person graphic design firm, speaks of her community commitments this way: "I have been blessed with more than my share of good fortune, and I've never had to ask for anything. I feel I have an obligation to give something back in return."

In the fabric of modern business, the headlines go to the biggest corporations or the splashiest industries.

You can't get to where these folks have gotten without tons of passion. Sometimes that leaves their lives out of balance, especially when it comes to their families. Still, on balance, they come across as caring, generous, and high-mined people, with a sense of purpose that extends far beyond their own success.

Remove Standing Water To Keep Mosquitoes At Bay

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The itch of a mosquito bite is one of the biggest nuisances of summer. But you can reduce your chances of being bitten — and help keep mosquito populations in check — by taking a few simple precautions, said an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Ordinarily, mosquitoes are little more than a mild irritant," said Charles Pitts, professor of entomology. "But because they can transmit diseases to humans and pets — such as West Nile encephalitis, eastern equine encephalitis, and canine heartworm — you should take steps to avoid being bitten and to eliminate mosquito breeding areas."

Mosquitoes breed in standing water. Only female mosquitoes bite, according to Pitts. "In most cases, the female must have a blood meal before laying eggs," he said. "The females' persistent search for blood brings them into houses and yards, where they may become annoying pests."

Many mosquito problems can be traced to containers of water around the yard, such as children's toys, pots and cans, tire swings, animal tracks and clogged rain gutters. Neighborhood breeding areas can include construction sites, trash dumps and cemetery urns or planters. Most mosquitoes remain within a half-mile of where they hatched, but some can fly many miles.

During warm weather, mosquitoes can breed in any puddle that stands for more than four days. "The most effective way to control mosquitoes is to eliminate standing water," said Pitts.

He advises homeowners to:

- Remove old tires, tin cans, buckets, glass jars, toys and other water-catching objects.
- Tightly cover rain barrels to prevent egg-laying. A thin layer of oil will kill mosquitoes already present.
- Change water in bird baths by flushing with a hose at least once a week.
- Fill tree holes with sand or cement or drill to allow drainage.
- Keep rain gutters clean and free of obstructions.
- Drain excess water from flower pots.
- Keep swimming pools covered when not in use.
- Turn over wading pools and wheelbarrows when not in use.
- Empty accumulated water from boats and cargo trailers.
- Clear aquatic vegetation from around the edges of ponds to allow fish to feed on mosquito larvae and pupae.

Pitts said mosquitoes should be excluded from building by keeping windows, doors, and porches tightly screened. "For mosquitoes inside the house, use a fly swatter or an aerosol insecticide labeled for flying insects," he said. "Avoid spraying around food, dishes or eating utensils."

When going outdoors for an extended period of time, insect repellents can provide protection from mosquito bites. "Repellents can protect for up to five hours," said Pitts. "But because people vary in their attractiveness to mosquitoes, the effectiveness of the repellent may depend on the individual."

Before using a repellent or insecticide, be sure you thoroughly read and understand all directions and cautions on the product label, Pitts said.

For a free fact sheet on mosquitoes, contact the nearest county office of Penn State Cooperative Extension, or visit the Web at http://www.ento.psu.edu/extension/factsheets.htm/mosquitoes.htm.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas — The American-International Junior Charolais Association (AIJCA) held their Junior National Leadership Conference June 19-23 in Wichita Falls, Texas. The Multi-Purpose Event Center served as the location for the leadership seminars and educational contests. One hundred and ninety-two AIJCA members from 25 states participated in the weeklong event.

The leadership activities began Tuesday, June 20 with opening ceremonies. A variety of educational workshops were held on topics such as goal setting, determining herd health and information about cattle diseases.

Educational contests were also held throughout the week.

Carrie Rhoades of Bradford, OH received first place in the Senior Poster Contest; second place in the Senior Impromptu Speech Contest; the Elite Gold Award; $1,000 American-International Charolais Foundation Scholarship; the Gold Award; and the Reserve Champion Bred and Owned (females): RCR Cypsee 227, 1-29-99, by JWK Impressive D040 ET.

Emily Rhoades of Bradford, OH received second place in the Senior Poster Contest.

Shenna Kubeja of Springboro, PA received second place in the Junior Prepared Speech Contest.

Timothy VanReenan of Springboro, PA received first intermediate place in the Junior Prepared Speech Contest.

Racheal McCoy of Hillsboro, OH received a $1,000 American-International Charolais Foundation Scholarship.

At the banquet more than $33,000 in college scholarship were awarded to AIJCA members who excell in leadership, community service, academics, and promoting the Charolais breed. This year 44 AIJCA members competed for the top scholarships.

At the meeting, AIJCA members elected their 2000-2001 Board of Directors and Officers.

The Officers are President: Maria Schnitzler, Elizabeth, Ill.; Vice President and Area 8 Director: Jamie Sparks, LaMonte, Mo.; Secretary and Area 7 Director: Jay Watje, Willmar, Minn.; and Treasurer and Area 6: Laci Lehman, Celina, Texas.

The Directors are Area 1: Monette Vessell, Flintville, Tenn.; Area 2: Brittney Bracewell, Elgin, Texas; Area 3: Corrie Vedvei, Lake Preston, S.D.; Area 4: Kelly Sonderup, Fullerton, Neb.; Area 5: Justin Butler, College Station, Texas; Area 9: D.J. Holt, Ozark, Ark.; Area 10: Brandon Bertsche, Flanagan, Ill.; Area 11: Ashley Tungate, Verona, Ky.; Area 12: Carolyn Pritchett, Evergreen, Ky.; Area 13: Cliff Celsor, Lafayette, Tenn.; Area 14: Greg Peck, Mullica Hill, NJ; and Area 15: Kevin Johansen, Syracuse, Mo.

Ag Progress Days: Major Milestones

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has a long tradition of agricultural "field days" dating back to the late 19th Century, when Penn State agricultural specialists traveled to state-sponsored "Farmers Institutes" to demonstrate the latest practices and disseminate research findings and educational information. Following is a brief chronology of events and milestones that have led to the diverse offerings of the contemporary Ag Progress Days:

• 1951 — Grassland Field Days, the true forerunner of Ag Progress Days, is begun by Penn State Cooperative Extension and Penn State's Agricultural Experiment Station. This series of five regional events, highlighting Pennsylvania's strong grass crop industry, is staged like a traveling show, taking place in different parts of the state over a three-month period. Featured attractions include demonstrations of techniques and equipment for pasture renovation and grass crop production.

• Mid-1960s — Corn overtakes grass as Pennsylvania's top crop, but interest in Grassland Field Days continues to grow. The show is expanded to include plowing contests, experimental forage plots and other features. Now renamed Forage Progress Days, this statewide event is held once a year and rotates to different regions of the commonwealth.

• 1969 — As Forage Progress Days continues to grow in size and scope, covering an ever-wider range of agricultural science and technology, it is renamed Ag Progress Days. The first Ag Progress Days is a two-day event held at Fox Chase Farm in Bradford County. Featured are demonstrations of farm equipment and production techniques, commercial exhibits and youth programs.

• 1971 — Ag Progress Days is expanded to three days and held for the first time at Penn State. The site is the university's agricultural research center at Rock Springs, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

• 1976 — Ag Progress Days is conducted at Rockspring for the second time. Because the logistics and infrastructure needs of the event have become too complex and costly to stage the show in a different location each year, the university's agricultural research center becomes the permanent site.

• 1978 — The Pasto Agricultural Museum is dedicated at the Ag Progress Days site.

• 1991 — Equine events and exhibits take place at Ag Progress Days for the first time.

• 2000 — The 32nd annual Ag Progress Days exposition takes place at Penn State's Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, Aug. 15-17.

Conservation Exhibits Feature Grazing And More

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farmers and non-farmers alike can explore an array of workshops, demonstrations and daily tours related to natural resources at Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

"This year's line-up in the Natural Resources Conservation Partnership Area includes new tours on water quality, and grazing and pastures." says Stacy Mitchell, state public affairs specialist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service. "The grazing tour will highlight new research on how grazing management can help farmers economically by reducing the pressure to buy feed."

Grazing management is particularly important during droughts, Mitchell explains. To complement the tour, visitors can check out a large plot of different types of grasses. "Planting cool- and warm-season grasses in a grazing system allows farmers to extend their grazing time," she says.

At the Graziers Forum, daily at 11 a.m., farmers from across the state will share their experiences on how grazing benefits their land. This forum is an excellent opportunity for farmers to get ideas from other farmers who have experience with different conservation practices.

Living demonstration areas include watering systems for livestock, waste management systems and solar panels for fencing and pumping water. Plant experts will be on hand to answer questions about site requirements and benefits of nearly every plant in the northeast.

Homeowners may be interested in an exhibit on backyard composting that features various containers and techniques. A backyard conservation garden, built by Blackhawk Homestead of Centre Hall, will showcase plants that hold soil in place, buffer surrounding noise and provide wildlife habitat.

Worm tanks will provide a "window to the underground" that shows worms in action, improving soil quality. Mitchell recommends visiting this exhibit in the morning, when the worms are most active.

At 2 p.m. daily, representatives from the USDA Grain Inspection, Packers and Stockyards Administration will answer questions about their role in the livestock and poultry industry.

Children as well as adults will learn from the "stream table," an exhibit that demonstrates how various activities affect streams. "Building a house on a stream may cause the water to cut into the bank," Mitchell says, "but adding plantings and conservation practices might help to reduce the erosion. In this exhibit, you can make the changes, turn on the water and see what happens."

Kids also can practice casting for their next fishing trip, see mounted wildlife specimens, use their sense of touch to guess items that affect soil and water quality and make fish prints from rubber models of Pennsylvania fish.

Visitors who take this year's conservation tour or wetlands and stream corridor management tour will see a newly planted forested riparian buffer. The buffer demonstrates how tree plantings protect streams by filtering out sediments and nutrients. Trees also shade the water, keeping it cool and oxygenated. The schedule of daily tours includes:

Conservation. See practices that improve soil and water quality, including crop residue management, contour strip-cropping, buffer strips, cropland terraces, waterways and diversions. Buses leave at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Wetlands and stream corridor management. Learn about how stream crossings, stream bank fencing and restored wetlands can improve stream bank corridors and water quality. Buses leave at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Forest stewardship. This walking tour will feature wildlife habitat improvement and forest ecology, history and management. Buses to the trail leave on the hour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. On Wednesday, an additional tour will be held at 5 p.m. Participants should dress comfortably.

Nutrient management. Watch a large-scale composting windrow-turning demonstration and learn how you can prevent putting too many nutrients into the soil. Bus leaves at 11 a.m.

Water quality. A portable rainfall simulator will show how soil management and fertilizer or manure applications can affect phosphorus loss from the soil. Buses leave at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Grazing and pastures. See the effects of cow/calf pairs on warm season grasses in an introduction to intensive grazing. Bus leaves at 2 p.m.

Federal and state agencies, organizations and private industries participate in the Natural Resource Conservation Partnership area, including the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission, the USDA Farm Service Agency, the USDA Grain Inspection, Packers and Stockyards Administration, the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, the Department of Environmental Protection's Division of Conservation Districts and Nutrient Management, the Department of Environmental Protection's Bureau of Recycling and Waste Management, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, Blackhawk Homestead and Canaan Valley Institute.

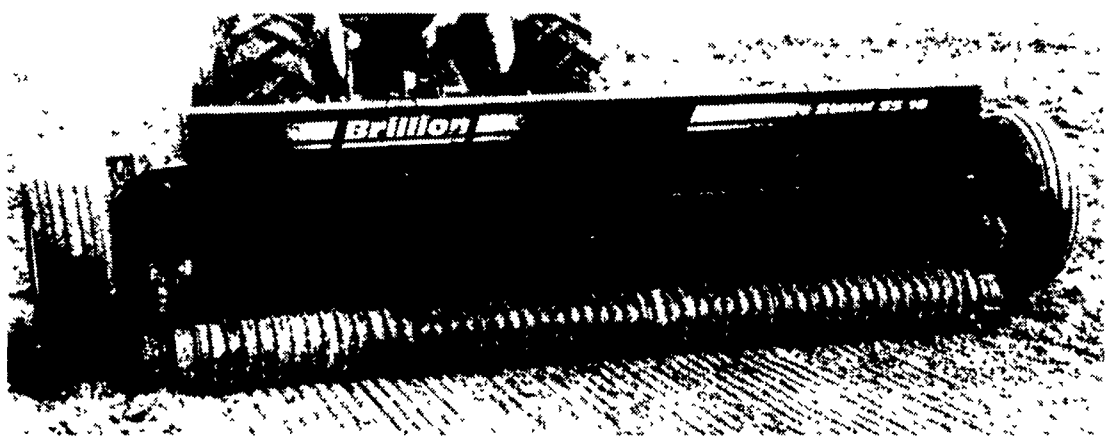
Sure Stand Grass Seeders



THE ERGONOMICS OF USING A BRILLION "SURE STAND" SEEDER

Grass seed is a very expensive commodity. By properly placing the grass seed in the top 1/2" of a properly prepared seedbed you will realize maximum seed germination.

Because of Brillion's precision placement of the seeds, seeding rates can often be cut to nearly half of the rates previously used. In many cases the savings in seed alone will pay for a "Sure Stand" Seeder in just a short time.

Don't risk your crop to another system. Don't settle for less Use the one seeding method that you can depend on to produce a top stand time after time...a Brillion Sure Stand Seeder

Compaction Commander

What makes a KINZE 3000 Planter stand head & shoulders above the competitive crowd?
Let's count the ways...

1. The deepest manufacturer's discounts in company history! HUGE SAVINGS! Ask about low rate finance options.*
2. The traditional easy access, superior servicability and incomparable narrow transport! 6, 8, 12, 16 row planters travel roadways at 11'6".*
3. The new 3000 Series row unit has stood the test in rough & rocky no-til challenges this spring. You can purchase your new KINZE planter with utmost confidence.*
4. Resale value on 2000 Series planters is climbing consistently year-to-year. The demand for the best in used planters means now is a great time to trade up!*
5. Service after the sale is our guarantee! We put our name and reputation on the line to keep your planter running!*

Twin-Line® Planters
...from the field to the road in seconds

KINZE's Exclusive Rotating In-Line Transport: the only system that offers you narrow transport on large planters equipped with narrow row Interplant® or fertilizer options As narrow as most tractor duals

The unique, patented hydraulic "lift & rotate" system features a rugged, heavy-duty stainless steel clad center post (on both 3500 and 3600 models) which rotates on large tapered bearings seated at the base of the post. (Model 3400 uses a parallel linkage system with dual lift cylinders)

- UHMW plastic pads glide up and down against the smoothly machined surface. Absolutely no lubrication is required. (3500 and 3600)
- A self-contained counter-balance valve in the lift cylinder provides additional safety when the planter is in the raised position The planter will not lower without hydraulic pressure from the tractor (3400 and 3500)
- A Spring-loaded latch/hook secures the planter while it's in the fully raised position by locking the toolbar in place (3600)

Pasto Museum To Conduct Silent Auction At Ag Progress Days

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Penn State's Pasto Agricultural Museum will conduct a silent auction during Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17, to help generate funds to preserve the rich heritage of agriculture and rural living.

Proceeds will benefit the Penn State Ag Alumni Endowment for the Pasto Agricultural Museum.

So far, more than 40 items have been donated for this first-time auction, according to Darwin Braund, volunteer curator.

Items include a John Deere lawn tractor, special edition F-20 Farmall toy tractors, a year's supply of Penn State Creamery ice cream, meat from the University Meats Lab, sought-after Penn State College milk bottles, antique tools and signs, a ton of Agway textured calf-starter, dinner at The Tavern restaurant in State College, a pedal tractor and doll bed painted and accented in Penn State Nittany Lion colors, and ten units of Holstein bull semen.

Items for the young and young-at-heart include collector's dolls; T-shirts with butterfly and insect motifs; "Got Milk?" shirts, hats, and glasses; "Bizarre Bugs" books; framed artworks; a framed 1936 "Sheep and Wool Map of the World"; a 100 Mhz Pentium computer with components; and a volleyball signed by the 1999 NCAA National Champion Penn State Women's Volleyball team.

A hand-carved matching pair of draft horses depicts the museum's current theme, "The Role of Animal Power in 19th and 20th Century Agriculture." Carved by Don Ace, professor emeritus of dairy and animal science, the team is complete with leather harness and is hitched to a wood beam walking plow in an active plowing scene.

Donations for the auction catalogue will be accepted through June 30. For information and donor forms, call the museum office at (814) 863-1383. Items from individuals should have a minimum value of $50 and from companies, a $100 value.

Auction items will be on display at Ag Progress Days, Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 15-16, in the tent beside the museum. Bidding will close promptly on Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Successful bidders can pick up their items after payment is processed Wednesday evening or make arrangements for shipping.

For more information, contact Darwin Braund, volunteer curator, 236 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 863-1383.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 10 to Aug. 17 or visit the Ag Progress Days site on the World Wide Web at http://apd.cas.psu.edu.

Research Plan Meets Consumer, Industry Needs

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Dairy farmer-funded research is making major breakthroughs in meeting consumer and food industry needs to expand demand for milk and its many components, according to Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI).

"We've always said milk is nature's most nearly perfect food," says Bill Haines, vice president, business to business marketing for DMI. "Thanks to farmer-funded research, we are finding out how true that is, as we find new uses for the proteins and other components of milk."

Ongoing dairy farmer-funded research programs include developing ways to improve product performance, flavor and storage life of domestic cheeses; improving quality, taste and appearance of lower-fat milk products; improving consistency, functionality and stability of milk and whey proteins and identifying new uses for dry ingredients; and developing and improving ways to enhance dairy product biological and chemical safety.

According to Haines, dairy farmers are working with industry partners to develop new product applications and identify additional market needs for these dairy products and ingredients.

American Dairy Association Middle Atlantic (ADA/DC Middle Atlantic) and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) work together with the national promotion group, Dairy Management Inc. to gather information from all parts of the dairy industry," says Haines.

These research efforts address the needs of dairy processors, cooperatives, food manufactures, academic researchers, nutritionists and health professionals, he adds.

Farmer-funded research also helps the dairy industry better understand the nutritional and functional attributes and the composition of dairy products, and, most important, how dairy can fit into the lives of consumers and the business of food manufacturers, says Haines.

One research success story is how dairy has made improvements in the appearance and appeal of fat-free milk. "Consumers associate the appearance of full-fat milk with quality and freshness and want those same characteristics in lower-fat versions. Researchers have developed ways to improve the appearance of lower-fat milk, leading to increased consumer demand," says Haines.

Cheese research successes include the development of domestic varieties, such as Havarti, lower-fat Cheddar, Baby Swiss and Queso Blanco, to compete with imported cheeses. Other successes include improving the melting functions of pizza cheese and enhancing natural cheese flavors to better meet consumer needs.

Penn State Uses 'Zero Waste' Composting At Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Everyone knows how messy it can be cleaning up after a catered lunch. Researchers at Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17, will be composting every bit of waste — including tableware, cups and trashbags — from two special event luncheons during the first two days of the event.

The composting project is part of a demonstration by the Organic Materials Processing and Education Center (OMPEC), a collaborative effort between the College of Agricultural Sciences, the Office of Physical Plant and Housing, and Food Services. All waste, including biodegradable place settings, napkins, cups and plastic bags, will be collected after each luncheon and brought to a composting demonstration site near the Conservation Tent.

"We call this 'Zero Waste' composting because absolutely nothing goes to the landfill," said Gina Rao, OMPEC coordinator for the project. "The biodegradable table settings and plastic products all are manufactured by Biocorp Inc., which will demonstrate that communities can use these type of products to reduce institutional and household waste."

Rao said the Ag Progress Days demonstration is part of a larger year-round composting project that uses food wastes from Penn State dining halls, leaf litter from University Park's 12,000 trees and manure from College of Agricultural Sciences livestock to create a value-added product that can be used on the university's landscape plantings.

"Right now we are composting kitchen waste from seven dining halls, the Nittany Lion Inn, and the Penn Stater Hotel and Conference Center at a three-quarter-acre site on University farmland," Rao said. "By next year, we hope to expand operations to a six acre site and compost waste from all the dining halls and the HUB."

Visitors to Ag Progress Days can see the "OMPEC Lounge," located in a tent next to the Headquarters farmhouse. The rest area will feature flowers planted in OMPEC compost, benches, visual displays of the project, and composting literature.

At 11 a.m., visitors can take a compost demonstration tour at the Conservation Education area and see how compost piles are mechanically turned over. A demonstration of how compost is screened to remove other wastes also is part of the tour.

Rao said the compost produced by the OMPEC project has been used to renovate flower beds at the Penn State Trial Gardens and to rejuvenate compacted soil around construction sites on campus. The compost also is used in a research project on soil renovation at the Penn State Living Filter fields.

Farm Safety On Farm And Highway

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When you're stuck behind slow-moving farm machinery on a busy rural highway, it's easy to forget that the driver is working with complex — and sometimes hazardous — equipment. That's exactly the point of a special presentation on farm equipment safety to be held at Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

Representatives of the Northern York County Regional Police Department, based in Dover, Pa., will present "Farm Equipment on the Highway: How It Applies To You," which looks at important aspects of farm vehicle safety, both on and off the farm. Officer Thomas McCune, who created and conducts the presentation, says the purpose of the training is to help farmers and others appreciate that combines and tractors are very powerful equipment that must be handled with skill and great care.

"We want to give farmers and non-farmers insight into how farm vehicles should be used on the highway, and the regulations and restrictions that apply to the vehicles," McCune says. "Also, we offer safety tips for operating trucks, tractors and other special-purpose vehicles on the farm."

McCune will review traffic laws pertaining to farm tractors, trucks and other farming implements. For instance, the fee for farm truck registration is less than that for standard vehicles, but the truck has to be used exclusively on the farm or for produce or commodities dealing with the farm. "You can't take your family down to the beach in a truck with a farmtruck license," he says. The presentation updates farmers on rules that have changed over time and clarifies some gray areas.

Robert Oberheim, manager of Ag Progress Days, says he learned of the farm equipment safety program through the enthusiastic endorsements of commercial equipment exhibitors. "We're always looking for new and interesting topics for Ag Progress Days," he says. "I'm pleased about their participation."

The presentation will be held at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday in the College of Agricultural Sciences Exhibits Building Theater on Main Street, between West 9th and West 10th Streets (near the farmhouse), and on Thursday at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the adjacent College Building Tent.

Land O'Lakes Showcases Services for Dairy Producers at Ag Progress Days

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Land O'Lakes, Inc., a farmer-owned cooperative, will participate in the 32nd annual Ag Progress Days held at Rock Springs, Pa., on August 15 through 17.

Land O'Lakes will showcase its System Service and Dairy Business Service programs for dairy producers. Both of these programs are designed to help Land O'Lakes member-owners and other dairy farmers be more progressive and efficient in their dairy operations.

Land O'Lakes System Service provides farmers with milking equipment analysis, individual component testing, milking time evaluation, and environmental analysis. Through Systems Service, farmers can take advantage of a milking technician school and other programs offered by Land O'Lakes.

Land O'Lakes Dairy Business Service offers farmers assistance in three areas — Dairy Pro Services, Dairy Development, and Dairy Accounting & Financial Monitoring. Dairy Pro Services help producers improve efficiency, increase profitability, and lower financial risk. The Dairy Development Services are ideal for producers who are expanding.

The Land O'Lakes exhibit will be part of more than $20 million worth of agricultural machinery, equipment, supplies and services that will be displayed during the three-day event.

Innovations For Livestock Housed In One Place

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As biosciences, computer technologies and other innovations impact every phase of animal agriculture, it gets tougher for livestock and dairy producers to keep up. Producers who want to stay current should visit the Animal Agriculture Tent and facilities at Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

The exhibit, sponsored by Penn State's departments of dairy and animal science and veterinary science, organizes the best available technologies to make them accessible to farmers and producers, according to Bill Heald, professor of dairy science and exhibit coordinator.

"We're highlighting the best of the new and the old, to help farmers sort out what's available," he says. "There are so many new inventions and initiatives, sometimes it's good to have an expert there to help you decide what's a real innovation, and what's a flash in the pan.

"We want the animal industry to show us what they're doing and have the opportunity to ask the experts for advice. We can discover what the producers want, they can see what we have to offer, and we can forge a relationship to improve Pennsylvania's agriculture industry."

A great example is the hog odor remediation exhibit in the Animal Sciences facility. Developed by Penn State researchers Kenneth Kephart and Robert Mikesell, it's a comparison of several technologies for controlling odor emissions from swine and other livestock facilities. Visitors can talk with the experts about the relative strengths of each system and consider the factors that would make a system most effective for a particular location.

Even the building housing the exhibits is innovative. Called an "animal greenhouse," it's a low-cost and surprisingly sturdy farm building that uses a metal tubing frame and plastic sheeting to fulfill all of the functions of traditional wood-and-steel barns at a fraction of the cost.

A new addition is a display from the Dairy Alliance, an innovative partnership between Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, Penn State Cooperative Extension and dairy producers to enhance the economic development of the Pennsylvania dairy industry through focused educational efforts. The alliance helps individual farmers with issues of labor and business management, information technologies and nutrient management.

The popular Youth Skillathon and Lamb Show returns with a new wrinkle on Wednesday, Aug. 16 at the Junior Livestock Exhibition Ten. Pennsylvania 4-H and FFA members in four age groups will test their knowledge about lamb production in multi-phase competition that includes a showmanship competition, a written test and a series of identification stations, followed by a traditional lamb show. This year, 4-H and FFA members with lamb projects can compete without showing an animal.

Other displays address the dynamics of milk market pricing, milking machine testing and improvement, and opportunities in undergraduate education.

"BETTER", to the employees and engineers at Mueller, means constantly improving our already great products. We have added convenience to our tank washer system by attaching the motor to the side of each milk

cooler smaller than 3,000 gallons. At the same time, we have added quality by installing the

in the industry. Mueller's tank

one-of-a-kind design which more

Field Day Proves 'Tree-Free' Paper Products Possible From Kenaf

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — Under a tent in the pouring rain recently, Mississippi State University Agronomist Brian Baldwin held up a packet of tissues with some Japanese writing intermixed with English.

The English was clear: "We Love The Earth." Japanese writing indicated the product was made from kenaf.

Kenaf is a fiber crop and a renewable raw material that can be used in a variety of household products.

Its use is almost unparalleled in paper products.

Why is it so popular in Japan? Because, Baldwin said, a Japanese federal mandate dictates that 20 percent of all paper products in use must be "tree-free" by the year 2002.

Strict clean water standards require that paper production be less "dirty," Baldwin noted. With kenaf, there is little waste because the kenaf paper doesn't require bleaching.

Baldwin spoke at the 7th annual farm field day recently at the Steve Groff Family Cedar Meadow Farm near Holtwood.

One grade of kenaf (pronounced ka-NAF) produced from the long fibers in the bark of the East Indian hibiscus plant is used to make pulp paper, used in newsprint (such as this newspaper). The whole stalk kenaf is used for pulp for newspapers — not the highest quality. The purest kenaf ("bast") goes into making book and letterhead-grade paper. Baldwin provided samples of Crane letterhead paper made with bast at the field day.

Some product (two-thirds, which is the core) goes into making fiberboard and other molded products, noted Baldwin.

But the Japanese use kenaf in fast food wraps — even coffee filters. "The Japanese are great at doing this," Baldwin said.

An economically viable crop, of which 15,000 acres are soon going into full-scale production in South Carolina, a variety called Tainung II seems the most economically feasible, according to Baldwin. (That variety leaf also bears a resemblance to the Marijuana plant leaf.)

The seeds are supplied from Mexico and south Texas.

Baldwin works on a project, begun in 1989, on kenaf product development research. The project, which began with 3,000 acres, includes 1,000 acres in Mississippi (from a high of 6,000 acres in 1993, Baldwin noted). Interest in kenaf peaks when newsprint paper goes up — and kenaf producers can find markets.

The high-grade kenaf is used in letter quality paper. The paper is about 50 percent kenaf and 50 percent cotton — the same combination used in making ball caps. One ball cap on display with kenaf was produced for the MSU Bulldogs. The cap was manufactured in the U.S. by Strohm Manufacturing, Clarksdale, Miss.

Other household products on display at the field day included burlap made in Guatemala; "Lizard Litter," for snakes, tortoises, and arachnids, made in Charleston, Miss.; "Delta Dri," small animal bedding, also made in Charleston, Miss.; and fiberboard with laminated wood layers. Ford uses kenaf in pressed car panels. Some kenaf is mixed with plastics or resin to be molded to any shape.

The kenaf-based newsprint is acid-free, so it won't yellow over time. Even with lower-grade

Pulp paper can be manufactured from the shredded whole stalk of kenaf, shown here.

A fiber crop leaf, Roselle, has the classic hemp leaf look.

Ed Herrmann, Solanco Young Farmer Association adviser, checks out the Tainung II variety of kenaf during the Groff field day.

Field Day Proves 'Tree-Free' Paper

newsprint, less ink is necessary — providing some cost savings for larger newsprint users.

The largest number of kenaf acres is located in south Texas in the Rio Grande Valley. Producers are trying to build a paper mill to handle kenaf processing exclusively in the U.S.

About 19 scientists are involved in research. Baldwin is a leading researcher with kenaf at the Mississippi Agricultural and forestry Experiment Station out of Mississippi State University.

Federal money was provided to conduct uniform variety trials. Eight varieties are under study in the program including three new American varieties. The varieties include one resistant to fungus.

The scientists are also working on varieties resistant to powdery mildew and zonate leaf spot. Zonate leaf spot (which comes from hickory trees) infects soybeans — and the kenaf can't be rotated to many plants to ward off the disease.

Also, nematodes, such as the root knot nematode, are a challenge to the plant. Correct rotation to kill nematodes, such as planting sunn hemp, must be employed.

Kenaf fiber is from the croatalaria family, a legal crop, according to Ed Herrmann, Solanco Young Farmer Association adviser. The crop is not to be confused with the illegal cannabis sativa.

Kenaf grows well on soils low in CEC (cation exchange capacity), Baldwin noted — sandy soils common to the Delmarva Peninsula. Kenaf is planted when soil temperatures are 60 degrees and rising.

Baldwin noted that the Northeast U.S. is at the "limits" of adaptation.

There are no seed treatments labeled for use of the crop. The crop emerges about 3-5 days from seeding.

The crop is harvested after frost-kill (about Nov. 1 in Mississippi). The crop can only be harvested with a forage harvester — a silage cutter without an auger, Baldwin said. (The dense and long fibers can wind up around the auger). The fibers can also get caught up in a rotary cutter. A forage harvester with a Russian-made Kemper header can work well. The material is blown into a silage wagon.

Row widths can range from 30 to 38 inches. But varieties perform best in the 14-inch range, a 20 percent increase in harvest from 38-inch wide rows, according to the kenaf researcher.

Though the agronomist has tested row widths from 14, 21, and 28 inches to 38 inches, 14 inches seems idea. The researchers are experimenting with 7-inch rows this year.

Grass weeds can be especially challenging in the field. A cotton herbicide is sometimes used. And kenaf can be susceptible to morning glory and cocklebur. Morning glory can wrap up stalks.

At harvest, stalks measure about 1-½ inches wide and are as light as balsa wood. Harvest is when moisture is below 20 percent.

Mississippi State University Agronomist Brian Baldwin, in rain gear, holds up a kenaf stalk. Pulp paper can be made out of the bark. The wood is light, like balsa.

Harvest is about 6 to 6-½ tons per acre at a price of $50-$55 per ton. (A 6-ton yield is still considered poor, however, noted Baldwin. Paper processors want the harvest at 7 tons per acre nonirrigated and 10-½ tons irrigated.)

In a study, Baldwin noted inputs before harvest at $180 per acre. That includes pesticide, fertilizer, seed, fuel, and other costs.

A preemergence pesticide can be used. The kenaf requires only 125 pounds of nitrogen per acre per year — that's it, he noted. Yet there has been some plant response to higher levels of potash, because kenaf "is a desert crop," Baldwin said.

This year, Mississippi crop yields are down because of the severe drought. "We're 25 inches off in rain this year," said Baldwin. "The drought is killing us right now."

Pulp processors have been reluctant to adopt kenaf because it is lighter, not as heavy as the wood chips they're used to. But kenaf is a renewable crop that doesn't take decades of management that regular wood products used in paper productiond do.

Baldwin noted the Mississippi Delta Fiber Cooperative has been established to obtain markets for the product.

For more information about kenaf, contact Baldwin at (601) 325-8862 or e-mail at bbaldwin@pss.msstate.edu.

The fiber crop project was put together with help from the Solanco Young Farmers Association. For more information about the plot, contact Ed Herrmann, adviser, at (717) 786-2151, ext. 1453, or voice mail at ext. 2072.

Straight Through Design - The Dion Advantage

All crop entering the harvester is cut, processed and blown all in a direct line, which improves harvesting capacity while slashing energy consumption. The "straight through" concept ensures a smooth, uninterrupted material flow that will deliver even the most stubborn haylage or silage directly to the back of your wagon.

Couple this unique Pull-Type harvester design concept with a "Corn Cracker" option that loses no crop capacity running through the rolls, and you have capacity equal to or better than many self propelled harvesters.

West Nile Virus Website Expanded

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Visitors to Pennsylvania's West Nile virus website — http://www.WestNile.state.pa.us — now can get weekly updates on the statewide mosquito surveillance effort; ask questions on an interactive message boards; and get detailed instructions on how to handle dead birds that could be infected with West Nile virus.

"Although the West Nile virus has not been found in Pennsylvania, birds carrying the virus have been found in New York and New Jersey," Health Secretary Robert S. Zimmerman said. "Through our website and our toll-free information line, 1-877-PA-HEALTH, we have been keeping Pennsylvanians up to date on the latest West Nile virus news."

A DEP representative involved in the surveillance program will answer questions live from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday on the message board. People can post messages 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"Internet users can find information such as the number of samples taken in their county, test results and what their county is doing to sample and control mosquitoes," DEP Secretary James M. Seif said. Zimmerman said, "Also on the website are detailed instructions on how the handle and collect dead birds. Groups of dead birds, especially crows, can be an indication of West Nile virus. If you see a group of dead birds in an area, please contact us so we can do testing."

Zimmerman said residents can call the toll-free information line, 1-877-PA-HEALTH, 24 hours a day if they have questions about how to handle dead birds. Direct assistance is available from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and a Department of Health representative is available for emergency cases at other times.

The West Nile virus can spread to people and animals through the bite of an infected Northern house mosquito. Mosquitoes acquire the virus from infected birds. Previously, the virus only was found in Africa, Eastern Europe and West Asia. West Nile virus, when transmitted to people, can cause West Nile encephalitis, an infection that can cause an inflammation of the brain. Older people have the highest risk of developing severe illness because, as people age, their bodies have a harder time fighting off disease. People with compromised immune systems are at risk. However, anyone can get the virus.

You can reduce the number of mosquitoes around your home and neighborhood by reducing the amount of standing water available for mosquito breeding.

Pa. State Plowing Contests Set

MANCHESTER (York Co.) — The Pennsylvania state plowing contests will be conducted on the Rentzel farm, one mile north of the square in Manchester on Rt. 181, in conjunction with Olde Tyme Days.

There will be a seminar on plow adjustment Thursday, Aug. 24 at 1 p.m. State plowing matches in small and large will begin at 10 a.m. Friday, Aug. 25. The open class will begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 25. The state antique plowing match is 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 26.

There will also be horse and garden tractor plowing competition. There will also be flea markets, antique equipment displays, tractor pulls, and many other activities on the grounds.

Anyone interested in participating in any of the plowing matches or would like more information, contact Robert Miller at (717) 692-2443 or Robert Rentzel at (717) 266-4490.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Adapting To Life On Concrete

Editor's Note: The following is adapted from the Hoof Trimmers Association Newsletter.

Modern dairy cattle evolved from nomadic animals that walked on resilient, yielding surfaces. Dairy producers first confined cows on dirt or generous amounts of soft bedding. Reports indicate that even in these early confinement settings, cows' hooves did not wear properly. The next development in dairy housing confined cows in stanchion barns during adverse weather to avoid the wet and dirty conditions associated with most outside dirt lots. In the summer, cows were almost always pastured and seldom experienced major foot and leg problems.

Recently, economic pressures have forced many dairy producers to intensely confine cows even more. Freestall housing systems are popular today because they can provide a quality cow environment while minimizing the amount of bedding and labor required, compared to other loose housing systems.

Confining cows in freestall barns means they almost always stand or walk on scraped or washed concrete alleys during each lactation, or possibly even their entire adult life. Sometimes resting surfaces are also constructed from concrete, so cows get little reprieve, especially if the stall is inadequately bedded or incorrect dimensions discourage or even prohibit them from lying down.

Many producers and scientists rapidly accepted intense animal confinement despite the lack of adequate data on its long-term effects on cows. Today, the industry continues to embrace this housing system even though there has been little progress in cow comfort and health relative to flooring surfaces in this country.

However, in Europe where animal welfare is a primary concern, foot and leg health has attracted significant attention and has driven their scientists to look more closely at the impacts of hoof contact surfaces.

Concrete Damages Hooves

Cows should ideally lie in stalls for about 14 hours a day, according to various experts. This then means they will stand or walk about 10 hours per day. Cows are motivated to walk to consume food and water, and seek companionship, shelter, resting space and sexual partners. Dairy producers make cows walk to and from milking, sorting and treatment areas.

Moderate walking is good for cows, according to Dr. Albright of Purdue University. He suggests cows need to walk two to 2.5 miles per day to keep healthy and exercised.

Concrete causes hoof damage two ways, from its abrasiveness and the repeated concussion from its unyielding nature. European researchers have found that excessive walking on abrasive concrete can lead to over-worn soles that become soft and bruise easily, and excessive standing reduces blood flow in the hoof, deteriorates hoof health and leads to hoof lesions.

Concrete floors that are roughened or textured to prevent slippage can excessively wear hooves in cases of over exposure, whereas non-grooved smooth floors simply do not offer sufficient traction.

There is a fine line between a concrete floor surface that is too rough and injures cows from high exposure rates and its abrasiveness, and one that is too smooth and causes injury because of inadequate footing.

Experience has shown that the floor finish is often the biggest mistake made during barn construction. David Bray of the University of Florida reported in 1998 that rough finished floors speed hoof wear up to 20 percent, with cows being culled due to lameness within three weeks of occupying a new barn.

North Carolina State University (NCSU) research indicated that the hooves of cows confined on new abrasive concrete wore 35 percent more than control cows housed on dirt. NCSU also reports that the hooves of all cows confined on a new concrete surface with no special surface preparation wore more than they grew for the first two months of exposure.

Like people, foot and leg stress increases for cows when they stand on concrete for extended periods of time. Dr. Chuck Guard, veterinarian of Cornell University, reports that dairy cows' claws are commonly shaped in less than desirable forms and these misshapen claws will experience extreme localized pressures from the unforgiving concrete. This high pressure significantly damages the underlying hoof structures. Dr. Bee and others of the United Kingdom reported that herds fed low levels of concentrates with poor concrete surfaces and low freestall use saw a high incidence of sole ulcers and white-line disease.

Water Quality Concerns Will Affect Reprieve From Concrete

Many producers who have confinement facilities recognize the stress cows endure from standing on concrete and consequently, try to give cows a reprieve by moving them to managed-grass areas or earthen lots during the dry period. Studies have shown this is beneficial to foot and leg health. However, this practice may not be sustainable.

Environment policy in the United States is now concentrating on new regulations to protect the nation's water resources from point source (wastewater discharge from a pipe) and non-point source (surface runoff) agricultural pollution.

These regulations will significantly impact dairy cattle housing. Most producers probably will not be able to allow their cattle to freely use intensive exercise lots unless they collect and treat surface-water runoff.

I believe due to the economic and environmental factors, many producers who have not already done so will opt to expand the level of confined housing to include their entire herds and forgo constructing and operating expensive rainwater runoff collection and treatment systems for exercise areas.

This will happen despite research by Drs. McDaniel and Hahn and others at NCSU that shows providing a break from concrete during the dry period for confined cows is beneficial to overall foot and leg health.

Consequently, researchers and industry investigate new flooring surfaces to better meet the cows' and dairy producers' needs. Ideally, floors must provide confident footing for the cow and caretaker alike, but cause minimal foot and leg problems for the cow. Also, floors must be affordable and durable.

Alternative Surfaces Key To Lifelong Confinement

Concrete is an attractive flooring choice to builders because it is durable, economical, easy to place, conforms well to irregular areas and can be finished in various ways that provide some level of traction that is usually acceptable to dairy producers. But it is very unyielding and contributes to lameness. Dr. Guard suggests barn floors should be surfaced with something other than concrete and that, combined with routine hoof trimming, may prevent many cases of severe lameness.

USDA Issues Federal Milk Order Forward Pricing Pilot Program Rules

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dairy farmers will have a new, voluntary tool for marketing their milk used in non-fluid products.

USDA has issued final rules to implement a dairy forward contracting pilot program for milk marketed under the Federal milk marketing order program. The pilot program will be in effect for milk marketed Aug. 1, 2000, through Dec. 31, 2004.

Under the new program, handlers may enter into forward contracts with dairy farmers or cooperative associations to buy milk that will be used to make nonfluid products such as butter, powdered milk, cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. For milk covered by forward contracts, a handler will not be required to pay dairy farmers the mandated minimum Federal order price. Instead, dairy farmers and handlers will agree to a price as specified in a forward contract. The pilot program is voluntary and intended to offer an additional marketing tool for dairy farmers.

"We hope this new program will be a positive experience for dairy farmers," said Kathleen Merrigan, AMS administrator, "but it is important that producers understand this program is voluntary and that they still have the provisions of the milk marketing order program if they do not choose to forward contract. AMS will be monitoring all aspect of contracting under this pilot program to ensure that dairy farmers are not adversely affected."

To help dairy farmers become familiar with forward contracting, USDA has prepared a tip sheet of guidelines for contracting, which must accompany any contract offered to a producer by a handler. The contract must also contain a disclosure statement which, when signed by the producer, acknowledges that the producer received the USDA tip sheet. In addition, initial contracts may not be written for a period longer than 12 months. Both the signed disclosure statement and a copy of the contract must be submitted to the appropriate milk market administrator to be considered eligible for the pilot program.

Any handler participating in the pilot program will still be subject to all other provisions of an order and must submit all required reports, including reports of receipts, milk utilization reports, and monthly payroll reports that show how much milk was received, how it was used, and the prices paid for that milk.

Handlers participating in the pilot program will also have to keep, and make available to market administrators, such records that verify and establish the handler's obligations under the order. Handlers will be required to submit a copy of each forward contract, together with the disclosure statement signed by a producer or cooperative association, to the market administrator.

Frequently asked questions and answers, and a fact sheet explaining the program are available on the AMS web site at http://www.ams.usda.gov/dairyand are also available from market administrator offices. The final rules will be published in the July 18 Federal Register.

DO YOU WELD? READ THIS!

When we formulated the Versalloy™ #33 line of welding alloys we had two objectives... to make maintenance and repair welding simple and cost effective. With Versalloy™ #33 we have achieved these objectives - with room to spare!

Versalloy™ #33 is the most versatile, easy-to-run, mild steel electrode available today. Repair welds can be executed beautifully (No matter what the position) by farmers, shop mechanics and do-it-yourselfers who have minimal welding experience. As one of our customers put it, "If you can strike an arc, Versalloy™ #33 will do the rest!"

Versalloy™ #33 consistently yields higher quality, higher strength (80,000 PSI) weld deposits than standard, off-the -shelf welding electrodes. All this and self-releasing slag, too! Why not call us and give it a try?

Quality isn't expensive... it's priceless!

New Inventory Of Penn's Woods To Begin

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Are the trees in Penn's Woods growing faster than they are dying or being cut? Are wildlife habitats changing in Pennsylvania?

The USDA Forest Service Northeastern Research Station's Forest Inventory and Analysis Unit, in cooperation with the DCNR's Bureau of Forestry, are researching these questions by conducting the fifth inventory of Pennsylvania's forest resources.

In response to state, industry, and other users, a new state-level annual inventory system has been developed to monitor health and sustainability of forest ecosystems across the United States. The system uses a three-phase approach: satellite image classification of the entire state, a ground sample and a more detailed ground subsample for forest health issues.

A key feature of the new approach is the measurement of 20 percent of all field samples annually. These changes will help identify changes in Penn's Woods more quickly.

In May 2000, Forest Service crews collected field data from 968 randomly chosen 1/6th-acre plots throughout the state. This translates to one plot for every 29,700 acres. This process will be repeated in each of the following four years until a total of 4,839 plots is established. The plots will be remeasured on a five-year cycle.

The six crews are located at the DCNR's Bureau of Forestry offices in: Clarion, Clearfield, Duncansville, Long Pond, Middletown and South Williamsport.

When the forest inventory is completed, the results will describe the extent of Pennsylvania's forestland, the volume and quality of timber on forestland, and on recent trends in growth, mortality and timber removals.

Data are also being collected on wildlife habitat, responses of trees to climate change, as well as insect and disease problems.

The inventory also includes two sets of questionnaires. The first set will be mailed to a sample of forestland owners. The owners of approximately 2,900 forested plots will receive questionnaires dealing with their reasons for owning forestland and present and future uses of the land.

The second set will be sent to the timber products industry. Levels of industrial wood production will be compared with previous inventories to determine trends in the demand for wood products.

Earlier inventories were conducted in 1958, 1968, 1978 and 1990. Periodic forest inventories provide data to be used in planning natural resource programs on national, state and local levels. The results from all five years will be published in 2005.

Cultivated Blueberry Producers, Importers Approve National Promotion Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Producers and importers of cultivated blueberries have voted to approve a national promotion program. The vote was taken in a referendum conducted by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service from March 13-April 14.

"The cultivated blueberry industry has recognized that a mandatory national promotion program is a valuable marketing tool," said Kathleen L. Merrigan, AMS administrator. "Industry members will fund their self-help program to increase market efficiency, develop new markets and marketing strategies, and enhance the image of cultivated blueberries in the United States and abroad. We will work with them to help them meet their goals."

In the referendum, 67.8 percent of those who voted favored implementation of the order. Those who voted in favor represented 73.2 percent of the volume of cultivated blueberries represented in the referendum. Any current producer or importer of 2,000 pounds or more of cultivated blueberries during the 1999 calendar year was eligible to vote. The program will become effective 30 days after final publication in the Federal Register.

The promotion program will be administered by a council of 13 members under USDA supervision. Council members will be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture from nominees submitted by the industry. USDA will begin the nomination process soon after the Blueberry Promotion, Research, and Information Order becomes effective. For more information, contact Oliver L. Flake at (888) 720-9917 (toll free) or e-mail oliver.flake@usda.gov.

The program will be funded by an assessment of $12 per ton of domestic cultivated blueberries and $12 per ton of fresh and processed imported cultivated blueberries starting in 2001. The program is the second to be implemented under the Commodity Promotion, Research, and Consumer Information Act of 1996. A program for peanut producers was implemented in July 1999.

Since the referendum was announced earlier this year, the U.S. secretary of agriculture has received information that the official title of the new program for cultivated blueberries may cause confusion in parts of the blueberry industry, since native blueberries are not covered by the program. Therefore, soon after the new program becomes effective, the secretary will issue a proposed rule to seek comments on changing the title of the program to clarify that the program covers only cultivated blueberries and cultivated blueberry producers and importers.

Wisconsin Breeding Herd

SHEBOYGAN FALLS, Wis. — Elm Park Farms, Ltd. of Sheboygan Falls, Wisconsin was recently honored through their association with two "Wisconsin Cow of the Millennium" winners, recognized at the Wisconsin. All Breeds Convention in Oconomowoc, Wisconsin by the Wisconsin Holstein Association and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture. Elm Park Farms was the only breeding farm in Wisconsin associated with two of the Seven Wisconsin Millennium winners.

Recognized as the Wisconsin Cow of the Millennium Red and White Winner was Nandette TT Speckle-Red, owned by Elm Park Farms. Known around the world as a successful Red and White show cow herself, Speckle-Red was scored Excellent-93 and holds the show titles of All-American Red and White in 1981 and 1984, as well as the Grand Champion of the Wisconsin Spring Show in 1984.

At the age of four years and eight months, Speckle-Red produced 25,290 pounds of milk in 365 days, consisting of 4.7 percent butterfat and 3.5 percent protein, statistics impressive even by today's standards. Speckle-Red has proven to be an extraordinary brood cow as well, boasting 11 Excellent offspring.

The Wisconsin Holstein Cow of the Millennium, Gene-Acres Felicia May Fury was owned by Felicia May Associates, of which Elm Park Farms was member-/manager. Felicia May was bred by Allen Hetts of Crescent Beauty Farms and was sold to the syndicate in 1974 for $80,000. Elm Park Farms then served as the managing partner of Felicia May Fury until the time of her death in 1981.

Felicia May Fury was clearly a cow to admire, and deserving of the Cow of the Millennium title. Nominated All-American six times, Felicia May Fury was the 1974 All-American Aged cow and she was the Holstein Champion World Dairy Expo in 1974, as well as being named Supreme Champion that same year. Her confirmation was confirmed with her classification of Excellent-97-5E.

Felicia May Fury's best production record was produced at the age of seven years and seven months, with 32,176 pounds of milk in 365 days, consisting of 4.2 percent butterfat, and contributing to a total of 227,830 pounds of milk produced by her during her lifetime. She is the dam of 13 Excellent offspring and continues to set the standard for outstanding type, production, brood cow quality and longevity for all dairy breeds.

It's All About Horses

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Whether serving as a source of industrial power, a means of transportation or domestic pets, horses have a central position in Pennsylvania culture and lore. These powerful and graceful animals also occupy a prominent role at Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

"We're trying to inform the public of new information in the equine industry and highlight Penn State's teaching and extension programs," says Pat Comerford, extension horse program coordinator and organizer of Ag Progress Days' Equine Educational Program. "Because horses are involved in so many varied functions of our society, visitors will be treated to a potpourri of activities. There's something here for everyone, from the most casual passerby to the professional equestrian."

This year's program features the return of a popular activity from past events. Experienced horse handlers Brian Egan, horse program assistant for Penn State Cooperative Extension, and Ward Studebaker, manager of the university's horse herd, will conduct horse-handling demonstrations with Penn State horses at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 15 and at 1:10 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 16.

"We're reinstating these clinics after several years, because they were so informative," Comerford says. "Our experts demonstrate basic horse handling techniques and skills, and explain how and why these skills are used."

The intricate riding techniques of dressage will be presented at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 15. "These are very high-level maneuvers that require great coordination and training of horse and rider — almost like gymnastics on horseback, Comerford says. "They're very intricate and subtle, and it takes a highly trained horse to do dressage correctly."

A highlight of Wednesday's events will be high-speed performances of barrel racing and pole-bending, beginning at 6 p.m. Instructors will explain how horses are trained for the high-speed racing events, then offer a demonstration. Earlier in the day, a trainer will demonstrate sheep dog herding techniques.

On Thursday, Aug. 17, the Ag Progress Days/Pennsylvania Quarter Horse Association Youth Equine Skillathon will start at 11 a.m. The skillathon is a multi-phase competition that allows young equestrians to demonstrate their skills with a horsemanship competition, a written test and a series of identification stations.

"This year, we've added a division for 4-H members without horses to compete, so they'll show their overall knowledge instead of showing an individual horse," Comerford says. "We're also having a clinic on 'Preparing the Showmanship Horse,' which explains how you can train a horse to do showmanship maneuvers."

Penn State veterinarian Nancy Diehl will answer horse care and health questions at the "Ask the Expert" booth each day from 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the Equine Exhibits Building. She also will take part in "Insect-Borne Diseases" workshops at noon and 3 p.m. each day in the College of Agricultural Sciences Exhibits Building Theatre on Main Street.

Breed clinics throughout the event will present the history, uses and unique aspects of quarter horses, Freisians, Haflingers, Paso Finos, Hanoverians and trottingbreds.
